HOUSE READY TO VOTE 21-3 MORE BILLIONS COSTS

Hopkins to Get 1½; Raise WPA Pay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—With the administration steamroller working like a high geared army tank, the house late today, after only two days of debate, approved a bill carrying more than 2½ billions of dollars in new appropriations for the New Deal program. A formal roll call on the bill will be taken Monday.

The measure provided approximately 1½ billions for the work relief program of Harry Hopkins, ace administration spender. Eleven and one half billions have previously been appropriated for the relief of unemployment under the régime of President Roosevelt and the total, when the bill passes the senate, will be 13 billions in a little more than 3 years.

Ickes Loses to Hopkins.

Harold L. Ickes, administrator of the public works program, thus lost another battle to Hopkins, who has shown more skill at spending money quickly. Ickes last year fought for an equal portion of the 4 billions granted by congress, but President Roosevelt delegated the major portion of that fund to Hopkins.

The most important amendment permitted to be added to the bill by the house leaders was one submitted by Representative William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.], providing that the prevailing wage in communities be paid to WPA workers. The Hopkins organization will pay out approximately the same sum per man per year, it was explained, but will work the men only one, two, or three days a week where they formerly worked four, five, and six days each week.

Connery, in a speech to the house, predicted "bloodshed" unless the prevailing wage clause was adopted. The same amendment was beaten last year in the senate after a long and protracted battle which delayed adjournment. The amendment is expected to have easier sailing in the senate this year because of the fear of angering labor before election.

Bar Jobs for Illegal Aliens.

In a surprise move the house also voted to bar aliens "illegally within the limits of the United States" from receiving jobs under the WPA program. Most of the opposition came from two radicals, Vito Marcantonio of New York City and Gerald J Boileau of Wisconsin.

The amendment, providing that no alien who has illegally entered the country shall be "knowingly" carried on the work relief rolls, was approved 136 to 19. A more drastic amendment, which would have barred all persons who had not applied for their first citizenship papers from WPA benefits, was defeated, 93 to 45.

The administration of the WPA thus far has been conducted without regard to the citizenship status of the relief recipient. Approximately 3 million aliens are on the relief rolls in the United States today, according to estimates. The amendment will affect only a comparatively small number of aliens who will be unable to prove that they entered the United States legally.

Other Changes Beaten.

All other amendments were crushed by the big Democratic majority. Parliamentary tactics were employed to prevent a vote on the proposal of Representative Arthur F. Beiter, New York Democrat, to earmark approximately 350 millions of the 1½ billions for the Public Works administration of Ickes.

A "point of order" to the amendment was sustained by the chair on the ground that it violated the legislative rules of the house. The leaders feared to permit this amendment to be voted upon, although in a Democratic caucus last night only 53 Democrats voted for the amendment. With many members absent, a combination of these Democrats and the Republicans might have succeeded in putting the amendment into the bill, it was pointed out. The amendment would have been a rebuke to the boondoggling methods of Hopkins if added to the bill.

Beat Slap at Tugwell.

Another amendment designed to stop further allocation of work relief funds to the rural resettlement administration to Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell was defeated vocally. Representative Ralph E. Church [Rep.,

BRITISH PLANES SPEED SOLDIERS TO HOLY LAND

New Riots Between Jews, Arabs Feared.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 8.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said tonight two companies of infantry totaling 300 men were sent to Palestine as reinforcements for troops at Jerusalem and other cities.

The soldiers left in Royal air force planes. They are to be added to existing British police forces in the Holy Land to guard against further outbreaks between Jews and Arabs. A detachment of tanks is to be sent to Palestine tomorrow from Alexandria.

[An announcement in London said the reinforcements were sent after a request for additional troops had been received by Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope, high commissioner for Palestine. The normal Palestine garrison of British troops consists of 1,970 men of all ranks, including two battalions of infantry totaling 1,766 men.]

Move to Preserve Order.

JERUSALEM, May 8.—(AP)—Emergency measures were invoked today to preserve order following the decision of 150 Arab leaders to launch a campaign of civil disobedience, including a rigid boycott of everything Jewish.

Fearing disturbances, the government ordered the discontinuance of trafic between Jaffa and Tel Aviv. Barbed wire barriers were erected at several places in Jaffa, and to prevent demonstrations military forces were moved up from Sarafend.

Police ordered fellaheens [peasants] in the suburbs not to enter Jerusalem and Jewish officials who work in the predominantly Arab city of Jaffa were instructed not to report to work.

Burn Jewish Factory.

A Jewish owned envelope factory at Atlith was set on fire.

Arab prisoners in chains, serving terms at hard labor in Nor Shemsh, near Tul Karem, proclaimed a strike in solidarity with the Arab strike against Jewish immigration and sale of land to Jews.

Arab leaders prepared to launch a propaganda drive tomorrow throughout Palestine for continuation of the strike if the government did not yield to their demands for restrictions on Jews and for setting up a national government.

The civil disobedience campaign is scheduled to go into effect next Friday, according to the decision of the Arab supreme council, and will include nonpayment of taxes. The conference voiced a challenge to High Commissioner Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope. Numerous government offices were transferred from Jaffa to the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv.

Break King's Will.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 8.—(AP)—The Egyptian parliament tonight rejected nominations by the late King Fuad of three regents to rule the country with the new King Farouk, 16 years old, until Farouk attains his majority.

The parliament named an entirely new list of members for the regency council after it was discovered King Fuad's list had been written in 1922 and one of his suggested regents had since died. It also proclaimed Farouk king.

The new regents approved by the parliament are Prince Mohammed Aly, heir presumptive to the throne; Aziz Ezzet Pasha, for many years Egyptian minister at London, and Cherif Sabri Pasha, an uncle of the new king.

King Fuad's nominations included former Premiers Tewfik Nessim Pasha and Adly Yeghen Pasha and Mahmoud Fakhri Pasha, former disarmament conference delegate, and a son-in-law of the late king. Adly Yeghen Pasha has died.

Pilotless Balloon Rises 20 Miles; Record Is Claimed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 8.—A world's altitude record was claimed today for a pilotless balloon which ascended twenty miles over Stuttgart. The balloon was released by Prof. Regenir of the Stuttgart Technical High school. It was equipped with instruments for measuring cosmic rays.

[Soviet authorities claimed a small balloon sent up from the Novosibirsk meteorological station last April 8 reached a height of more than twenty-six miles.]

Mystery Man Sues Litsinger Over Brewery

Attorney Edward R. Litsinger, former member of the board of review, professed last night to be mystified by a suit brought in the Superior court by F. J. Parker, who is trying to make Mr. Litsinger give him "half" of the Roosevelt brewery at 2646 Arthington street.

"It is just a pipe dream," the attorney declared. "I think I know who this Parker is, but I never had any dealings with him. I don't know what it's all about."

The identity of Parker himself was something of a mystery. In his suit, which demands an accounting of the Roosevelt Brewing company's affairs, and the handing over of half the stock to him, he was described as an engineer, 42 years old, residing at 3270 Lake Shore drive.

Address, too, Is Indefinite.

At the 3270 Lake Shore Drive building it was asserted that Mr. Parker had departed three months ago. A doorman remembered him only as a gentleman who was in the brewing business, and suggested that he might be found at the Lake Shore Athletic club. At the club it was said Mr. Parker was a member and came in frequently, but no one knew his present address.

One of the guesses made by Mr. Litsinger was that this Parker might be the Frank J. Parker who was known during the prohibition era as "the airplane bootlegger." Other persons said it might be some other Parker.

Harry A. Biossat, one of the Parker attorneys, averred that he had met his client only a few months ago and was not familiar with his previous history.

Relies on Oral Agreement.

In his petition Parker asserted that he entered a verbal agreement with Attorney Litsinger on April 20, 1933. Under this contract, it was alleged, Parker was to find a site for a new brewery. Attorney Litsinger was to finance the business, and he and Parker would be partners on a 50-50 basis.

The petitioner advanced the claim that he found the site, the old Ruehle brewery of pre-prohibition days, but that Attorney Litsinger forgot the agreement and purchased 4,940 shares of the stock of the new company [$500,000 in all was issued] in the name of Eugene Cary Jr. The par value of the stock is given as $10 a share. Cary is Mr. Litsinger's son-in-law and president of the Roosevelt Brewing company. The Parker suit demands half of the Cary holdings, as well as a share in the profits made thus far.

ACID THROWER RUINS EXPENSIVE DRESSES AT OPERA IN LONDON

LONDON, May 8.—(AP)—The Daily Mail said tonight a special squad of detectives from Scotland Yard mingled with crowds at the Covent Gardens opera, searching for an acid throwing maniac who has ruined the costly dresses of more than a dozen women since the season opened.

The newspaper said the acid thrower picks out the most expensive dresses with an expert eye, and probably ejects the acid from a contrivance like a fountain pen.

Two recent victims were members of a party which included Princess Helen Victoria and Princess Marie Louise, cousins of King Edward, the Daily Mail stated. It said the two persons suffered slight burns and had to be treated by a physician.

RICH WIDOW HIRES TEN AIRPLANES TO PROTEST HANGING

LONDON, May 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Violet Van der Elst, Great Britain's militant opponent of the death sentence, hired a fleet of ten airplanes today and announced plans to deluge Strangeways jail at Manchester with 100,000 anti-capital punishment pamphlets during the execution of Dr. Buck Ruxton, "Devil's Beef Tub" murderer, next Tuesday.

"All the police in Manchester can't stop me this time," said the wealthy widow, a plump blonde.

Mrs. Van Der Elst has demonstrated repeatedly at hangings, usually "picketing" the prison in a sumptuous limousine equipped with a loud speaker. Four thousand persons have signed a reprieve petition for Dr. Ruxton, who was convicted of killing and dissecting his wife and nursemaid and throwing the remains in a Scottish ravine known as the "Devil's Beef Tub."

French Ship Rescues 8 on Plane Forced Down at Sea

MARSEILLES, May 8.—(AP)—The French steamer Elbiar tonight rescued eight persons from a French seaplane forced down on the Mediterranean, south of the Balearic Islands. None was injured. The seaplane sent a call for assistance. She carried four passengers and a crew of four.

9 More Quakes Recorded on N. California Seismograph

Mineral, Cal., May 8.—(AP)—Nine earthquakes of undetermined location were registered today, bringing to 23 the number recorded on the Lassen national park seismograph in northern California since Wednesday. Nine were of major intensity.

Judge's Auto, Bumped from Rear, Kills 1

A crash of automobiles, one of which was driven by Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller, caused the fatal injury of a pedestrian early today at Lake Shore drive and Roscoe street.

The victim, who died soon afterward in the John B. Murphy hospital, was Henry Nelson, 20 years old, 815 Newport avenue, an employé of the Commonwealth Edison company.

George Ader, 33 years old, 5528 Kenmore avenue, driver of the second car, and Joseph Casper, 556 Wellington avenue, who was riding with Ader, were held by the Town Hall police and taken also to John B. Murphy hospital, where an intern tested their sobriety with scientific instruments. The intern, Dr. C. J. Somers, reported that the men had been drinking, but was noncommittal on whether they were intoxicated.

Judge Tells of Accident.

Judge Schiller said that he was driving north on his way to his home at 4434 North Manor avenue when the accident occurred. With him were his wife, Mrs. Florence Schiller, and his sister, Mrs. Rae Krivo, 4159 North Mozart street.

"I had stopped for a stoplight," the judge said. "When the light changed from red to yellow two men pedestrians were in front of my car. I was waiting for them to get out of the way when the car was struck heavily from the rear and hurled forward. The car in the rear continued to push mine after one man—the other leaped aside in time to escape injury—was struck. I should say he was dragged about 100 feet."

Claims He Misjudged Speed.

Ader and Casper said that they had seen the light change and believed the judge's car was moving and that they started forward. According to Ader, the accident was due to his misjudging the speed of Judge Schiller's car.

"Casper and I had been out looking for a plumber tonight," he said, "and didn't find him. A short time before this accident we had some drinks in a beer flat on Wellington avenue."

Pope to Plead for World "Pacification of Peoples"

VATICAN CITY, May 8.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI. will plead for a general "pacification of peoples" when he opens the International Catholic Press exposition next Tuesday, prelates said tonight. He will declare, the church officials asserted, that the gathering of many nationalities around him constitutes an example of the peace and fraternity which should be followed by the nations themselves.

Son of Broker Gets Ten Days as Tipsy Driver

Robert Carter, 28 years old, 22 Bellevue place, the son of Lord Rodman Carter, former president of the Chicago Stock exchange and now a member of Leslie, Carter & Co., brokers, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell yesterday for driving while intoxicated. The sentence was imposed by Judge Gibson E. Gorman in the Safety court.

Carter, who began serving his term at 1 p. m. yesterday, is the second Chicagoan of prominence to receive a jail sentence on trafic charges in the last two days. On Thursday Judge Gorman sentenced A. A. Sprague Jr., son of the co-receiver for the elevated lines, to ten days in the Bridewell for reckless driving.

Carter was arrested Thursday night at Clark street and Diversey parkway and taken to the Hudson avenue station. There he broke away from policemen and fled. He was recaptured at Wells street and North avenue. He admitted having drunk some beer a while before in Lake Forest, but denied that he was intoxicated.

Gets Thirty Days in Jail.

Shortly after Carter was sentenced yesterday Judge Gorman ordered Bernard M. Stone, 45 years old, 846 East 52d street, a sign painter, to the Bridewell for 30 days for leaving the scene of an accident. It was one of the severest sentences imposed in the recent drive on trafic offenders.

Policemen testified that on April 25, while Stone was backing his car from an alley near 53d street and Kimbark avenue, he struck and injured Joan O'Connor, 4 years old, 1311 Hyde Park boulevard. Stone then fled, the police said.

Stone testified that the little girl leaped up quickly and ran away after she had been hit. He failed to find her and waited ten minutes at the scene before driving away, Stone said.

Carter and Stone were handcuffed together after the sentences were passed and they were put in a patrol wagon shortly before 1 p. m. In the wagon were ten men convicted for drunkenness.

Upon arrival at the Bridewell Carter was assigned to clerking duties in the receiving room and told to clean up the room in his spare time.

Dons Big, Stiff Shoes.

Carter was then ordered to disrobe. Three dollars in cash and two pawn tickets were taken from his pocket. An orderly from the medical office examined him, and he was sent to the showers. Then he was given a suit of brown denim and large, stiff prison shoes.

Stone was sent to the carpenter shop for duties there.

Carter was crestfallen and fearful that he would lose his job as golf goods salesman with the O. D. May company, 37 South Wabash avenue, in which George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears football team, is interested. Halas said, however, that the job would be held open. Carter's parents did not comment on the case.

In Judge John Gutknecht's Trafic court nearly 300 cases were disposed of yesterday. Most defendants paid small fines. Steve Liebespeck, 23 years old, 4455 Wells street, a WPA worker, was fined $25 for using a relative's license plates on his car. He could not pay and went to jail.

OCEAN CROSSED BY HINDENBURG IN RECORD TIME

Germany Now Only 61 Hours Away.

BULLETIN.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 9 (Saturday).—(AP)—The Zeppelin Hindenburg arrived over the airfield of the naval air station at 4:50 a. m., eastern standard time, and began circling the field preparatory to being moored. It was flying about 150 feet above the ground. The ship had appeared over New York City at 4 a. m., and cruised for 18 minutes over the financial district, Broadway and Central park. It then turned southwest and headed for Lakehurst, where it was sighted 25 minutes later. Sailors and marines were lined up on the landing field to aid in mooring the big craft. It touched ground at 5:12 a. m. The Nazi swastika flew from the vertical fin.

[Copyright: 1936: By the Associated Press.]

Aboard the zeppelin Hindenburg, en route to the United States, May 8.—Capt. Ernest Lehmann, master of the Hindenburg, predicted tonight the giant German zeppelin would reach New York by 3 a. m., eastern standard time, and would land at Lakehurst, N. J., before 4 a. m.

At midnight the airship was about 200 miles off New York, traveling at 60 miles an hour.

A brisk east wind which came up late in the afternoon, giving added speed to the huge airship, caused Capt. Lehmann to advance his estimated landing time.

Although expressing regret that the Hindenburg would not fly over New York in daylight so that she might be better observed, he said it was important to achieve fast time.

Broadcast to U. S.

The passengers enjoyed themselves participating in a broadcast to the United States.

If the Hindenburg reaches Lakehurst at 4 a. m. tomorrow, she will have established a new trans-Atlantic record of 60½ hours, at an average speed of better than 70 miles an hour. This is a day faster than the Los Angeles' time and 33 hours better than the Graf Zeppelin.

Lehmann, voicing the belief earlier that the airship would arrive at Lakehurst by 5 a. m., announced:

"We have advised the ground crew at Lakehurst to be ready at 5 a. m., but previously we expect to fly over New York for an hour."

Weather Is Bright.

The Hindenburg flew over the muggy gulf stream today in bright weather, with the temperature rising.

By common agreement most of the passengers took naps in their cabins directly after lunch. They realized they would probably be up all night as the giant ship sighted the United States.

The dirigible's radio station was besieged with newspaper correspondents and passengers, many of whom were trying to notify relatives and friends of their prospective arrival.

Mass Said Aboard Ship.

The saying of mass for the first time on an airship required special papal permission. It was explained that the papal nuncio in Berlin granted it to the Rev. Father Paul Schulte, who used a portable altar.

Lieutenant-Commander Scott Peck of the Lakehurst naval air station expressed the opinion that the Hindenburg's excellent progress was bound to renew interest in lighter than air craft.

Emerging from the control cabin where he has spent most of his time on the trip, Peck said: "If the Hindenburg successfully negotiates a series of flights at Lakehurst it is very likely that several commercial airships will be built in the United States."

Expect Easy Landing.

Lakehurst, N. J., May 8.—(AP)—As the dirigible Hindenburg raced through clear skies toward its landing base here tonight Lakehurst naval air station officers said the weather forecast for early tomorrow morning was "perfect" for the landing operation.

Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, commandant of the station, ordered removal of the decommissioned Los Angeles to give the landing crew more space to handle the Hindenburg, largest craft of its type ever built—813 feet long and 146 feet high.

The old ship was towed from the hangar by the Mobile mooring mast at 9:30 p. m., leaving only the navy's [all metal] blimp in the mammoth shed.

Radio Busy with Press.

The station had expected to establish direct radio contact with the Hindenburg at 8 o'clock but was unable to do so because the ship's radio was being utilized for transmission of press matter. Officers hoped to begin an exchange of messages about midnight.

The 11 o'clock weather forecast by Lieut. Howard T. Orville indicated the surface wind would be southwest and at a velocity of five knots. Officers said this would be "down hangar" and make the "docking" a comparatively simple task. Mostly clear skies, with a slight ground haze, were forecast.

Graf Home Safely.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 8.—(AP)—The veteran trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin was safely in her hangar tonight after conquering bad weather on a return flight from South America.

The ship was granted permission by the French government to take a short cut by flying over France up the Rhone valley instead of going over the Alps.

Capt. von Schiller said unfavorable weather conditions off the coast of Portugal menaced the craft and he wanted to take no chances with twenty-two passengers aboard.

ACTRESS' FATAL PLUNGE LAID TO WAVE TO FRIEND

BIARRITZ, France, May 8.—(AP)—An actress' reckless wave to a girl friend was blamed today for her fatal plunge from a plane high over the "Emerald coast" of France.

Officials formally placed the blame for the death of Germaine Recarte, 26 years old, on her own carelessness. They said she unfastened her safety belt and stood up in the plane just before it spun dizzily.

The Spanish pilot, Gonzalo de la Gandara, a son-in-law of the Marquise de Ivanrey, the former Stalia Blair of Chicago, said Mlle. Recarte tried to wave to a feminine friend over whose home the plane was flying. De la Gandara tried to pull her back into her seat, but the plane went into a spin, requiring all his attention. He was exonerated of any blame.

PITTSBURGH BUYS 2 BUILDINGS FOR $79.15 COST EACH

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—The city of Pittsburgh, carrying out Mayor William N. McNair's plan of auctioning off tax delinquent downtown properties, acquired two structures today for $79.15 each.

One was a three story building, the other a two story dwelling.

The owners owed taxes of $14,194.76 and $5,727.60 respectively.

The city, only bidder, took them over by absorbing only the costs involved.

Owners of eleven other buildings whose properties had been listed for auction received thirty day stays from the courts. The biggest structure among them is one of eight stories.

Claims Inability to Man Pacific Liners with Whites

OTTAWA, May 8.—(AP)—Capt. Edmund Aikman, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific steamship services in Vancouver, told the industrial and international relations committee today he had been unable to obtain skilled white seamen to replace Chinese crews on the company's trans-Pacific ships. E. P. Flintoft, general counsel for the lines, said discipline would be jeopardized by the hiring of mixed crews.

U.S. Plane Stopped Liberty Talk, Porto Ricans Claim

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 8.—(AP)—Horacio and Marcisso Basso, who were broadcasting Nationalist party publicity from an airplane yesterday, published a complaint today that a United States marine plane had flown so close to them they were forced to the ground. The two said the marine plane was flown by Capt. H. D. Boyden.

THRILLS OF ZEP CROSSING TOLD IN BROADCAST

Eckener and Passengers on Radio Program.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—A radio program, with speeches by Dr. Hugo Eckener and passengers and piano and vocal selections, was broadcast tonight from the Hindenburg when the airship was traveling 90 miles an hour, at an altitude of 1,000 feet.

The program began at 8:30 p. m., when the Zeppelin was about 100 miles south of St. Johns, N. F., and ended at 9 p. m., 45 miles further on. It was broadcast throughout this country over a national network.

The speakers told of their enjoyment of the trip, which Dr. Eckener described as "experimental." Lady Wilkins, wife of Sir Hubert, the explorer, sang "I'm in a Mood for Love," accompanied on a piano by Prof. Franz Wagner, who later played Schubert's "Serenade," and "Blue Danube."

Shore to Shore 50 Hours.

"America is ahead of us," Dr. Eckener said. "About three hours from now we will be approaching Nantucket lightship and tomorrow morning, before sunrise, we will have left Sandy Hook behind. Our trip from coast to coast will have lasted just about fifty hours.

"I want to greet you all in these few words. This present trip is like a dream to me.

"Earlier in the day we had a marvelous piano concert. Now our passengers have gathered in the social hall and smoking room, having a grand time. All this at a speed of ninety miles an hour and an altitude of 1,000 feet above the clouds.

Predicts Regular Service.

"Many passengers told me today all this seems unreal. How long will it be until all this will have become just the ordinary thing, that will cause fear to nobody, and will hardly be mentioned in the newspapers?

"You know, this trip and those that are to follow are only experimental. We want to be on safe ground before proceeding to the inauguration of regular airship travel across the Atlantic. The beginning is indeed encouraging. I think we could learn a lot during this trip, and I am convinced that in due course we shall gather enough experience that will enable us to cross even in unfavorable weather conditions, not employing too much time.

"The interest is tremendous. I am grateful that the United States navy has permitted us to use the hangar in Lakehurst."

Advantageous Over Water.

Sir Hubert Wilkins expressed the belief that airships could be used to advantage over water where the duration of the journey was more than 15 hours, and that airships would "best serve the purpose" on trips to South America, India, or across the North Atlantic.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Sir Hubert said, "that if airships were built in such numbers as to bring down the cost of construction, they could be operated on a higher profit basis than the big sea-going liners of today."

Another speaker was Lady Drummond Hay, who traveled 50,000 miles on the Graf Zeppelin and who compared that airship with the Hindenburg.

Other passengers who told of their experiences on the trip were Karl H. Von Wiegand; Mrs. C. B. Parker of Cleveland, a veteran Graf Zeppelin passenger; Webb Miller, a correspondent; Mrs. Claire Adams of New York and Stroudsburg, Pa., air traveler and lecturer, and Louis P. Lochner, chief of the Berlin bureau of the Associated Press.

Ginger Rogers and Mate to Part

No Divorce Planned

Hollywood, Cal., May 8.—[Special.]—Nimble footed Ginger Rogers of the screen and her husband, Lew Ayres, have agreed on an amicable separation, they announced today. No divorce is contemplated, but the couple has instructed attorneys to draw up articles of separation for property division. Miss Rogers will take up residence with her mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers. Separation of the 24 year old star and her husband follows a year and a half of married life. Each had been married before, Ayres to Lola Lane, actress, who recently was wed to Alexander Hall, director, and Miss Rogers to E. J. Culpepper, who is known on the vaudeville stage as Jack Pepper.

DIRIGIBLE PASSENGER RATES CUT $1,850 IN 8 YEARS OF FLYING

Lakehurst, N. J., May 8.—[Special.]—Passenger tarifs for a trans-Atlantic crossing by air have declined considerably since the Graf Zeppelin made its flight to Lakehurst nearly eight years ago.

The price for a ticket then was $2,250, whereas passengers aboard the Hindenburg are paying $400 for a one way voyage and $720 for a round trip.

Freight rates for the Hindenburg are quoted at a dollar a pound, with the provision that no shipment of less than $5 in tarifs will be accepted. Industrial shippers on this voyage are limited to 110 pounds.

Shore to airship radiograms are being accepted by the Western Union at coastal stations at the rate of 25 cents a word. Telegrams from the airship destined for points in the United States will bear the name Hindenburg as the place of origin.

ROSA RAISA SUED FOR $10,000 OVER COAST CONTRACT

Rosa Raisa, opera singer who is appearing in Chicago with the Detroit Civic Opera society, was sued in the United States District court here yesterday for $10,000 for alleged breach of contract. The bill was filed by Attorney Nathan Schwartz for J. Waldow, San Francisco operatic producer, and Miss Raisa was served with the papers in her suite at the Congress hotel. Waldow charges that the singer failed to keep her contract to appear in concerts in San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle and Vancouver, subjecting the producer to the loss of the $1,500 he spent advertising the performances, and damaging his reputation.

CITY IN $23,000,000 TANGLE OF SUITS AND JUDGMENTS

Investigation disclosed yesterday that fifteen mandamus actions are pending in the Superior and Circuit courts to compel the city to pay $906,035 in condemnation judgments from funds already allotted to settle personal injury claims. It was brought out that Chicago still owes $13,000,000 in unpaid personal injury claims dating back to 1924.

On April 24 the Illinois Supreme court decided that Chicago is liable for interest on condemnation judgments from the time the judgment is entered to the date on which the city takes possession. Estimates at that time were that this decision made the city liable for some $10,000,000 in interest claims.

It was understood yesterday that a meeting including the mayor, the corporation counsel, and the controler might be called next week to discuss the city's policy in current claim litigation.

RICH CANADIANS QUIT DOMINION; PROTEST TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 8.—Suggestion by a western member in parliament yesterday that a "black list" of important tax dodgers be made public with millionaires emphasized has reference to a trend during the last year or two where leading citizens have changed their residences. This belief was expressed by political observers today. Canada's two richest men, Sir Herbert Holt of Montreal and Harry Oakes of Toronto, spend much of their time out of the dominion. Holt has established residence in Nassau, the Bahamas, while Oakes lives in Florida in the winter and travels abroad in the summer.

To some observers their movement abroad is not lack of patriotism but a protest against excessive taxation of rich men, much of which is spent on wasteful political ventures.

Oakes' income last year was estimated at $3,200,000.

Hangs Himself in Cell After Arrest with Gun

Charles Ray, 27 years old, 2628 Monroe street, committed suicide in the police lockup at Summit last night by hanging himself to his cell bars with a necktie. He had been arrested only an hour earlier by the suburb's chief of police, Michael Foran, who found him carrying a pistol at 51st place and Archer avenue. Chief Foran said he did not learn why Ray had the gun.

Firemen Discover Blaze in Church on Day Off

Firemen S. A. Hastings of Engine Company 48 and James Leonard of Truck Company 51 were walking past St. Bride's church, 7901 Coles avenue on their day off yesterday when they saw smoke pouring from the church. They summoned firemen under Deputy Marshal John T. Moynihan of the 5th division, who confined the blaze to the church altar. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

PEACOCK KILLER LOSES NERVE AS MOTHER FAINTS

Her Collapse Interrupts Slaying Trial.

There was a dramatic interruption yesterday as Durland Nash, 19 years old, swaggering criminal who pleaded guilty to the murder of Dr. Silber C. Peacock and was sentenced to 199 years in prison, was testifying about police brutality in the courtroom of Judge Joseph Burke.

Nash was describing with some art moans which, he said, were wrung from one of his alleged accomplices by torture, when a stout woman spectator suddenly rose from her seat and reeled into the aisle. The witness recognized her at once. She was his mother, Mrs. Lois Nash, who had seen him last as he was led away to prison two weeks ago.

"My boy, my boy," screamed the woman.

Carried from Court.

Then, as bailiffs rushed to seize her and take her from the room, she fell to the floor. She was carried to an ante-room and revived.

Temporarily Nash lost his aplomb. He struggled to maintain his hard-boiled air, which he had intensified by chewing tobacco as he talked, but failed. He was so distraught by his mother's action that Judge Burke permitted him to retire for several minutes and regain his composure.

Nash and Robert Goethe, 19 years old, who pleaded guilty with him to shooting Dr. Peacock on Jan. 2 and received the same sentence, were brought from Joliet under heavy guard to testify in behalf of Emil Reck, 19 years old, and Michael Livingston, 17 years old, who were arrested for the same crime, but have pleaded not guilty and are being tried by a jury.

The prosecution has produced confessions signed by Reck and Livingston, but the two youths have repudiated these, asserting they signed them only because they were forced to. They now declare they had nothing to do with the murder.

Members of Jury Excluded.

Members of the jury were excluded while Judge Burke heard testimony which will enable him to rule on whether the confessions were voluntary and are admissible as evidence, or worthless because they were obtained by force.

Nash and Goethe said that while the four of them were being held in the West North avenue police station, soon after their arrest on March 25, they heard Reck cry: "Don't do it and I'll talk." This made them believe, said Nash and Goethe, that Reck was being beaten. Nash said that later he saw policemen crack Reck's head against a wall. Goethe would not corroborate this statement, although he was kept with the others until the confessions were signed.

Reck, who has been rated by alienists as dull witted but sane, and Livingston already have made their allegations of brutality to the court. Livingston declared that he was tied up and hung by his wrists to make him confess.

Hospital Intern on Stand.

Dr. Zachary Felsher, a County hospital intern, testified Reck was brought to the hospital two days after his arrest.

"I think I asked him if he had been hit by the police and he told me he had been struck in the stomach," Dr. Felsher said. "From my examination he did not seem to be acutely ill."

The admission of the confessions in evidence is of vital importance to the state, which places its main hopes of sending the two youths to the electric chair upon them. The jury has been qualified for the death sentence.

Prosecutors said arguments on the confessions might take three or four more days.

NAMES 3 PALS AS ST. CHARLES BANK ROBBERS

Former Deputy Takes Stand for U. S.

The government rested its case late yesterday in the trial before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan of three of the eight indicted for the $16,000 robbery last Jan. 31 of the St. Charles National bank.

The men on trial in the case, believed to be the first brought under the recently enacted law giving the federal courts jurisdiction over robberies of national banks, are Frederick T. Hansen, a former convict, Sam Bongiorno, and Philip Dimenza.

Indicted with them, but to be tried separately, are John E. Gordon, former St. Charles special policeman; Percy Rehm, florist and former chief of a Kane county vigilante committee; James Kobart, former Will county special deputy sherif; Leo Friedman, and John Sullivan, who is a fugitive.

Government Constructs Case.

In Thursday's court session, Gordon and Rehm testified as government witnesses. Gordon said he gave Hansen a key for the bank at his request, and Rehm said that he cut off the alarm system from the bank to his office next door as his part in the plot.

With the background of the robbery outlined in their testimony, the government placed Kobart on the stand yesterday to supply the finale. He identified the three on trial, and a collection of three shotguns, a rifle, and five pistols and revolvers used in the carefully planned raid on the bank.

The night of Jan. 31, Kobart testified, the gang spent more than two hours in his home at Romeoville, north of Joliet, cleaning and loading their guns and making gags.

"One of the gags was tried on Dimenza to see how it fit," Kobart said. "They all got a kick out of that."

Then the three men on trial and Friedman left his house, Kobart said, and returned six hours later with a number of heavy lether bags. They went to a second floor room, where they counted the currency taken in the robbery, Kobart said, informing him that he would get $250.

"I saw a currency wrapper with St. Charles National bank on it. Hansen said they had robbed the bank, and it was an easy job because they had a key to it," Kobart said.

Mrs. Ruth Johnson, a teller in the bank, testified that she met three of the robbers as she arrived for work, but was not able to identify them as they had caps drawn far down over their eyebrows.

Releases Bound Employés.

She found William J. Reardon, assistant cashier; C. J. Marvin, cashier, and other employés tied up in an anteroom off the main banking area and released them.

"When I saw the men I let out a little scream and one of them said, 'Keep your mouth shut'," Mrs. Johnson testified. "I called the police before I found and untied the other employés."

The trial will be resumed Monday. Defense attorneys are expected to enter motions for directed verdicts of not guilty.

Druggan Denies He Owes U. S. $600,000 Back Taxes

Terry Druggan, beer baron of the prohibition era, yesterday filed an answer in the United States district court denying that he owes the government income taxes of $600,000 for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924. The answer, filed by Attorney Mark D. Yellon, said assessments made against Druggan by the internal revenue department were improperly entered and that all the government's claims were barred by the statute of limitations. The case has been set for trial before Judge William H. Holly on June 2. Druggan served two and one-half years in federal prison for evading his income tax payments.

HOFFMAN HINTS WENDEL MAY BE OWN 'KIDNAPER'

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey intimated strongly tonight that the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel, disbarred Trenton attorney, may have been instigated by Wendel himself.

The governor said that the information which moved Ellis Parker Jr., son of the well known Burlington county detective, upon the course that eventuated in the Wendel kidnaping and the lawyer's confession to the abduction and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr., came from Wendel.

Gov. Hoffman spoke tonight in Newark in his campaign to be elected a delegate to the Republican national convention. His comments were in response to questions put previously by the campaign committee for his opponent, Franklin W. Fort.

Caused 2 Day Delay.

It is recalled that Wendel's "confession" induced the Mercer county grand jury to request on March 31, the scheduled date for execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a two day postponement, to which Col. Mark O. Kimberling, warden of the state prison, agreed. Wendel then repudiated his "confession." Five men have been indicted for kidnaping Wendel and torturing him in a Brooklyn house into signing a series of admissions.

One of the indictments was against Parker, Jr., now a fugitive. District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn has indicated that the fugitive's father had a close connection with the alleged conspiracy.

Terms Wendel a "Liar."

The governor assailed Wendel as "a notorious liar," and said "he is the man over whom ex-Gov. Fort is shedding crocodile tears."

"I will say this," he added, "on the basis of facts now in my possession I will not sacrifice the Parkers, either to satiate the political appetite of Mr. Fort or to save the face of a discredited Brooklyn district attorney."

"Did Wendel ever get in touch with Parker before about the Lindbergh case?" a reporter inquired.

"Yes, he got in touch with Parker shortly after the baby was kidnaped, in 1932," the prosecutor replied. "He told Parker that he would like to help him."

Q.—When, exactly, did you first learn that Wendel had retracted his "confession"? A.—The morning after Wendel's arrest, when I learned through the public press that Attorney General Wilentz, Col. Schwarzkopf, Prosecutor Hauck, Capt. Lamb, and others had visited the Mercer county jail at midnight in order to obtain such a repudiation.

ARRESTS OF NEW KARPIS AIDS BY U. S. PREDICTED

Believe Mystery Parley Prepares for Action.

St. Paul, Minn., May 8.—[Special.]—Reports that additional arrests were imminent in the William Hamm and Edward G. Bremer kidnapings were circulated today as federal authorities held secret conferences similar to those which preceded the arrest yesterday of Harry Campbell, Barker-Karpis gangster.

Campbell, brought here from Toledo following his capture there in a department of justice trap, was subjected to long questioning in the bureau of investigation's offices while federal agents made many mysterious trips.

A long distance telephone call was made in the midst of the gunman's grilling concerning the activities of the notorious kidnaping and robber mob. R. R. Suren, member of the federal kidnap detail, was hurriedly called to the main office, the doors locked and an agent assigned to patrol the corridor.

Came Before Campbell Arrest.

Although federal officials refused to discuss reports that new arrests in the St. Paul abductions might be expected, it was recalled that a similar conference Wednesday afternoon, when Alvin Karpis was under a fire of questioning here, preceded Campbell's arrest.

The agents also maintained silence as to how they got on to Campbell's trail but a story published here said his arrest resulted from the agents' clever questioning of Karpis.

Chase Turns to Toledo.

Not long afterward the agents learned that Campbell could be found in Toledo.

Campbell is under indictment for the kidnaping of Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker. Karpis faces five indictments naming him as the ringleader in both the Bremer and Hamm abductions.

Mrs. Gertrude Campbell, who was taken to Cleveland following her arrest with the man she said she did not know was a gangster, was returned to her Toledo apartment by federal agents. She said she still loves her husband.

Meanwhile, at Hot Springs, Ark., a Mrs. Gracie Goldstein said she and Karpis were married in New York last Sept. 25.

Agents and Police Wrangle.

While federal authorities pressed their efforts in St. Paul and other cities to learn the names of Barker-Karpis gang aids—including politicians—Toledo was stirred by a controversy between J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice, and the local police force.

Chief Ray Allen of the Toledo police inquired why his men were not called into the raiding party which captured Campbell. He reminded Hoover of a recent statement in which the federal chief remarked coöperation with authorities in some midwest cities had been "rotten."

Hoover went farther today and specifically criticized Sherif James M. O'Reilly of Toledo for his six months' friendly association with Campbell under the impression the gangster was "Bob Miller, a contractor."

"The sherif has already admitted associating with this man for weeks," Hoover said. "It seems to me that any one could have recognized Harry Campbell from his pictures which were plastered on nearly every wall in the country."

Will Prosecute "Any One."

The federal chief said his department intends to prosecute any one and every one aiding, abetting or harboring any member of the gang, but he refused to comment on reports that action may be brought against some Toledo officials.

"My statement was broader than the chief of police seems to make it," Hoover said, referring to his general comment about the poor coöperation he had received in some cities.

"I said I wouldn't coöperate with any department that was corrupt, inefficient, or publicity mad. As to his department, the chief of police is in a better position to judge than I am."

Chief Allen demanded that Hoover produce any evidence indicating laxity in the city's police ranks concerning Campbell's residence in Toledo.

"If the federal agents have anything on the department or any one in it," Allen said, "I'd certainly like to know what it is. Let them produce it."

Mahan Arraignment Today.

Tacoma, Wash., May 8.—(AP)—United States Attorney J. Charles Dennis announced tonight William Mahan "in all probability" would be arraigned tomorrow morning on federal Lindbergh law and extortion charges for the $200,000 George Weyerhaeuser kidnaping.

Department of justice agents brought the scar-faced former convict here last night from San Francisco, scene of his capture yesterday.

In San Francisco United States Attorney H. H. McPike disclosed the United States attorney general's office had telephoned him from Washington to ask whether Mahan's constitutional rights were "protected" in the process of the prisoner's removal here.

The Mahan arrest cleared up most angles of the kidnaping, authorities said, although $65,000 of the ransom paid by J. P. Weyerhaeuser for the release of his son has not been accounted for.

Mahan had $7,310 on his person when he was captured, and yielded $13,000 more before being taken out of San Francisco. J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, said part of the $7,300 was in ransom money.

The alleged leader of the kidnaping supposedly had about $100,000 of the ransom at the outset. He abandoned more than $15,000 of it in fleeing from police at Butte, Mont., a week after the boy's release.

PIQUETT OFF TO U. S. PRISON FOR HIDING DILLINGER GANGSTER

Louis Piquett, attorney of the John Dillinger gang, set out last night for Kansas to serve a two year federal sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary for harboring Homer Van Meter, Dillinger henchman later slain. His sentence imposes also a fine of $10,000.

Two parties were at the train for the departure of the attorney, who was city prosecutor under a former Republican mayor. His wife, Mrs. Nell Piquett, with a friend, Mrs. Ada Martin, was there with a message from the lawyer's mother. The other party was headed by United States Marshal William H. McDonnell.

Piquett, as he awaited departure, admitted being on hand when two surgeons operated on the faces of Dillinger and Van Meter to alter their appearances. "I represented Dillinger and couldn't turn him over to the police," he asserted, "and though I did not represent Van Meter I couldn't tell on him without telling on Dillinger."

$100 FINE FOR BEATING.

Raymond Hickman, 20 years old, 1520 East 69th place, was fined $100 by Judge Leon Edelman of the Domestic Relations court yesterday on a charge of beating his stepmother, Mrs. Margaret Hickman, 46 years old.

BANKER SEIZED, TEN OTHERS HELD IN MAIL ROBBERY

Ring Charged with Theft of $200,000 in Loot.

Denver, Colo., May 8.—[Special.]—The arrest of Oliver P. Arnold, assistant vice president of the Denver National bank, and ten other persons on charges of conspiracy to loot the United States mail of $200,000 and to dispose of the loot, was announced today by Thomas Morrissey, federal district attorney.

Officers have evidence on some thirty mail robberies, it was said.

Among the others arrested was Charles Roberts, an attorney, who was taken into custody on the street.

The prosecutor declared that a well known Denver politician and an underworld character with a criminal record, including murder, fled the city, but that their arrests are expected soon.

Banker Denies Guilt.

"Arnold has made a complete denial of any part in the affair, but we are charging him with being a party to the conspiracy," Morrissey said.

Arnold was arrested as he sat in his office. He is widely known in both Denver banking and social circles and has an excellent reputation in the Denver financial world. He has held the executive office in the bank since 1928.

Morrissey said Jack Segar, arrested at St. Paul, Minn., was one of the leaders of the plot. Others he named were Winston Walker, 30, arrested at Denison, Ia.; Harold Bailey, 29, of Park Rapids, Minn.; John McBride, detained here; Othello McCellan, 36, auto salesman; Ralph Clifton, 48, radio salesman; Harold Kennedy, 29; Elmer Trower, 48, and John Edwards, 25, brought here from St. Paul.

Part of Loot Identified.

"We uncovered the plot," Morrissey said, "when we arrested John McBride, who was on relief, as he attempted to dispose of a $100 Liberty bond. An investigation disclosed this was part of the loot from a mail robbery at Clara City, Minn."

The prosecutor said Segar came to Denver in 1931 and obtained railroad switch keys to postoffice mail bags. Upon his return to St. Paul he organized the mail robbery gang, Morrissey said.

"In this gang were Walker, Edwards and Bailey," the district attorney declared. "With the keys they would enter railroad depots where registered mail was kept overnight, unlock and loot the bags, and then leave everything as nearly undisturbed as possible."

DROP 2 RADIUM POISON SUITS AS WOMEN FAIL TO PUSH PROSECUTION

Trenton, N. J., May 8.—[Special.]—Suits for damages amounting to $900,000, filed against the U. S. Radium corporation by two Newark women and their husbands, were dismissed for lack of prosecution today by Federal Judge Phillip Forman.

Mrs. Ethel Metz and her husband, Edward, and Mrs. Helen Tuck and her husband, Walter, were the plaintiffs, alleging that the women suffered radium poisoning while employed at painting watch dials with a radium compound in the company's plant at Orange. The suits were instituted in 1929, thirteen years after the women began the work.

PAROLED CONVICT ADMITS KILLING 2 LITTLE GIRLS

Portland, Me., May 8.—(AP)—Sherif Henry E. Burnell said tonight that James H. Folsom, 35, of Skowhegan, paroled state reformatory inmate, had confessed the slayings of both Mary Proulx, 7, at Waterville last Sunday and Annie K. Knights, 12, at Fairfield, last October. Later Sherif Willis O. Crosby of Augusta said Folsom had repudiated his confession.

Folsom was arrested at a Cumberland farm near Portland, where he had been working two days.

The circumstances of the two slayings were almost identical. In each instance the child had been gagged with her own clothing, her hands tied, and she had been raped.

The body of the Knights girl was found in bushes on the side of the Fairfield-Showhegan road. The Proulx child's torn body was discovered in an alder run on the bank of the Messalonske river in Waterville.

INDICT WINNER OF SEC DECISION BY SUPREME COURT

Charged with Fraud in Security Sales.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—J. Edward Jones, oil royalties promoter whose fight against the securities and exchange commission resulted in a Supreme court decision curtailing the commission's powers, was indicted for mail fraud by a federal grand jury this afternoon in connection with his sale of $800,000 worth of certificates in the J. Edward Jones Realty trust.

The indictment, containing fifteen counts of mail fraud, carries a maximum penalty on conviction of seventy-five years in a penitentiary and fines aggregating $15,000.

False Promises Alleged.

It charges Jones with operating a scheme to persuade Warren D. Brown, as trustee for Charlotte Brown, 480 Park avenue, and other persons to whom letters were sent to purchase participation certificates in the J. Edward Jones Royalty trust. The indictment alleged false promises and fraudulent representations were made in this connection.

According to the indictment Jones organized a series of trusts, identified by the letters A to K, inclusive, in May, 1930, and appointed a trustee for each series, which was limited to the issuance of $100,000 worth of participation certificates. The indenture for each series provided that Jones would place in each trust only such oil royalties as were purchased on properties actually producing oil.

Called "Safe and Sound."

The certificates were called "safe, sound and profitable investments" and Jones promised that "all revenues derived from the properties would be distributed by the trustees to the certificate holders without any deductions, except nominal trustee fees and reserve for taxes."

The indictment, charges, however, that Jones himself fixed the values of royalties placed in the trusts and that in eight of the eleven trusts established so-called "working interests" which provided for a participation in the expenses of operating various oil wells.

Jones' fight with the SEC came about as the result of his attempt to withdraw a registration certificate which he had filed with the body as a preliminary to an issue of securities. The SEC ruled that he could not withdraw a registration once filed with the commission and ordered him to appear for examination. An appeal to the Supreme court was successful recently when the court characterized the efforts of the SEC to examine Jones as a "fishing expedition" and ruled that he could withdraw his registration.

Divorces Lawyer

MRS. JULIA LOUISE HEALY.
[TRIBUNE Photo]

Mrs. Julia Louise Healy, 7358 South Shore drive, was granted a divorce by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court yesterday from Thomas Dodd Healy, former assistant state's attorney, who is now in private practice at 231 South La Salle street. She charged infidelity, alleging that once she saw her husband leave a night club with a blonde and return home with a scratched face. Another time, she said, Healy said he was going to a boxing exhibition but came home with lipstick on his shirt collar. An operative for the Hargrave Secret Service testified that he followed Healy to New York and watched him enter the blonde woman's hotel room. Mrs. Healy was given custody of their daughter, Patricia, 9 months old.

HENDERSON PLEA ON PAYMENTS TO WIFE DISMISSED

Judge G. Fred Rush in Circuit court yesterday dismissed the petition of Herbert J. C. Henderson, vice president of the American Weekly, for an injunction to restrain his wife, Mrs. Hattie Distill Henderson, 1420 Lake Shore drive, from collecting payments from him under the terms of a separate maintenance agreement entered into by the couple last September. The judge held that a private contract for separate maintenance is legal until one of the parties wants to end the separation.

Henderson also had requested an injunction to restrain his wife from prosecuting a garnishment suit in Detroit for $2,400 which she claimed he owed on his $750 a month payments. Attorney George M. Burditt, representing Henderson, told the court that Henderson had paid his arrearages just before court opened and that the garnishment suit would be dropped.

In addition to $750 a month for life the agreement provides that Henderson is to make the payments on a $50,000 life insurance policy of which his wife is beneficiary.

BRIDE, 30, YOUTH ADMIT SLAYING OF HUSBAND, 60

Body of Farmer Found in Closet of Home.

Dubuque, Ia., May 8.—[Special.]—Maynard Lenox, 18 years old, and his 30 year old red headed sweetheart, Mrs. Pearl Shine, today confessed they plotted the murder of Dan Shine, 60 year old Clayton county farmer to whom the woman was married a week ago, according to Sherif Tom Ryder.

Shine's body was found in a closet of his farm home near Little Port Wednesday night. A shotgun charge had entered his head. Fingers of his left hand clasped the gun barrel. A piece of twine was attached to the trigger and to the fingers of his right hand.

Court records at Elkader, where Lenox was taken this afternoon, disclosed that Shine had deeded 80 acres of land to his bride last Saturday. Young Lenox, officers said, admitted he had knowledge of the deed.

Youth Tells of Plot.

Sherif Ryder, who was assisted in the case by Chief of Police John Giellis, State Agent Frank Brady, and Sherif L. J. Palas of Clayton county, said that Lenox said the plot was framed over the week-end and that he and Mrs. Shine carried it out in the Shine home Tuesday afternoon.

Lenox insisted, according to the officers, that Mrs. Shine fired the fatal charge and that later he placed the gun near Shine's body, fastening one end of a string to the trigger and the other end to Shine's hand to make it appear that Shine had committed suicide.

Sherif Palas said that Mrs. Shine made a statement to him last night in which she said that Lenox had said to her: "I love you, Pearl, and I will get him out of the way, then come here and live with you."

Woman Accuses Lenox.

Mrs. Shine accused Lenox of firing the shot, the sherif said.

Lenox was arrested at his home in East Dubuque late last night by Sherif Ryder. He is the oldest of a family of eight children. He readily admitted, Sherif Ryder said, that he had been intimate with Mrs. Shine and had been at the Shine home for several days, returning to his home in East Dubuque Wednesday night. He said, according to the sherif, that he rode to Dubuque on a freight train, then walked across the bridge here to his home in East Dubuque.

Young Lenox had five mouth organs in his possession when arrested and told Sherif Ryder and other officers that he "loved good music."

ETHIOPIAN MOBS BURN AND LOOT CITY OF HARRAR

Strategic Center Taken by Italian Troops.

ROME, May 8.—(AP)—Italy's "hell on wheels" column moved into Harrar, press dispatches reported today, to complete the Fascist conquest of southern Ethiopia.

Under command of Gen. Rodolfo Graziani, the Black Shirted troops occupied the "Garden city" of Emperior Haile Selassie's kingdom only thirty miles southeast of Diredawa, midcontrol point of the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad.

From both Djibouti and London came reports of looting and fire in the second most important city of the Negus' domain. Violent riots, similar to the attacks in Addis Ababa, preceded the Italian occupation of Harrar, the dispatches from Djibouti said. French troops posted at Diredawa stood ready to repulse bands of brigands from the railway control point.

Send Italian Reënforcements.

Sir Sidney Barton, British minister at Addis Ababa, informed the foreign office in London that the consul at Harrar had reported looting and burning in the city. The consul's report did not make clear the time of the disorders, but apparently they occurred before the entrance of the Fascist column into the city.

Reënforcements for the southern army were sent by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Italian commander in chief, from Addis Ababa as the Italians reorganized trafic on the French owned railway, Ethiopia's only modern link with the outside world.

The natives in the capital submitted to the Fascist forces, giving up their arms and continuing their aid in clearing the city of wreckage.

In Rome, diplomats looked ahead to the sessions tomorrow night of the Fascist grand council and the Italian cabinet, at which Ethiopia's annexation to King Victor Emmanuel's kingdom will be proclaimed.

Prepare for League Meeting.

Informed sources said the groundwork was being laid to establish Italy's position at the league of nations council meeting at Geneva Monday.

The government will make no concessions in its conquered East African kingdom, these sources declared, in return for possible lifting of financial and economic sanctions.

A definite statement of exactly what rights Italy will recognize for Great Britain and France is expected to accompany the annexation proclamation. Informed sources reported these would be:

1. Italy will guarantee that Great Britain may retain its water and power interests in the Lake Tsana region.

2. France will be assured its interests in the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway will be protected.

Italy Gets First "Dividend."

Residents of Rome were cheered today by receipt of the first cargo of Ethiopian coffee from the Neghelli region. It was regarded as Italy's first "dividend" from its conquest.

The shipment, of 90 tons, was announced in a brief dispatch from Trieste after the arrival of the steamer Maiella.

Many Romans believe the coffee is the first indication of enormous profits which the Fascist nation may realize in return for its huge investment for the east African war machine.

The Lloyd Triestino Steamship Line announced a new boat would be placed in service with Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, this week.

Ras Seyoum Surrenders.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, May 8.—(AP)—Italian military authorities said today they had received the submission of Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian leader in the fight on the northern front against the Italians.

This news arrived here less than two days after the Italians showered manifestos on native tribes urging them to lay down their arms and return to the path of peace.

Similar manifestations of acquiescence to the new Italian régime continued in the capital as clerical leaders and the remnants of Emperor Haile Selassie's civil headquarters in the ruler's former palace ordered the Bank of Ethiopia to reopen. A rate of exchange was established at six lire to one thaler. [The lira is worth about 8 cents.]

Foreign legations were notified that although they are accredited to a government which no longer exists, they may continue to operate with their previous privileges, through a "gentleman's agreement."

Peace in Addis Ababa has been fully restored and workmen are busy cleaning the streets and removing wreckage. Natives are submitting quietly and surrendering their arms.

British Troops Sent to Border.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, May 8.—(AP)—Native British troops were dispatched by airplane to the Ethiopian frontier today to guard against a possible influx of refugees from that defeated empire.

Fleeing King in Jerusalem.

JERUSALEM, May 8.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, sad and dejected, arrived today with his large entourage to go into exile into the land of his forefathers.

Six days after fleeing his capital of Addis Ababa before the arrival of the conquering Italian armies, the emperor arrived at Haifa aboard the British cruiser Enterprise. He continued to this holy city by special train.

The negus, who claims descent from King Solomon and the queen of Sheba, went to a hotel here with his family and a large group of nobles, former officials and chieftains who accompanied him in his self-imposed exile.

Several thousand persons lined the streets through which the imperial party traveled to the hotel. Selassie raised his helmet and smiled wanly when the crowds cheered and applauded his party.

King Wears Spats.

Haile Selassie was resplendent in a white uniform, leggings, and spats. When he disembarked at Haifa the band played the Ethiopian national anthem.

The harbor area was heavily guarded by troops and no one was allowed to approach the royal party.

The Empress Mennen, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, and the two princesses left the boat first, followed by the little emperor, who walked alone.

Haile Selassie inspected a guard of honor before leaving for Jerusalem. With him were two of his chieftains, Rases Desta Demta and Kassa, who were leaders in the losing seven month fight against the invaders.

Hundreds of cases laden with gold and silver and some ten tons of personal baggage were taken from the cruiser by sailors and dock workers. Among the negus' belongings were dozens of cases of liquor. One case, containing red wine, broke and flowed down the gangplank. Soldiers carried down 100 steel-bound boxes, believed to contain a fortune in gold bars and silver Maria Theresa thalers.

France's Shirley Temple and Real One

Ginette Marboeuf-Hoyet (left), picked in French nation-wide contest as that nation's "Shirley Temple," shown in poses similar to those which have made the real Shirley (right) famous in America. Ginette has arrived in New York on trip to Hollywood to visit the real Shirley.

Drives Own Auto

Hollywood, Cal., May 8.—[Special.]—Shirley Temple, who has just celebrated her seventh birthday, is driving her own gasoline driven automobile. It is a white midget car, size for one child under ten, gas propelled, and capable of twenty miles an hour, but a governor holds its speed to eight. She's allowed to drive it around the grounds of the Temple residence and on the studio grounds. The car is a gift from the colored tap dancer, Bill Robinson.

PICKED HITLER GUARDS TO TRAIN FOR MARRIAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 8.—Stalwart Schutzstaffel men [picked Hitler guards] will be "trained to develop themselves toward very definite ideals" and will be given special courses in matrimony, Heinrich Himmler, chief of the G. S. P. [secret police] and the Schutzstaffel, told Hitler youth leaders in Potsdam today. The matrimonial courses comply with "the Schutzstaffel marriage order," Himmler said.

The chief of the secret police explained the coveted black uniform of the Schutzstaffel is only for hand picked youths who have distinguished themselves in sports and work. The best Hitler youths, when 18 years of age, become Schutzstaffel applicants until they are drafted into labor service and the army. After military service they return to the Schutzstaffel.

In the first five years of service the men must distinguish themselves in sports, but "when they are 25 they will be given more time to devote to their families, since every Schutzstaffel man is expected to marry early." This rule Himmler hopes will enable Germans to "make each successive generation harder than the predecessor and firmer in obedience and discipline."

MILLIONS TAKEN FROM N. Y. JEWS BY RABBI'S AID

Woman Is Arrested on Larceny Charge.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Nearly $2,000,000 in funds may have passed through the hands of Mary Berd, 36 year old secretary of Rabbi Zeida Schmellner, it was indicated today by District Attorney F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn.

The district attorney disclosed that Miss Berd, who is charged with grand larceny in connection with a $200 transaction, had deposited in one bank alone almost $60,000 since last December. He said one of the files seized in her Riverside drive apartment contained notes payable to her of approximately $150,000.

Agents Get $100 Week.

In two days she banked $12,000, he said, and other seized records indicated that at least nine "agents" were paid $100 each a week to aid her in financial transactions with devout Jewish people who sought the spiritual aid of Rabbi Schmellner.

While the police were preparing to serve 300 subpenas on persons who had dealings with Miss Berd, five came to the district attorney's office to complain about their experiences.

Widow Causes Arrest.

Miss Berd was arrested Thursday on the complaint of Mrs. Anna Seigel, a widow. She said that she turned over $200 to the rabbi's secretary as a loan in connection with a "mitzvah," or good deed, which was to benefit her paralyzed daughter. Mrs. Seigel said that the woman gave her a cheap diamond ring as security.

His preliminary study of the records indicated, Mr. Geoghan said, that Miss Berd had "contacted" thousands of poor Jewish people who desired the rabbi's spiritual help in effecting a "mitzvah."

SEEKS TO REVOKE PROBATION OF YOUNG ROBBER

Capt. Martin McCormick of the Summerdale police went to the state's attorney's office yesterday to ask prompt assistance in gaining revocation of the probation of Bruce Hamilton, 20 years old, a confessed robber, who was arrested early Thursday. Hamilton was put on probation for two years by Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court on April 27 when he was arraigned as an auto thief.

"I asked that Hamilton's probation be canceled immediately," said Capt. McCormick. "I understand that his father, Chester Hamilton, 2037 Hunt avenue, is a wealthy dealer."

Young Hamilton and three youths arrested at the same time were taken to the prosecutor's office in a patrol wagon. The other prisoners are Marshall Miller, 19 years old, 5240 Winthrop avenue; Charles Magner, 19, of 4943 Sheridan road, and Victor Welcker, 21, of 5005 Glenwood avenue. Hamilton, Miller, and Magner confessed about fifty lovers' lane and stoplight holdups and Welcker admitted being with them three times.

Oxford Students Swear Allegiance to Red Flag

Oxford, England, May 8.—(AP)—By a majority of ten votes undergraduates attending an Oxford union debate approved a motion tonight that "This house recognizes no flag but the Red flag." Speakers crirticized the "selfish patriotism" for which they said the Union Jack stood. They also criticized Great Britain's treatment of India and Africa.

Woman Trapeze Artist Killed by 80 Foot Fall

KITCHENER, Ont., May 8.—(AP)—Sue Ulric of Los Angeles, a trapeze artist with the Conklin Shows, died today of injuries she suffered in an 80 foot fall during a performance last night.

Poland Nabs 100 in Alleged Bomb Plot Against Jews

WARSAW, May 8.—(AP)—One hundred anti-Semitic extremists were arrested today for an alleged plot to bomb Jewish restaurants and night clubs.

BROKER ASSIGNS HIS INSURANCE ON LAST DAY; FALLS TO DEATH

Harold J. Juckett, 35 years old, father of three children, couldn't meet a life insurance payment of $646 due yesterday. He signed over the policy to a friend who contracted to make the payment, then plunged to his death from a window of the twenty-first floor of the Board of Trade building, 141 West Jackson boulevard.

HAROLD J. JUCKETT.

He leaped or fell from a window of the office of Thomson & McKinnon, stock and bond brokers, where he was employed as a customer's man. His body was found at the bottom of an air shaft at the tenth floor level on the roof of Exchange hall, the trading pit of the Board of Trade.

At Juckett's home, 200 Gage road, Riverside, his wife, Gladys, said her husband seemed in good health when he left home yesterday morning. The children are Betty, 12 years old; Harold Jr., 8, and Robert, 3.

The friend who signed the insurance contract found in Juckett's pocket is William C. Karlson, 7700 Yates avenue, a member of Lamson Brothers & Co., a brokerage house which employed Juckett until a year ago, when he started work for Thomson & McKinnon. The contract and other papers indicated Juckett owed $845 on his insurance last Dec. 8. He made payments totaling $212, and owed $646, including interest due yesterday.

In his pockets was 64 cents.

Belgian Jailed for Selling Plans for Forts to German

BRUSSELS, May 8.—(AP)—The newspaper L'Independance Belge disclosed today that secret plans for underground Belgian forts had been sold to a German agent for $500 by a construction foreman. The foreman, Y. Schmets, has been arrested, the newspaper said. The plans purportedly were smuggled to Aachen in the Rhineland, photographed, and then returned to Belgium.

50 Hurt as Police Battle 6,000 Strikers in Saloniki

ATHENS, Greece, May 8.—(AP)—Fifty persons were injured today at Saloniki when mounted police charged 6,000 striking tobacco workers to break up a demonstration. Forty thousand workers have been on strike for more than a week.

TWO EX-OFFICERS OF DETROIT BANK DEFEND SELVES

Declare Acts Were Only Thing to Do.

Detroit, Mich., May 8.—[Special.]—Two accused former executives of the Old Peoples Wayne County bank denied in federal court today that there was impropriety in the bank's accounting in the matter of a $145,000 trustee note by junior officers covering 1,143 shares of Detroit Bankers Holding company stock bought for customers who reneged.

Judge Patrick T. Stone recessed the trial until Monday morning, with the prospect it will reach final argument by Monday afternoon.

John R. Bodde, who rose from a junior clerk to president of the bank, almost shouted his "no" when Defense Counsel O. L. Smith asked if he had any intention of deceiving the bank or federal reserve when he voted his approval of the trustee note.

"I voted for it because it was absolutely the right thing to do," Bodde asserted.

Donald N. Sweeny, former executive vice president, testified he was vacationing in Santa Fe, N. M., when the note was made and did not know of it until afterward.

SPURNED SUITOR SHOOTS MOTHER OF TWO, ESCAPES

Mrs. Sava Goich, 35 years old, a widow, was shot and critically wounded yesterday in the presence of her two young children after a quarrel with a boarder in her rooming house at 9025 Burley avenue. At the South Chicago hospital Mrs. Goich told police her assailant was Steve Pribicherch, 35 years old, who fled after the shooting. She said he asked her to marry him, and became enraged when she refused. Police said they were told that Pribicherch, who also uses the name of Zorich, has a wife and children in Serbia.

Lithuania May End 10 Yr. Nationalist Dictatorship

KAUNAS, Lithuania, May 8.—(AP)—A national election to restore parliamentary government after ten years of virtual dictatorship by the Nationalist party was reported today to have been set for June 9 and 10. A diet of 49 members, each representing 50,000 inhabitants, will be chosen, it was reported.

4 U. S. RADIO MEN IN ETHIOPIA WIN 'HERO' REWARDS

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—The four navy radio men who manned the transmitting set in the American legation at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, keeping this government informed of the rioting in the Ethiopian capital and helping fight off bandits, are to be advanced in rating for outstanding conduct.

This decision was made by the bureau of navigation at the urgent recommendation of Minister Cornelius Van H. Engert, who in a message to the navy department praised them "for commendable zeal and efficiency in the performance of duty under unusual and difficult circumstances."

W. E. Tanner, acting chief radio man, will be made chief radio man effective Aug. 15. W. L. Pitts, radio man first class, will be given a course of instruction after his return to the United States to qualify him for the same rating. C. F. Cavanah and J. W. Anslow, radio men second class, will be promoted to radio men first class.

ETHIOPIAN CRASH ROCKS BRITAIN; LEADERS SPLIT

Sanctions Row Becomes Big Political Issue.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 8.—Wide divergencies in British political tendencies over the Ethiopian affair were illustrated tonight when 10,000 persons at a massmeeting in Albert hall passed a resolution against dropping sanctions against Italy.

At the same hour, Winston Churchill, addressing a Conservative massmeeting at Chingford, Essex, demanded that sanctions be discarded. He said they would lead to war.

The Albert hall meeting was attended by pacifists, representative of last year's 10,000,000 peace ballot group which voted for extreme measures against Italy, even to closing the Suez canal. They are adherents of the British league of nations union.

British Split Growing.

The Conservative gathering addressed by Churchill advocates acceptance of the present facts about Ethiopia and wants sanctions abandoned on the ground that they are likely to involve Britain in a more dangerous situation.

This split in British public opinion is becoming more and more manifest. The situation is similar to that which arose last December over the Hoare-Laval plan, which proposed to give Italy about two-thirds of Ethiopia, and it is said to be accompanied by an equally grave split in the cabinet. Some talk was heard that the life of the cabinet is menaced. It was recalled that the Hoare-Laval plan resulted in Sir Samuel Hoare losing his job as foreign secretary.

Churchill continued the attack on the leadership of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin which he opened two nights ago in parliament.

"I have tried to support the government and Baldwin in their Ethiopian policy, but have found it difficult to keep step with their zigzags," he said, making a plea for stronger leadership and speedy reinforcement of armament to back British policy.

See Support from France.

The Albert hall meeting was presided over by Lord Cecil and was addressed by prominent leaders of the league union. Cecil and his colleagues are endeavoring to rally public opinion to further drastic steps against Italy by showing that the forthcoming new French Socialist government under Leon Blum will support Britain, and also that opinion in the dominions, notably South Africa, is aroused against the specter of an Italian menace to Africa.

This confused situation between sanctionist and anti-sanctionist elements, both in public and in governing circles, runs parallel with hints about reducing of the naval forces in the Mediterranean and backstage loan negotiations with the Italians.

Government circles, after having encouraged the idea that sanctions would be dropped under the pressure of the Conservative party, today said sanctions would perhaps not be dropped immediately since the proper league machinery which was wound up to enforce them would now have to be unwound to get rid of them.

Eden Going to London.

Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, will leave for Geneva tomorrow to attend the league council meeting Monday.

C. R. Attlee, British Laborite, will go to Paris over the week-end in an effort to induce Blum to link his strength with that of the British Laborites on behalf of sanctions.

Lord Winterton, Conservative, will also go to Paris to consult French rightist leaders, including Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister. Lord Winterton will seek to rally them to anti-sanctionist views.

British Note to Hitler Bared.

LONDON, May 8. — (AP) — Great Britain has put up to Reichsfuehrer Hitler of Germany the next move in negotiations for peace in Europe.

A questionnaire submitted to Berlin by the British government and made public today has as a major point the stand that Germany should include soviet Russia, Latvia, and Estonia in its proposed nonaggression pacts. These pacts would substitute for the Locarno treaty, denounced by the reich.

Among the questions asked Germany were included:

Whether Germany regards itself now in a position to conclude "genuine treaties."

Whether the point has been reached where Germany can signify that it recognizes and intends to respect the existing territorial and political status of Europe. In other words, has Germany's craving for equality been satisfied.

Whether Germany is still prepared to agree to an international arrangement to prevent noninterference in the affairs of other states.

There was no mention of arrangements in the remilitarized Rhineland zone, but the document added: "There are other matters which will have to be raised at a later date. A decision not to attempt to accompany a western air pact by a regional agreement for limitation of air strength would be much regretted by his majesty's government."

ADMIRAL KEYES SAYS BRITISH NAVY IS STILL MASTER OF THE SEAS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 8.—Sir Roger Keyes, admiral of the British fleet, was quoted today in dispatches from Malta as saying that the British navy is still invincible whatever the Italian command may think to the contrary.

The British navy, he declared, maintained the freedom of the seas during the war and is still ready and willing to tackle any force that dares challenge it. Malta, he said, would certainly remain a British naval base in the Mediterranean.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Bonham Carter, governor and commander-in-chief at Malta, was quoted as saying the British are suffering from an inferiority complex. He charged that Italy has forgotten its debt of gratitude to Britain, insisting it was the British army which led attacks during the great war which resulted in victories in which the Italians take pride.

RADICAL LEADER STRIVES TO CALM FEARS IN FRANCE

Political Enemies Join to End Finance Crisis.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 8.—The French Socialist party and its allies want no violence or tumult. On the contrary, they intend to do their utmost to revivify national business and other activity. These words were uttered by Leon Blum, Socialist leader and probably the next premier, tonight following an interview with Albert Sarraut, the present premier.

The utterance is taken generally to indicate the critical condition of French finance. Sarraut, who had laid before Blum the danger to the franc and troubles besetting the bourse and the Bank of France due to the radical Popular Front electoral victory, said he was very well satisfied with Blum's attitude.

A Bouquet for Blum.

The extreme right daily newspaper, Jour, bitter enemy of the Popular Front, said:

"Sarraut stated that Blum proved not 'revolutionary at all, but, on the contrary, that his proposals which he will lay before the Socialist conference Sunday are very reassuring.'"

Blum's statement following his conversation with Premier Sarraut characterized rumors of the drastic, damaging intentions of the leftists as "absurd, and proposals I will make to the Socialist conference Sunday will prove them so."

"The entire Popular Front will tend to recreate activity and well being and revivify all the sources of national activity," he added. "This renovation is impossible without extensive credit which this country will create for itself. Thus, by using violence, by provoking trouble and tumult, we would run contrary to our own purpose."

Pleads for Level Course.

Paul Reynaud, one of the leaders of the defeated right wing front, talked in the same vein.

"The first duty of the opposition is not to injure the country's credit," he said. "I sincerely hope the present beginnings of a panic will not continue. The Socialist party which is about to take power will certainly show that its preoccupation with the country's needs stands above any program and any party."

Meantime Sarraut's ministry of finance announced the first concrete step in the battle for the franc. It arrested Samuel Silberfeld, a Pole and a member of the board of directors of the "Paris Precious Metals company," and expelled him across the frontier as a "gold merchant."

The ministry of the interior, in accord with the ministry of finance, announced that the "government hopes by this example to prove it is determined to take every measure for the defense of the franc and cleansing of the money market."

FRENCH SOCIALISTS URGED TO WHOOP IT UP WITH CHAMPAGNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 8.—Good Marxists may drink champagne, hitherto a symbol of capitalist whoopie, without betraying the proletariat, the Socialist Populaire makes clear today. Consequently, wine growers, to whom the left victory in the elections seemed like one more calamity, are breathing easier.

"Comrades, militants, officials," reads an ad in Populaire, "celebrate our victory by drinking S. F. I. O. champagne—guaranteed grand vintage."

S. F. I. O. are the initials of the French Socialist party. Its new brand was specially created for the occasion.

While Populaire does not editorially sponsor champagne drinking—maybe because Editor Leon Blum is a teetotaler—the fact that the paper opens its advertising columns to the new champagne proves that party members can indulge with nothing to trouble their consciences except the thought of the morning after. All they need is money. Comrade Raoul Chance of Mailly, Champagne, who signed the ad, offers his S. F. I. O. champagne at 60 cents to $1 a bottle.

AUSTRIAN CHIEF TO SPEAK BEFORE ANTI-JEWISH UNIT

VIENNA, May 8.—(AP)—Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg, it was disclosed tonight, will speak Sunday before 15,000 members of Austria's Freiheitsbund [Christian workers' uniformed private army], who are scheduled to stage Vienna's first anti-Jewish parade since the authoritary state was proclaimed in 1934.

The Freiheitsbund Weekly today described the parade as a "protest against Jewish infamy," adding:

"The parade will not disturb the peace, but it will be an eye-opener to Austrian Christians who have been victims of Jewish practices."

BRITAIN TO EQUIP MAIL LINERS TO U. S. WITH GUNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 8.—A government white paper [report] issued today disclosed that Cunard-White Star mail carrying liners will be prepared to carry six-inch guns at the expense of the admiralty.

This provision forms part of the schedule attached to the new contract for conveyance of mail to and from the United States. It was signed by Maj. G. C. Tryon, postmaster general, and representatives of the Cunard-White Star company on April 1.

Other provisions of the contract are: that in mail ships built in the future, attempts shall be made to protect the steering gear; that the practice of the admiralty system of signaling with men o' war, signal stations and merchant ships will be encouraged; that contractors will coöperate in distribution of naval intelligence, and will encourage the British naval reserve movement among officers and men aboard their ships.

Under the new contract, the Cunard-White Star will receive $500,000 annually for providing regular weekly mail service from Southampton to New York.

SHE said: "We like the enthusiasm and the confidential air of B/G advertising; like a friend tipping us off to something good; so, we go and see for ourselves what has been written up so glowingly for we know we'd be missing something if we didn't." Thanks a million, lady.

NINE DEMOCRATS HIT ROOSEVELT'S NEW TAX BILL

Senate Committee Will Revamp Proposal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—The senate finance committee closed hearings on President Roosevelt's tax reform bill today with all except four Democratic members opposed to what they termed the "destructive" plan of taxing undistributed corporation earnings as high as 42½ per cent.

Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who favored the bill before he heard the persuasive testimony of former treasury officials, business and industrial leaders, today issued a statement severely condemning it. He said he thought the President had overestimated the extent to which corporation earnings are withheld from stockholders to avoid surtaxes.

Declares Bill Absurd.

"I was impressed by the figures that 97 per cent of the corporations of the country have 250 employés or less, and employ 48 per cent of all people in industry," Senator Couzens said. "So I think it is perfectly absurd to punish 97 per cent of the corporations employing 48 per cent of the people to get at some isolated cases."

With nine Democratic members insisting that the undistributed earnings tax be modified drastically or thrown out entirely, Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the committee, nevertheless maintained that the "fundamental principle" of the house bill would be retained.

"Of course there will be certain modifications," Harrison said. "There have been some very good, constructive suggestions in the hearings. We will go into executive session Monday and we hope to get a bill out in a week."

Study Substitute Plans.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], another administration wheel horse on the committee, also deprecated talk of a revolt against the President's proposal but the opposition bloc was considering various substitute plans on which they hope to reach an agreement over the weekend.

These senators were informed by the bureau of internal revenue today that the desired $620,000,000 permanent increase in the revenue could be secured by simply raising the existing corporation income tax rates 5 per cent and making dividends subject to the 4 per cent normal individual income tax, as the pending bill proposes.

The bureau estimated that a 5 per cent increase in the present corporation taxes, which range from 12½ to 15 per cent, would bring in an additional $330,000,000, and that the repeal of the normal tax exemption on dividends would add $300,000.

The treasury estimated that the tax on undistributed earnings would increase the revenue by $620,000,000 through forcing corporation profits into the pockets of stockholders.

Fear Financial Upset.

Former treasury experts and noted tax authorities, however, contended that the scheme would bring in no additional revenue and would wreck the nation's economic structure.

Without exception, business and industrial leaders who assailed the President's proposal said they would favor an increase in the flat corporation income tax rates if new taxes had to be levied. The opposition Democrats conceded that some variation of the undistributed earnings tax would have to be retained as a "face saving" gesture to the President, and to avert a deadlock with the house. They were willing to adopt it in a modified form as an experiment, perhaps at a flat rate of 12½ per cent on undistributed earnings, to raise the $237,000,000 desired, over a two year period, from processing taxes.

The house rejected processing taxes and members of the senate committee said there was little likelihood of their being reinstated there.

Kills Wife with Ax, Then Shoots Himself to Death

IN COURT AGAIN

MRS. ETHEL E. THOMPSON.

Mrs. Ethel E. Thompson, 23 years old, 7106 Ridgeland avenue, yesterday sought her fourth legal separation from her husband, Daniel, 6103 Evans avenue, an oil salesman. Her attorney, Norman Becker, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court, charging cruelty.

The Thompsons were first married on Jan. 1, 1934, by a justice of the peace in Waukegan. Mrs. Thompson won an annulment on Oct. 3 of the same year on the ground that she was intoxicated when the marriage was performed.

Last June 22 the Thompsons remarried in Brookfield. On Oct. 30 she sued for separate maintenance. Attorney Becker had the suit dismissed after his client admitted that she had lived with Thompson after their second separation. Again on Nov. 18 Mrs. Thompson sued for separate maintenance, but again she returned to her husband. They parted for the fourth time a week ago.

HOUSE READY TO VOTE 21-3 MORE BILLIONS COSTS

Hopkins to Get 1 1-2; WPA Pay Raised.

Ill.] urged adoption of the amendment as a notice to the White House to "stop Tugwellism."

"Tugwell is to get at least 90 millions from Hopkins, and probably a far greater sum," Church said. "He is engaged in constructing 'satellite towns,' 'dream villages,' and brainstorm Russian homes. He represents the actual practitioner of the communistic theory of government."

A vote was not permitted by the chair on an amendment providing a penalty of imprisonment and a fine for any administrator of work relief who should engage in political activities or by threats attempt to influence the vote of any person on the WPA rolls. The chair ruled that the amendment was "not germane."

No attempt was made by the opposition to slash the Hopkins appropriation, but Representative John Taber [Rep., N. Y.] offered an amendment providing that no part of the 1 billion 425 million dollars to be given Hopkins shall be awarded to any state which did not contribute at least 25 per cent of the total proposed expenditures. The amendment was defeated, 103 to 33.

Urges Reduced Spending.

Debate was finished in the afternoon with an attack upon the measure by Representative Andrew J. May, Kentucky Democrat, who demanded that the New Deal call a halt on "unnecessary" expenditures.

To the charge of Representative Francis D. Culkin [Rep., N. Y.], that President Roosevelt had been given 11 billions to spend on relief and had wasted at least five of them, Chairman James P. Buchanan of the appropriations committee replied that "we are proud of the fact that the New Deal has spent 11 billions on relief because that makes President Roosevelt the greatest humanitarian in the world today."

PRESIDENT HUNTS FOR SOLUTION TO PROBLEM OF JOBS

Looks to Rail Equipment and Housing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today revealed he was seeking solution of the unemployment problem by hunting means to expand industries which appear to be suited to extensive development. Mr. Roosevelt said he has not found any final solution to the problem, but has received ideas from industrial leaders.

At his press conference Mr. Roosevelt revealed the unemployment problem was the chief topic at recent conferences with representatives of big business. During the last week Bernard M. Baruch, Owen D. Young, and Walter P. Chrysler, he disclosed, have discussed the building up of certain industries.

Mr. Roosevelt cited two industries which appear to have large capacity for expansion—the railroad equipment industry and the home building industry. He said the railroad equipment industry was being held up because railroads, heavily laden with capital charges, are unable to purchase equipment, and declared that before adequate housing can be provided for low income groups construction will have to be on a mass production scale.

No Rail Legislation Planned.

Mr. Roosevelt said no legislation is being planned for the present session of congress looking toward an improvement in the railroad situation. He added, however, that it was not a question of lending money, because the railroads could not pay it back under their present financial structures. Told that the pending tax bill would not permit railroads to set aside surpluses for improvements, Mr. Roosevelt said the tax matter had not yet been settled.

As to housing, he said construction was gathering impetus on homes for persons in moderate income and higher income brackets, but held that no plan has yet been devised to turn out a $2,500 home on a volume basis to take care of lower income group demands.

Wants Mass Production.

Mr. Roosevelt disclosed he had asked Chrysler a hypothetical question relating to the cost of producing a $600 car in a machine shop and was told the price would be about $3,500. What the country needs, was Mr. Roosevelt's conclusion, is mass production of homes to lower costs.

The President characterized the movement of transients across state lines in large numbers as a serious problem of American government. He sidestepped constitutional aspects of the problem in refusing to discuss the legality of the action of some states in keeping transients out by armed force.

BORAH NOT ON IDAHO G. O. P. DELEGATE LIST

Boise, Idaho, May 8.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], will not be among the eight Idaho delegates to the national Republican convention, Ray McKaig, field agent for the Borah for President organization, said today.

Idaho's convention delegates will be elected tomorrow at Moscow. State leaders previously had said Borah would be named if he desired.

McKaig arrived from Washington for a visit.

He predicted Borah will "score decisively" in the Ohio primary, May 12, despite what he termed "the Ohio Republican machine's rabid antagonism," adding:

"Borah is optimistic as to his prospects at Cleveland."

Senate Passes 529 Million Naval Appropriations Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today announced he plans to send the recently negotiated London naval treaty to the senate for confirmation early next week.

Four hours after the President made his announcement the senate passed, without a record vote, a 529 million dollar naval appropriations bill, which provides for the largest peace time outlay in the history of the country. The senate lopped $1,942,000 from the house appropriation. The bill, which is $20,465,000 less than the budget estimates, goes to the house for consideration of the senate changes.

Opposition to the bill was led by Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Radical, N. D.], a confirmed pacifist, and members of the senate munitions committee. The most active of the latter were Senators Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.] and Homer T. Bone [Dem., Wash.].

Other Issues "Neglected."

Senator Frazier moved to strike 151 million dollars for construction of new vessels, including two super battleships to cost $51,000,000 from the appropriation. His argument was that the government was neglecting more vital matters, such as flood control and agriculture, to enter a naval race.

His motion was defeated by a vote of 40 to 12 and the bill sailed through.

The battleships are provided for under an "if" clause which authorizes the laying of the keels of two 35,000 ton vessels after Jan. 1 should any signatory of the London treaty start a battleship replacement program. Other provisions of the bill include building of 84 ships of war, 333 airplanes and an increase of 8,500 men.

Japan Spoils Plans.

The London naval conference was summoned to prepare a treaty which would replace the existing naval limitation agreements that expire next January 1. This aim was dashed to the ground when Japan walked out of the discussions in a determined refusal to submit to parity ratios demanded by the United States and Great Britain.

The treaty, which was negotiated after Japan's walkout, was signed by the United States, Great Britain, and France. The treaty, unlike the limiting agreement it will supersede, does not bind the signing nations to any limitation except on cruisers.

It binds the nations for the next five years not to build any more cruisers of more than 8,000 tons nor mount guns heavier than 6.1 inches in caliber. It does not provide for scrapping of existing 10,000 ton cruisers.

Treaty Mostly Gesture.

Further the treaty is packed with escape clauses which would permit any nation to disregard its provisions in the event other nations started a naval race. For this reason the treaty is seen as a mere gesture toward limitation and naval experts are agreed it will not curb bigger and better navies.

Following the proclamation of the treaty at London it drew the fire of congress as a "colossal blunder," because it would hamper the United States but not Japan at a time when far eastern relations are far from smooth. Whether this sentiment will be mustered to full strength against treaty ratification in view of the escape clauses will be disclosed upon submission of the treaty to the senate.

SENATE PASSES 488 MILLION ROAD BUILDING PLAN

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—The senate today passed a house bill to authorize a $488,000,000 road construction program during the fiscal years 1938 and 1939.

The bill goes to conference with the house on minor amendments.

Prior to passage the senate rejected a proposal by Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.] that only American products be used on projects authorized by the bill.

The total annual expenditures from the treasury as authorized by the bill are $244,000,000, made up as follows: Regular federal aid, $125,000,000; forest highways, roads and trails, $20,000,000; nontaxable public-land highways, $2,500,000; national park roads and trails, $7,500,000; national parkways, $10,000,000; Indian reservation roads, $4,000,000; secondary or feeder roads, $25,000,000, and elimination of grade crossings, $50,000,000.

LENDING NAMES FOR U. S. WORKS PLAN REJECTED

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Representative Dewey Short [Rep., Mo.], proposed today that each Democratic member of the house have named after him some public work to cost not less than $10,000,000.

His proposal was in the form of an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill. Chairman C. A. Woodrum [Dem., Va.], of the deficiency appropriations subcommittee said "there may be some merit" to the suggestion, but raised a point of order against the amendment, which was promptly sustained.

Zioncheck and Bride Speed Into Porto Rico by Plane

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 8.—(AP)—Representative Marion [Speedy] Zioncheck [Dem., Wash.] and his bride reached here by airplane today on their honeymoon. They were undecided how long they would stay. Zioncheck said he "wanted to look around awhile."

3 YEAR PERIOD FOR REDEMPTION OF FARMS UPSET

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—[Special.]—A subsection of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage act was held invalid today by Judge Robert C. Baltzell in United States District court when he sustained a motion of a mortgagee to dismiss a suit by William Bennett Mullikan, Montgomery county farmer.

Judge Baltzell held the subsection S of section 75 of the act violated a property right of the holder of the mortgage to determine time of sale of the property.

He said his opinion was based on a ruling of the United States Supreme court which held the original subsection S unconstitutional. The original subsection provided a period in which the owner of the mortgaged property could redeem it.

An amended section was passed by congress which reduced the redemption period to three years. It was this section that was held invalid today.

The suit was that of Mullikan against the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company, Newark, N. J., holder of a $7,000 mortgage on his farm.

Similar suits were dismissed brought by Martha E. Neel, Danville, Ill., and William H. Peterman, Lebanon. There are ten similar suits pending here.

NEW COMMITTEE TO STUDY ACTUAL NEED FOR RELIEF

Hopes to Gain Estimate for Use by State.

An investigation of the actual requirements for relief in Illinois was launched yesterday by the joint committee on costs of relief, a new agency formed by representatives of ten Chicago and state-wide organizations. The Illinois Emergency Relief commission pledged full coöperation at its weekly meeting a few hours later.

The factual portion of the new committee's inquiry will be carried out by E. O. Griffenhagen and Associates, an accounting concern which recently completed surveys of relief costs in New Jersey, Tennessee, and other states. The purpose of the study, as announced by the committee, is to get information essential to intelligent legislation covering the handling of relief after July 1, when the IERC will cease to exist.

McKibbin Is Chairman.

The organizations represented by the committee are the Illinois Agricultural association, Illinois Bankers' association, Illinois Chamber of Commerce, Illinois Manufacturers' association, Illinois Taxpayers' association, Building Managers' Association of Chicago, Chicago Association of Commerce, Chicago Real Estate board, Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, and the Commercial Club of Chicago.

Officers chosen by the committee are George B. McKibbin, president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, chairman; Newton C. Farr, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, secretary; and M. A. Graettinger, treasurer.

"If it is true that the burden of relief financing is to be continuous, it is obvious that attention must be given to lightening it in order that the backs of workers may not be broken by the weight of the idle," said a statement from the committee.

Needs Must Be Budgeted.

"Before attention is given to new taxes, or extension of present taxes, for relief, it is essential to know what amount of money per year must be raised to meet actual subsistence requirements of those temporarily or permanently dependent on charity."

The committee also asks whether the administration of relief can be improved so as to reduce the load upon the public without bringing distress upon those who are economically or physically helpless.

PRINCETON HEAD WARNS AGAINST SOCIALISTIC U. S.

DR. H. W. DODDS.

The function of American government should be adjustment of individual problems when required, rather than control which ultimately would lead to dictatorship, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, declared here last night. He spoke at the Blackstone hotel at a meeting of more than 250 alumni of Princeton and their families.

"The government will continue as a major industry," Dr. Dodd said, "but we must overcome any tendency to unload our individual troubles in the lap of Mother Government. If we just drift along, our decisions will be wrong. We can only maintain the historic values of our country by individualism. We should not abandon such individualism for socialistic control or pagan nationalism."

Dr. Dodds outlined a program Princeton has begun for a $2,000,000 endowment for the building of a library.

A jury in the Superior court of Judge Peter H. Schwaba reached a verdict last night in the $105,000 damage suit brought against the city and four other defendants in behalf of Walter Engel, 14 years old, 3834 West 65th street, who was injured in an explosion at a city dump at Springfield avenue and Marquette road, on Jan. 17, 1934. The jury's verdict was sealed and will be read in court today before Judge Schwaba. Reports which could not be confirmed were that the jury awarded the boy $45,000. In addition to the city, two chemical companies and two hauling contractors are defendants in the suit.

NORTH CENTRAL STUDENTS STRIKE OVER AN OUSTER

Back Official Known as Athletes' Friend.

WILBUR NOLTE.

The serenity of the North Central college campus at Naperville was broken yesterday by a series of student strikes, parades, and protest meetings. The uproar, an unscheduled part of the college's diamond jubilee celebration, involved 300 of the 550 students.

Spokesmen for the rebels said the immediate cause of their grievance was the recent action by the college board of trustees in dismissing Wilbur Nolte, student secretary, whose principal duty was the procurement of new students. This incident, they said, climaxed their long standing grudge against the trustees and faculty executives for enforcing a rigid policy of conservatism—no smoking, no dancing, and no liberalism.

Denies Extensive Walkout.

Dr. Edward Everett Rall, president of the college for the last twenty years, denied that many students participated in the strike from classes, but he admitted that 75 of them stayed away from chapel and held a protest meeting. This group circulated a petition asking the board of trustees to reconsider its action in terminating Nolte's contract at the end of the year. The petition had more than 300 signatures last night.

During the day strikers paraded through the streets of Naperville carrying banners. They announced a massmeeting to be held at 3 p. m. Monday, when further demonstrations will be organized.

Campaign for Donations.

Behind the conflict over the ousting of Nolte lies a jubilee gift of $50,000 made to the college recently by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer of New York. They specified that the college must raise a similar amount, and the trustees have been pushing a campaign among affiliated Evangelical churches in an effort to raise money.

Nolte, who was graduated from the college last June, was a tackle on the football team, and he has been successful in inducing athletes to enroll in North Central. This success, according to the student strikers, was not regarded by the board of trustees as fitting him for the task of recruiting theological students and donations from churches, and, therefore, he was ousted.

Particularly annoying to the rebels, however, was a petition signed by 24 theological students, which asked the board to remove Nolte because he favored athletic prowess over scholarship in his recruiting of new students.

O'Fallon, Ill., May 8.—(AP)—Students at the O'Fallon Township High school went on strike today when they learned the school board had requested the resignation of John E. Hinchcliffe, completing his fourteenth term as principal.

SCHOOLS TO LET PUPIL CHOOSE HIS OWN READING

Superintendent Says Old System Failed.

The taskmaster method of teaching pupils to read by daily word drills and compulsory homework is to be removed from the Chicago public schools next fall and replaced with a system designed to create an individual desire for books.

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, announced plans for the new system yesterday. He explained that it had been tested in the laboratory which he established at Steinmetz High school when he was assistant superintendent in charge of high schools.

The project was inspired by reading failures among elementary school pupils. A survey showed that out of every 800 eighth grade graduates entering Chicago high schools there are at least 200 who do not read well.

Psychologist on Staf.

Dr. Johnson conferred on the matter with D. F. O'Hearn, principal at Steinmetz, and Prof. Paul A. Witty of Northwestern university. A staf then was appointed for the remedial reading project, consisting of Prof. David Kopel, Northwestern university psychologist; Miss Helen Brindl, administrative assistant in charge, and four teachers.

There now are 300 students in the 10 remedial reading classes at Steinmetz, all first year students. When they entered, silent and oral reading tests and a mental test were given each student. Their reading abilities determined which classes they attended.

"The children selected for this work have been placed in special English classes," Miss Brindl said. "In individual interviews, teachers have inventorized the child's vital interests, activities, and experiences.

No Fear of Tests.

"Our first goal," she went on, "is to teach the student to read, to become acquainted with books. He is allowed to read for his own enjoyment without any thought of facing an examination when he has finished. The only tests we make are by observation, to determine if the student is actually reading of his own volition."

Superintendent Johnson said he plans to arrange for classes in theory to be conducted for public school teachers at one of the universities here.

MICHIGAN ALUMNI ARE ADDRESSED BY DR. RUTHVEN

Democracy has not failed, rather its progress now seems irresistible, Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, said last night in addressing the Michigan Alumni Association of Chicago at its annual banquet in the Hamilton club. He asserted that in the "dizzy period" of the last few years efforts were made to scrap this country's democratic form of government along with its educational system.

"We have just ended a rapid slide from what were dizzy heights," he said, "and have started to gather our composure to take stock of our position. The progress of democracy goes hand in hand with educational training. Educational opportunities in this country cannot be seriously curtailed for any length of time. We are now recovering from our attack of jitters and realize that democracy has not failed."

Universal suffrage is a "curse and disaster" if not accompanied by educational facilities, President Ruthven added.

STUDY NATION'S ABILITY TO KEEP UP ITS SCHOOLS

Group Tests Idea That They Aid Prosperity.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The question of whether America can support public schools of present and higher standards will be studied by the educational policies commission which opened a five day meeting yesterday in the Stevens hotel. The commission has called six leading political scientists and economists for consultation on this question.

The commission was organized last January at the Palmer house under authority of the National Education association. It will be financed for five years by the general education board of the Rockefeller Foundation. Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent of schools of Providence, R. I., is chairman.

Theory of Improving Education.

In discussing the work of the commission, Dr. William G. Carr of Washington, D. C., its secretary, said that American education in all its phases had grown up without plan and that the time has come when long time guiding policies are needed.

Before suggesting future developments, according to Dr. Carr, the commission wishes to verify or disprove the theory which in a rough way has governed American educators in the past. This theory is that education raises living standards, thus stepping up the demand for the products of agriculture and industry; and that the resultant prosperity of agriculture and industry makes feasible the imposition of heavier taxes for still better teaching facilities.

The "Witnesses" of the Day.

Political scientists and economists called by the commission for today's discussion are Prof. Albert M. Haig, Columbia university; Prof. Charles E. Merriam, University of Chicago; Prof. Albert H. Lepawsky, public administration clearing house, Chicago; Prof. Harold Groves, University of Wisconsin; Prof. Howard Odum, University of North Carolina, and Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings institute. Members of the commission include Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota and Dr. J. W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education.

Five purposes of the commission were made public. They are:

"To stimulate thoughtful, realistic, long term planning within the teaching profession. To appraise existing conditions in education critically and to stimulate desirable changes in the purposes, procedures and organization of education. To consider and act upon recommendations from all sources. To make the best practices and procedures in education known throughout the country and to encourage their use everywhere. To develop understanding and coöperation among all organized groups interested in educational improvement."

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Busy Bumble-bees.

May 8, 1936.

JUNE is always extoled as the most delightful month in the year for the outdoor fan, but the boys on the Tribune experimental farms say it would be difficult to find two more beautiful days than those provided this week by the "merry month of May." Birds are now singing from every hedgerow, field, and thicket; the air is fragrant with scents of wild flowers and new vegetation and scores of little lambs are stretched out in all kinds of grotesque and ridiculous positions as they sleep in the warm sunlight.

The Farmer's Allies.

The warm days this week brought out many insects, including the bees, those important allies of the farmer. The bumble-bees, especially, are in evidence because they instinctively start their spring program as soon as warm weather arrives to tell them that the flowers are blossoming and there is food to be had. The bumble-bee queens have been in hibernation all winter, the rest of their relatives, including the workers and the males, having died in the fall.

The queen bumble-bees make their nests in deserted field mice holes or other small depressions in the ground every fall. These nests are veritable little storehouses for the next hatch of bees, and the queen bee knows all the modern tricks of insulation, too, because she builds a circular wall of wax around her hatch of eggs. Underneath the eggs is a lump of pollen and honey—the food supply for the small forms of life that eventually will develop into bumble-bees.

When we see buzzing bumble-bees rather clumsily visiting flowers we are apt to think of them as blustering busybodies. But they are invaluable to farmers, especially for cross-fertilization and pollination of flowering plants. The bees, in passing from one flower to another gathering nectar from which they manufacture honey, pick up pollen from one plant and leave it on the next, thereby making the contacts necessary for fertilization.

Good for Clover.

Because bees have such "one track" minds they are ideal allies in a field of clover or in an orchard. For example, the farmer knows that when he has a field of clover in blossom some bumble-bees are going to do nothing but work clover, visit clover blossoms and no other blossoms will divert them. There will be no mixed program of clover, dandelions, or wild flowers while the bumble-bees are occupied with that field of clover.

One interesting and humorous episode concerning bumble-bees and clover has been handed down by Charles Darwin, the great scientist. When asked why the clover fields in Oregon were failing, Darwin said that Oregon needed more cats. His listeners didn't understand, so Darwin explained that field mice were destroying the bumble-bees' nests, the bumble-bees were disappearing and their work of pollinating the clover plants had been stopped. If there were more cats to destroy the mice, he said, there would be plenty of bumble-bees to help the clover.

We noticed that the dragon flies and the wild honey-bees were extremely active this week. The honey-bees perform the same acts as the bumble-bees, those of pollinating plants, and they also draw praise for doing this same job with many fruits, including apple and pear trees and blackberry, raspberry, and other bushes.

Corned Beef "Crop."

There is another "crop" on the farm that came through the winter in excellent style. This is the corned beef that the boys on the farm put up last winter. Some of the tender pieces of this beef were dropped in the cooking pots last week and the "corned beef clinic" pronounced the product from the big barrels perfectly cured.

SPEEDING TANKS, BIG AND LITTLE, DO THEIR STUFF

Charge Over Track at Army Arsenal.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Rock Island Arsenal, Ill., May 8.—[Special.]—A perspiring colonel mopped his brow and said "War ain't what it used to be" this afternoon as he stood near the machine shops of the Rock Island arsenal and watched the army's newest tanks charge at fifty miles an hour down a rough and dusty track.

As he spoke there came the sound of a gasoline motor turning at high speed, the shriek of a siren, and another of the speeding monsters whipped past the knot of reserve officers who were gathered to see the demonstration.

The square, squat, steel clad machine was gone so quickly that only the barest details of its outline were visible. Then the cloud of dust raised by its passing closed in.

Baby Tank Plunges By.

Around the corner of a hill and down the pathway which could not be called a road came still another. This time it was a baby tank, seating only two men. Part of the hood was raised and the driver could be seen, begoggled and holding a control lever in each hand.

Lighter than its predecessors, this little tank lurched wildly and bounced into the air, treads churning nothing and internal mechanism clanking, as it struck a knoll. Hydraulic snubbers checked the tendency to rebound as it struck the ground, and its terrific pace never faltered.

Four tanks were shown. One was a heavy machine which weighed at least ten tons. There were two medium weight vehicles weighing from five to seven tons each, and the baby machine of three or four tons weight. Each of them was run twice over the course, once in each direction, and then they were hastily stowed away out of sight.

Military Secrets.

"These tanks are the very latest out and as such are military secrets," Col. A. G. Gillespie, commandant of the arsenal, told the reservists. "The war department refuses to allow us to show you any more, so the demonstration closes here. I can't discuss their engine, treads, armament, weight, armor, or ignition systems with any one."

None of the watchers was allowed closer to the machines than a railing 100 feet away, and it was impossible to get an accurate picture of any one.

All of them, however, were square bodied with turrets where machine guns might be mounted. The lines of all the tanks were quite similar to those of the more highly streamlined automobiles except that there were no curves, the heavy armor apparently being applied in plates.

Swift Weapons of War.

Gone was the clanking metal tread of world war tanks which moved at 6 miles an hour. Instead these swift engines of warfare had relatively narrow treads of some yielding material linked, it would seem, with metal. The wheels which kept the treads moving were out in the open and so attached that irregularities in the surface were absorbed by some shock accepting mechanism rather than by the entire tank.

No weapons of any kind were carried on any of the tanks, although it was obvious that the largest seen here could mount a light field gun easily.

"The strategy and use of these new high speed vehicles are now being developed by the infantry at Fort Benning, Ga., by the cavalry at Fort Knox, Ky.," said Col. Gillespie. "They have never been tried out in warfare, so that their value as military weapons is relatively unknown.

"It should be great, however."

Only a few of these new types of tanks have been constructed, although several of each type are in the hands of the tactical units now.

SIX MONTHS IN JAIL FOR COL. M'MULLEN; FILES APPEAL BOND

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme court today sentenced Col. Joseph I. McMullen, veteran army lawyer, to six months' imprisonment and $1,000 fine for illegally accepting compensation from a private firm. He overruled a motion for a new trial.

McMullen, who has been adviser to two secretaries of war, was released on $2,000 bond pending appeal.

Government witnesses testified in McMullen's trial last week that he had accepted $1,000 from the Cuban-American Manganese corporation in return for his efforts in helping defeat a proposed tax on manganese imports in 1932.

A court martial recently sentenced McMullen to a fine and reduction to the bottom of his grade for "a breach of honor" in accepting two round trip tickets to San Francisco from Joseph Silverman Jr., dealer in surplus army supplies.

If the Appeals court sustains today's conviction, McMullen will be automatically discharged from the army and disqualified to hold any other government position.

JERSEY FARMERS REFUSE "BRIBE" OF GOVERNMENT

Lambertville, N. J., May 8.—[Special.]—Refusing to be "bribed" by the federal government, a group of thirty-four farmers living in and near West Amwell township have pledged themselves not to aid in the soil conservation program and to refuse its monetary benefits, it was announced today.

The action was taken under leadership of E. W. Hunt, farmer and lawyer, who with several who have joined the new "revolt" last year led a New Jersey movement against the potato control program of the federal government.

For several weeks Hunt has canvassed farmers in the West Amwell section of the state with a resolution. A short time ago he obtained the thirty-fourth signature and the resolution was sent, with a letter, to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Many of those who signed a resolution opposing the potato control program have signed the present resolution.

3 Killed, 4,000 Homeless as Fire Razes Polish Town

DAWIDGRODEK, Poland, May 8.—(AP)—Fire wiped out this farming town today, killing three persons, rendering 4,000 homeless and destroying 1,000 houses.

CAMPAIGN TO CUT MATERNITY TOLL IN U. S. PLANNED

Mother's Day Will Mark Start of Drive.

Chicagoans, both old and young, were making arrangements yesterday for the observance tomorrow of Mother's day. Church attendance, presentation of gifts, and services by organizations and clubs were included in the arrangements. As the preparations went on, the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago issued a plea, based not upon sentimentality but upon the reality of maternity deaths in the United States.

"The standing of the United States in respect to safeguarding the lives of mothers is among the poorest in the civilized world," a statement issued by the society read. "England and Wales, Canada, New Zealand, France, Italy, and the Netherlands all have fewer mortalities among maternity cases than the United States, and in Sweden the death rate is less than half what ours is."

Start Widespread Campaign.

Mother's day this year will mark the start of a widespread campaign of education to reduce the maternity death rate, said officials of the society, which will sponsor the campaign here. The object is to reduce by half the number of fatalities incident to childbirth, saving some 8,000 mothers' lives yearly.

The society gave out at the same time statistics showing that the general mortality rate in the United States in the last 20 years has been reduced by more than 25 per cent, and infant mortality, by 45 per cent, while maternal deaths have been reduced only 3.3 per cent.

Meanwhile, observances of Mother's day were starting. Discussing the problems of youth, Judge Gibson E. Gorman of the Safety court spoke at the Mother's day program of the Chicago Board of Trade post, American Legion, last night.

Boys Club Awards Prizes.

The Chicago Boys' club, 120 South La Salle street, announced winners in the letter writing contest on the subject, "What Mother Means to Me." Ernest Petropoulas, 1828 Burling street, won a summer vacation at the Boys' club's camp, Lake Winona, Ind., by writing of his mother who died two years ago. Thomas Carmichael, 1707 North Halsted street, was also a winner and there were others.

Richard E. Gutstadt, national director, Anti-Defamation league, B'nai B'rith, will deliver the principal Mother's day address at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon before Chicago lodge, No. 4, B. P. O. E., assisted by Antlers lodge, No. 4, at 57 West Monroe street. The public is invited.

Freed of Hubby Who Left Her After Buying Breakfast

Mrs. Olive Meehan, 22 years old, 15 East Ohio street, a dancer, was granted a divorce from her husband, William, 24 years old, by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday. She testified that they were married at 6:30 a. m. on April 25, 1935, in Waukegan, and that her husband disappeared after paying the breakfast check the following morning. She has not seen him since, she said.

Mr. W. R. Blend
Manager of Classified Advertising
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Sir:

On February 29th and March 1st, we ran a three-line ad in the classified columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. There was nothing startling about this ad, it simply stated that we had a six-room bungalow for rent on the South side. The results amazed us.

The first day, we received fourteen telephone inquiries and twenty visits to the bungalow. The second day, over forty people inspected the bungalow. Needless to say, we rented the premises on terms very satisfactory to the owner and in addition, obtained a large list of prospects for other bungalows.

We have always believed that THE TRIBUNE classified columns had pulling power, but it has never been our good fortune to see such a concrete example.

Assuring you that these splendid results make us enthusiastic boosters of TRIBUNE advertising, we remain,

Very truly yours,
Tighe Woods

OFFICIALS CLASH IN PARK FIGHT ON LAKE FRONT CARS

Dunham and Engineer Quarrel on Tracks.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district, and James E. McElraith, staf engineer of the Surface Lines, engaged in a hot debate yesterday on the legal right of the car company to keep tracks along Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and the Navy pier. In the course of the quarrel each accused the other of making untrue statements.

The controversy grew so personal that members of a city council subcommittee, who had gone with Mr. Dunham and Mr. McElraith to inspect the tracks, had only mild success in attempting to soothe their ruffled feelings by discussing other subjects.

The presence of the tracks has been a source of contention for years. Four years ago the parks tried to remove them, but were balked by the Illinois commerce commission. Recently the park district renewed this effort, stating in a petition that the car line would impede plans for a three lane auto highway, needed to carry trafic that would be brought over the new outer link bridge.

The Quarrel Begins.

When the aldermen, who had been instructed to report to the full council on the matter, reached Pearson street and Lake Shore drive and descended from a bus Mr. McElraith asserted that the use by his company of a strip of the new roadway would not interfere with other vehicles.

He added that the car line furnished an important service in transporting residents of the northwest side to the pier, and that this service could not be replaced if the tracks were removed. Mr. Dunham then suggested as an alternative the rerouting of some surface cars to Grand avenue at points further west on Chicago avenue.

"In the first place," he said, "there was never any legal right for the tracks to occupy the drive. They were put in, as a temporary measure, in 1921."

"That is untrue," declared Mr. McElraith, "and you know it. If it is true, why haven't your lawyers had the tracks removed through court action?"

Both Voice Resentment.

Mr. Dunham was firm. He had studied the records, he said, and was sure no formal permission to put tracks on the drive had been obtained. And, he said, legal steps had been taken looking to their removal.

"I resent your statements that things I have said are not true," said the engineer. "They can be proved easily."

"And I," retorted Mr. Dunham, "resent your insinuations that the park district is trying to keep the people from the beaches; providing such facilities is a major activity of the parks."

The hearing on the track removal petition is scheduled to come up again next Tuesday before the commerce commission.

Discard 1930 Ordinance.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that he disagreed with suggestions that the 1930 ordinance might form a basis for the unification of Chicago's local transportation agencies. Instead he recommended a fresh start on the proposed new ordinance.

Conferences between representatives of the city and of the transportation companies, as a start toward the ordinance, are to begin next week. A special transit subcommittee, headed by Ald. P. A. Cronson [4th] is in charge of the drawing of the ordinance.

Tag Day for Aged Raises $39,000 for 38 Homes

A total of $39,008.79 was collected Monday in the annual tag day of the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, Charles W. Bensen, treasurer, reported yesterday. The federation is composed of 38 homes for the aged, each of which will receive—from the tag day total—the amount collected by its own representatives, less expenses.

Beer Truck Hit by Street Car in Loop; 30 Shaken Up

Thirty passengers on a Clark street surface car were shaken up yesterday when the car collided with a beer truck on Clark street between Randolph and Lake streets. Beer spilled over the street when several barrels were cracked by the impact. The collision occurred as the truck tried to turn west into an alley in front of the southbound street car.

The right front side of the street car was crushed but little damage was done to the truck, which was driven by C. W. Dummer, 2920 West Lake street.

Edmund Goodwin, 40 years old, 3202 Fulton street, owner of the Goodwin Motor Service, Inc., died last night in the Garfield Park hospital as a result of injuries received Tuesday when he was struck by a truck driven by Anthony Marek, 25 years old, 22 East Grand avenue, in front of 3127 Lake street. Marek is being held in jail on a charge of reckless driving pending a hearing May 13.

Truck Kills Another.

Alois Peters, 60 years old, 6339 South California avenue, a baker, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a truck at 63d street and Dorchester avenue. He died in the Woodlawn hospital. Cleatus Guy, 28 years old, 6142 Greenwood avenue, driver of the truck, was held for the inquest.

Sam Salivonchik, 50 years old, 1243 South Campbell avenue, died in the County hospital at noon yesterday of injuries received several hours earlier when he fell from a safety island into the side of a truck at Roosevelt road and Campbell avenue. Witnesses said the man appeared to become faint while waiting for a street car. The truck was driven by Joseph Conpofronito, 54 years old, 327 Virginia street, Lombard.

Leslie J. Harris, 50 years old, 2609 Lawrence avenue, a shoe salesman, died in the county hospital yesterday of injuries he received on April 27 when he was struck by the automobile of Eugene Ricke, 26 years old, 1125 Center street, in front of 1334 South Western avenue.

Hit-Run Victim Dies.

Walter Goodwin, 29 years old, 3955 South State street, a laborer, died in the county hospital yesterday of complications which developed as a result of being struck by a hit and run driver on Oct. 7, 1934, at 39th and State streets.

Walter Sitkowski, 67 years old, 8505 Muskegon avenue, was fatally injured last night when he was struck in front of 8449 Exchange avenue by an automobile driven by Charles Douglas, 6914 South Elizabeth avenue. He died shortly afterward in the South Shore hospital. In Sitkowski's pockets the police found $871. Relatives who lived with him said he had been suspicious of banks and carried all his money with him.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 349 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. In the same period 280 were killed and 5,426 injured in Chicago.

PARK DISTRICT'S FIRST CARNIVAL OF LAKES AUG. 22

The Chicago park district announced yesterday that on Aug. 22 it will hold its first annual Carnival of the Lakes, presenting a parade of illuminated water floats and a program of water sports. It is hoped, according to V. K. Brown, park district recreational director, to develop the carnival eventually to the proportions of the Mardi gras in New Orleans.

This year a single day's program is planned, beginning with swimming and diving exhibitions in the morning and closing with the parade and fireworks display at night. The events will be held at the Burnham park lagoon adjacent to Grant park.

The illuminated water parade will be modeled after the Venetian Nights parade which the Sherman and west park districts held for several years, Mr. Brown said. A number of Chicago companies are interested in building floats in addition to those supplied by the park district.

Legion Pays $264, Keeps Paris Hall Another Month

PARIS, May 8.—(AP)—The Paris post of the American Legion sought to insure its occupancy of debt ridden Pershing hall for at least another month by sending a check for 4,000 francs [about $264] to the administrator today for expenses. It was generally expected that occupancy of the hall, where at least one Legion member is staying continually, would continue indefinitly—at least until foreclosure proceedings, which are likely in October.

DESPONDENT, HANGS HIMSELF.

Jacob Koch, 71 years old, 5015 North Western avenue, hanged himself yesterday in a garage behind his home. Relatives said that he had been despondent over financial losses.

CALLS RELIGION BIG INFLUENCE IN MENTAL HEALTH

It May Be Liability or an Asset.

St. Louis, Mo., May 8.—(AP)—Religion has a "great contribution" to make to psychiatry, or mental healing, William S. Sadler, M. D., of Chicago, asserted before the American Psychiatric association's closing session here today.

Dr. Sadler is director of the department of pastoral psychiatry of the Presbyterian Theological seminary of Chicago.

"Hundreds of clergymen in this country," he said, "are more and more practicing what they sometimes call 'personal counseling.' They recognize that many of their parishioners are in need of the ministry of mental medicine as well as spiritual comfort.

Once Carried Psychiatric Load.

"Religion in the past, before it began to go out of fashion as one of the technics of living, supplied much of the ministry that has been attempted by modern psychiatry, particularly by the psychoanalysts, in that it offered to help in solving such problems as emotional conflicts, life entanglements, choosing vocations, and social maladjustments.

"Religion has a great contribution to make to the psychiatry of the future if it frees itself more fully from superstition and acquires more of a psychologic approach to human problems—comes to view man as a whole and not as body, mind and soul, each of which is supposed to receive segregated and highly specialized ministration.

Either Liability or Asset.

"From the psychiatric standpoint all religion may be regarded as either a liability or an asset. It is certain that religions based on fear are highly deleterious to the average psychiatric patient in that they augment the guilt complex, many times leading to an attempted escape from reality by the religious route; they encourage fanatical beliefs in divine healing that sometimes interferes with the treatment of physical disorders as well as mental difficulties.

"On the other hand, the religion of faith, one that is predicated on a 'perfect love which casteth out all fear' is a tremendous asset to any psychiatrist who is not a stark mechanist or gross materialist."

Influence of Music.

The influence of music on mental patients was known as far back as the second century before Christ, the association was told.

"It was known," Dr. Emanuel Messinger of St. Cloud, Minn., said, "that Asclepiades [Greek physician who lived 200 B. C.] considered as suitable the Phrygian rhythm, which is both lively and tender, for those who are sad and irritable, while the military tempo of the Dorian melody should be beneficial for those patients who are inclined to absurd actions and spells of childish laughter."

Dr. William C. Garvin of Binghamton, N. Y., declared too many unqualified young men and women are going to college to the detriment of their future attitude toward life.

"Many instances have come under my observation where boys and girls who were not good college material or who had no real desire for a higher education were forced into college only to fail, as might be expected," he said.

"Parents apparently do not consider the effects of such failure on the future mental health of the young person."

PAID QUARTET TO REPLACE AUSTIN CHOIR ON STRIKE

The choir of the Austin Methodist Episcopal church will sing no more until Sept. 1 as protest against the forced resignation of its director, Herman F. Larson, but the church will have music just the same.

"We're going to have a quartet—a paid quartet," the Rev. Arthur D. Klentz, pastor of the church, the largest Methodist church in Chicago, said last night. "And some time between now and next fall we'll get a new choir director."

Larson, whose ouster as choir director and pastor's assistant was disclosed on Thursday, said last night that he is confident the choir "will do the Christian thing and stick by the church when fall comes."

"I appreciate their friendship and the feeling they have in the matter," said the ex-director, who is a radio baritone, "but for the good of the church I am advising them to stick on. I'd like to see them singing again in the fall, even if I'm not there."

Ex-Wife Wins Court Fight for Custody of Daughter

Charles A. Carlson, 29 years old, 7517 Parkhurst avenue, was ordered by Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday to return his daughter, Frances, 4 years old, to his divorced wife, Myrtle, 33 years old, as soon as the mother finds a suitable place to keep the girl. Mrs. Carlson had her former husband in court on a writ of attachment, alleging he owed her $46 support money and had taken the child from her in violation of a court order. Carlson's attorney, Harry X. Cole, said Mrs. Carlson had violated the order first by taking the child out of Illinois.

Woman Sent to Bridewell for Possessing Boys' Loot

Mrs. Ella Scholle, 45 years old, 3907 Congress street, was sentenced to fifty days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Leon Edelman on charges of receiving stolen property. Police testified a large quantity of jewelry and clothing, stolen by three boys, one of them now serving a reformatory sentence, was found in Mrs. Scholle's home.

TEMPERATURE CLIMBS TO 86; EXPECT RAIN TODAY TO END HEAT

Chicago's early season heat wave, which drove the temperature to 86 degrees yesterday afternoon, is due to moderate this afternoon following a thundershower, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd predicted last night. Showers and cooler is the forecast for tomorrow.

Yesterday's maximum of 86 at 4:30 p. m. was 23 degrees above the normal high for the day, but it failed to break any record. In 1883 the mercury reached 88 on the same date.

In spite of the unseasonable warmth during the last three days weather fans noted that the city still has a deficiency in warmth since Jan. 1 of 393 degrees.

150 SNOWBOUND ON A SOUTHWEST MOUNTAIN PASS

Drifts Five Feet Deep; Buses Stalled.

Trinidad, Colo., May 8.—(AP)—Caught in a raging blizzard which isolated this mining town of 11,000, more than 150 persons were snowbound tonight atop lofty Raton pass, between here and Raton, N. M. Five were rescued late tonight by state police.

The town of Morley, Colo., on the north slope of the mile and a half high pass, was completely cut off from the outside. Two buses reached here late today after plowing through a snow piled mountain highway which was impassable for hours.

Wind storms struck two southwestern communities. One man was killed by a twister at Bonham, Tex., and his wife injured. At least five persons were injured, one critically, by a wind storm at Hanna, Okla., 14 miles south of Henryetta.

Expect Rescue by Today.

Despite efforts of the New Mexico highway department and bus companies, the stranded groups on the pass, scattered over a stretch of road more than four miles long, were not expected to be rescued until dawn, although many were reported making attempts to come in under their own power. Food was taken to 25 passengers on a stranded bus.

Authorities foresaw a possibility of extreme suffering through the night, with the temperature near the freezing point and no immediate sign of a letup in the snow and wind. The weather bureau said the mercury probably would go far below freezing.

Five buses were caught on the pass, along with half a dozen trucks and more than twenty automobiles.

Spiral Highway Blocked.

A spiral highway rising steeply from Raton to the top of the pass—a well known scenic spot—drifted deep with wet snow and turned back New Mexico highway department crews who sought to reach the stranded travelers.

They returned to Raton for reinforcements and snowplows, some of which eventually opened a path to the blockaded autoists.

On the Trinidad side of the pass a steep winding road also confronted rescuers.

Airplane schedules between Denver and El Paso were disrupted, communication lines were down in many areas and trains were running hours late.

SERGEANT YORK QUITS SCHOOL HE FOUNDED IN HUFF

Nashville, Tenn., May 8.—[Special.]—Because of what he termed "lack of coöperation" on the part of the state board of education, Sergt. Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountain man who was acclaimed the greatest individual hero of the world war, today resigned as president and general manager of the Alvin C. York Agricultural institute. He founded the school for mountain boys and girls of Tennessee.

After resigning York said he was going to begin a fight before the next legislature to have the school returned to his control.

York's resignation was the climax of a dispute which began last August when he requested the state board to oust the principal of the school. At the time it was understood that York felt the principal had not observed all necessary proprieties when measuring school girls for basketball uniforms. The board refused to act at the time and York then withdrew from any active connection.

"I Am a Democrat."

Nashville, Tenn., May 8.—(AP)—Explaining why he refused the Prohibition party's nomination for Vice President, Sergt. Alvin C. York, the world war hero, said today that "if I ever run for anything it will be on the Democratic ticket. I'm a Democrat first, last, and all the time."

JUNIOR COLLEGE STUDENTS RULE OAK PK. FOR DAY

Political science students of Oak Park Junior college, elected by the student body, took over the Oak Park village offices yesterday and established a mock government. James Dodge Jr., 20 years old, 5428 Iowa street, occupied for the day the chair of Village President James A. Howe. Edmund Otton, 18 years old, 404 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, acted as police chief, and Carl Nernau, 19 years old, 5936 Grace street, as fire chief.

Ex-Policeman, Counterfeit Gang Aid, Wins Probation

Philip Denman, a former county highway policeman who pleaded guilty to possession of counterfeit money and testified as a government witness against Leo Trant, leader of a counterfeiting gang recently sentenced to ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary, was admitted to probation for two years by Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday on recommendation of the United States attorney's office.

Three New Plays by Bernard Shaw. [Dodd-Mead, $2.50.] Published on Wednesday.

IF there is anything in the belief that contact with reality sharpens already keen wits, then there is a great deal to be hoped for from intelligent doctors when they turn their faculties to the observation and recording of human and natural phenomena in words. The greatest doctors are, perforce, great human beings. And whenever one of those great can be induced to put his pen to paper something of importance comes to life.

It is a rich and memorable year that brings us such books as some of those listed at the top of this column. They have been written by internationally famous men in their fields, leaders among even the most exacting of confrères—an incomparable brain surgeon, a great French American researcher, a thyroid expert honored wherever his name is heard, the greatest orthopedist of his day, a man who was a pioneer in local anesthesia. And, what is incomparable boon to you and me, they have in most cases written not technical treatises about their specialties but human records of their own humanity.

Brain Surgeon Keeps Journal.

Dr. Harvey Cushing knows as much about brain surgery as any man living. He is only 67, but he belongs spiritually to the days when a gentleman kept a diary, when richness of life was intensified by the pleasure of recording it in a dignified and polished prose. Keeping a journal is one of those qualities that, like mercy, is "twice blessed. It blesseth him that gives and him that takes."

Dr. Cushing's journal—or that part of it now published as "From a Surgeon's Journal"—covers the period from March 18, 1915, to Feb. 18, 1919. He was with the American ambulance and worked with the wounded French and British in 1915, came home to help organize a base hospital unit in 1916, worked with the British wounded in 1917, and was with the A. E. F. in 1918, when the war ended, but, as he says, his work, the work of the doctors, still went on.

The journal was written at the greatest tension, often in the middle of the night, after grueling hours, but, one feels on reading it, with the actual writing of it being a blessing, an escape, which goes so far toward making any writing a blessing to the reader.

It is an unadorned, honest, clear eyed record; not at all in its edited state only a medical journal, but one intensely and vitally interesting to any reader. There are told—with modesty—some of the miracles of the brain surgery which were done [never, however, with any "I" insistence], but there are also told the daily life and adventures of the war, straight from the front, through the screen of pain and courage of the wounded.

"Doing one's bit" becomes in Dr. Cushing's pages an actuality, for as he records each day's casualties and the events which caused them the reader realizes keenly what Dr. Cushing says in one of the first entries he made—that the nearer one got to the front the less one knew about what was happening. The "bit" became so important that the whole was blotted out.

That daily "bit" has never been more exactly recorded than in these pages of Dr. Cushing's journal. It will be a source book of the great war. It is, incidentally, unique, I believe, in being the only published journal of the great war from a great doctor's pen.

Dr. Carrel Knows "Man as Unknown."

Dr. Cushing often mentions in his journal Dr. Alexis Carrel and Dr. George Crile. Dr. Carrel, as you know, is a French surgeon and scientist associated with the Rockefeller institute, winner of the Nobel prize in 1912, whose partnership in the Carrel-Dakin solution, which was one of the medical miracles of the war, is only the best known of his great contributions to the advancement of healing today.

Dr. Carrel knows enough about man to know that the whole nature of man is still really unknown, and under the title "Man the Unknown" he wrote and published last year a remarkable book.

In it, after stating clearly enough for the most unversed of fairly intelligent readers to understand what is already known by science about the structure and the function of man as a physical organism, Dr. Carrel states as clearly what isn't known of man—and he looks into that vast blackness with a sharp, inquisitive, investigating eye.

There are countless phases of man's contact with his fellow humans, with the physical world about him, with abstractions, with death, which are not explainable by our present rules or even by our most exact scientific investigation. Dr. Carrel has the courage to question as a scientist what has formerly been the realm only of mystics. The result is a book of such stimulating interest for the layman that, whatever the specialists think about it [and some scientists regret the fact that one of the world's greatest scientists hasn't stuck to his last], the reading public has taken it to its heart to an extent such as few books of its kind have ever been so read.

Published in September, it has been continuously since Nov. 6 on the best seller list.

Dr. Crile Explains His Theory of Life.

Dr. George Crile gave us last month a highly technical exposition of his radio-electric theory. Dr. Crile is one of the great men of America and anything that he has to say is listened to with interest. For the general reader "The Phenomena of Life" is a little deep, and many specialists are said to find it not easy to accept the dictum that "every phenomenon of life can be identified in the terms of physics and can be explained in the light of a radio-electric theory." Dr. Crile in this book states his case seriously and at length.

Dr. Lorenz's Book Frankly for Laymen.

Frankly for the layman, and concerned with the joy of life and health more than with anything else, is Dr. Adolf Lorenz's autobiography, "My Life and Work." The life story of the peasant boy who became the most highly publicized orthopedic surgeon of the world is a "gemütlich" tale, a tale of success despite handicaps, of a life full of happy living, told with childlike zest. At 82 Dr. Lorenz spends half of his time in New York, half in his beloved Vienna, but the four score years and two of his life have all been spent in true Viennese light hearted acceptance of fate, with good deeds, good food, good wine, and beautiful women to balance even apparently crushing blows.

Old Germany Lives In Dr. Schleich's Book.

Also for the layman is "Those Were Good Days," by Carl Ludwig Schleich. There is in it Dr. Schleich's struggles as a pioneer in local anesthesia and of his life as a surgeon, but there is just as much in it of the joy of contacts with poets, and dramatists, and musicians, and philosophers, and scientists when they were out of their operating clothes and in their carpet slippers.

The strange August Strindberg was one of Dr. Schleich's intimates, and the chapter dealing with him is of especial interest to those whose concern is books. Old Germany—the Germany that the elder generation remembers with nostalgia—lives in the pages of "Those Were Good Days."

Wisconsin Physician Writes of His Practice.

"Doctor in the North Country," by Earl Vinton McComb, is a simple volume, full of what Dr. Logan Clendenning in his preface calls "good doctor talk." Dr. McComb, for years a country doctor in Wisconsin, following in the footsteps of his father before him, has a fund of human tales from his practice. These he has told with human kindliness and most engagingly. He has, incidentally, written, between the lines, the autobiography of that rapidly disappearing great soul, the real country doctor.

Shaw's New Plays Not Up to Standard.

There has rarely been a writer in our day who has taken on every conceivable occasion a wallop at the doctors the way Bernard Shaw has. He began it in his "Doctor's Dilemma" [which was one of the most amusing of his usually diverting drama]. He seems never to be able to resist at least a backhanded blow. He hasn't resisted it in one of the three plays published this week, which have nothing whatever to do with doctors.

In "The Simpleton of the Unexpected Isles," in describing the disappearance on judgment day of all the "useless people," he enumerates, among a decimated house of commons, the vanishing congregation at Westminster abbey, "the medical profession having disappeared almost en bloc." That wholesale disappearance, the news of which is brought by radio, is the culminating scene in a play which certainly could, with no loss either to Mr. Shaw's reputation or the reading public, have met its own day of judgment before it was published in book form.

The second of the plays, "The Six of Calais," is a bit of historical foolery after the fashion of his "The Great Catherine," a one act play which evidently aroused enough ire in England to make it a sensation; but, the ire being British rather than literary, the play seems to us merely a whiff of amusement.

"The Millionairess" is, like "The Simpleton of the Unexpected Isles," not one of Mr. Shaw's masterpieces. It has as heroine the daughter of the richest man in the world, who operates on the theory that riches are righteous. If Mr. Shaw had made her a trifle less ridiculous she would have been vastly amusing. He overemphasizes his point, and thus spoils what might have been a comedy of memorable parts. He has, of course, had his usual good time with prefaces, and in his first one he explains his "attitude when I write prefaces."

THREE AUTHORS OF THE WEEK

DR. LORENZ. BERNARD SHAW. DR. CUSHING.

Two grand old men of eighty-two and eighty, and a grand young one of sixty-seven who offer us colorful books, Dr. Adolph Lorenz who writes of "My Life and Work," Bernard Shaw who gives us "Three New Plays," and Dr. Harvey Cushing who shares with us a remarkable world war diary, "From a Surgeon's Journal." All three books are reviewed today.

New Publisher Prints Toast to Well Wishers

Has Separate Greeting for Each Volume.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—Michael Joseph, who has just begun business in London as a publisher, has hit upon a charming way of complimenting his well-wishers, which in England at any rate is also quite novel. In each of one hundred copies of his first publication, "The Other Day," by Dorothy Whipple, he has caused to be printed an inscription to a particular person [each copy different], whose interest and friendship he wishes to assure.

A slightly older publisher, whose great successes in recent months have included the celebrated books of Vincent Sheean, John Gunther, and Walter Duranty, is Hamish Hamilton; and Mr. Hamilton has just published a new biography by Hesketh Pearson entitled "Labby."

I do not know if that nickname for Henry Labouchere is familiar in the United States; but the author quotes Queen Victoria as saying, "that horribly lying Labouchere" and King Edward VII. as saying "that viper Labouchere," which will make it clear that "Labby" was not loved at court. He was, however, loved and admired elsewhere, and he was the founder and editor of the London weekly, Truth, which in its heyday was the scourge of all tricksters and shady financiers. He was a great admirer of America and of American ways, which he knew at first hand, not only as a traveler, a circus performer, and a participant in the gold rush of 1853, but as an attaché at Washington. In the last named capacity he must have been the most unconventional attaché ever known. The book is full of lively anecdote, is written with verve and cynicism, and is extremely readable.

John Gray, the author of "Let Us Pray" [Harrap], writes of what he knows in a first novel about poor people in London. He was born in a room above a drinking saloon, and as a boy was crippled for life by an accident. But he has immense courage, and as he grew up he recovered sufficient strength to be able to take a job as a clerk. His employer was an inventor. He then acted as servant to two old ladies, an assistant in a factory, an addresser of envelopes, a fan mail opener for a celebrated actor.

A short time ago he was reduced to singing in the streets, and sleeping out on the Thames embankment. But "Let Us Pray," which has a preface by Miss Ethel Mannin, has been written in spite of every difficulty, and it is said to be a real document.

Index of Speeches Gives References to Variety of Occasions

For 10 years Roberta Briggs Sutton, head reference assistant of the Chicago public library, has aided library users in finding reference material for speechs to be given at lodges, anniversaries, weddings, funerals and hundreds of other occasions. Two years ago Miss Sutton undertook the serious business of compiling a reference book for the benefit of speech makers. The result is "Speech Index" [Wilson], which lists twenty thousand speeches.

Claims Each 'O' in Title Will Sell 3,000 Books

Gelett Burgess says that he can increase the sale of a book by three thousand copies for every letter "o" he places in the book's title. He has chosen "Too Good Looking" [Bobbs Merrill, $2] as the title of his latest tale. That makes it good for 18,000 copies plus.

Mysteries of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

IN England no mystery stories are more eagerly read than those of Margery Allingham, but somehow they are rarely revealed to what ought to be an eager American public. They are the first I ask for when I get to London, and a few weeks ago I found one awaiting me there just off the presses. Miss Allingham sighed when I asked why her books appeared so seldom in our benighted land, implying that she wouldn't know. But lo and behold, here awaiting me in America is the very book I read with pleasure and mystification on its native heath, and it is delightful to be able to recommend it, without reservation, to all our home-keeping fans. To begin with it has a romantic name, "Flowers for the Judge" [Doubleday Doran, $2].

I am ashamed to say that so seasoned a reader of murder stories as I claim to be should never until now have known that all judges in London's Old Bailey are preceded to their exalted dais by a clerk carrying a bouquet to ward off the deadly fumes of London's long-gone plague. This was told to me as I sat, in defiance of precedent, in that very seat and had a flower given to me. The court was empty, so I occupied in turn the dock, the witness box, the jury foreman's seat, and those benches from which counsel calls its questions to the distant witnesses, thereby acquiring an expertism I have never claimed before.

As a matter of fact, Miss Allingham's story has little to do with these flowers. It is concerned with mysterious crime in most respectable circles. Years before a member of a distinguished family of publishers had disappeared into thin air and now another member is found dead in a little used basement storeroom. Into this new mystery comes Albert Campion, the most sprightly detective of them all, who pursues his calling in all Miss Allingham's stories and along with sharp characterization, vivid and witty dialog, and sound and vigorous writing makes them what they are.

Another mystery writer enthusiastically acclaimed in England is Nicholas Blake. The London Times was loud in its praise of "Thou Shell of Death," published in America as "Shell of Death" [Harpers, $2]. It is a curious story of a famous airman who has withdrawn from a spectacular career into country solitude and there receives letters threatening death on St. Stephen's day. Lawrence comes into the mind as Fergus O'Brien's life story unfolds, and perhaps it was from his withdrawal that Nicholas Blake got his central idea. There is no real parallel, but an interesting suggestion. O'Brien asks for help and Nigel Strangeways, another of those gifted private investigators, goes to his rescue with a singular lack of success which the denouement satisfactorily explains.

The book has the rich background of amusing people, convincing locale and finished presentation that is coming to be characteristic of good English mystery stories, for there more and more this genre is considered serious literature with the mystery element as an added attraction. "Nicholas Blake" is, I believe, the nom de plume of a very serious writer indeed, and in "Shell of Death" he has written a book of quality.

Courtney Ryley Cooper on Police School Faculty

Courtney Ryley Cooper, author of "Ten Thousand Public Enemies," has been appointed to the faculty of the national police training school, as well as the training school for special agents of the federal bureau of investigation, both of which are run by the department of justice in Washington. Mr. Cooper gives instruction in the relationship between the law enforcement officer and the newspaper man. He is a former crime reporter of many years' experience, some of them spent on the staf of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Tale of Piracy.

Thomas W. Metcalfe offers a suavely written tale of love and piracy in "Port of Heaven" [Dutton, $2.50]. Although never moving at high speed, this romance of the Spanish main satisfies with its good writing, clever characterizations, and colorful dialog and description.

HORNER TO CALL HONEST BALLOT SESSION SOON

Hopes for Registration Act to Be Effective in Fall.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Gov. Horner announced yesterday that he would convoke another special session of the legislature later this month and ask it to approve permanent election registration bills. He did not name a date but said that the session would be "in the immediate future and before June 1."

The assemblymen have until July 1 to enact legislation for immediate effectiveness by a mere majority vote. After that date measures would need a two-thirds vote in each house in order to become effective immediately. Apparently the governor feels he can command 26 votes in the senate.

It was the senate which prevented passage of the permanent registration bills last February. The house approved the bills at that time and the prospects are that it will again.

Response to Brooks' Reminder.

Gov. Horner's announcement followed the challenge issued to him in Springfield Thursday by Wayland Brooks, who will be his Republican opponent at the November election. Brooks recalled the governor's pledge for honest elections during his primary fight and questioned his sincerity on the point.

Mr. Horner replied to this challenge yesterday, expressing his "amusement at Nominee Brooks' sudden interest in honest elections in view of Citizen Brooks' long silence and inactivity on the subject."

Continuing, the governor said, "What words has he [Brooks] ever spoken before this campaign began, in behalf of honest elections, and what has he ever done by word or deed to help obtain a permanent registration law in the state? None! While those of us who were truly interested have never wavered in our fight for it.

Implies Sudden Interest.

"The public searches its memory in vain for any previous stand by Mr. Brooks in all his public and private career in behalf of such a measure."

The governor did not acknowledge Brooks' statement that "Republican candidates will pledge to use every influence to help pass these bills if the governor will keep his promise and call a special session for that purpose."

Horner told reporters, however, that his intention all along had been to call the session.

Other subjects will be included in the special session call, which may be issued next week with May 19 as the convening date. It is possible that the governor may authorize consideration of the proposed insurance code, which was largely written and is enthusiastically backed by Ernest Palmer, director of insurance.

Old Age Pensions an Item.

A decision is expected early next week on the acceptability in Washington of the old age pension laws. If any changes are recommended by the social security board, the governor is expected to authorize the amendments.

State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that his request to civic organizations to meet with him next Thursday to discuss election frauds has been received with enthusiasm.

DETECTIVE PICKS AWKWARD TIME TO ENTER WINDOW

Mrs. Catherine Nelson, who is 42 years old and weighs 250 pounds, sold an automobile recently to Mrs. Emma Turner, 1950 Bissell street, who weighs 100 pounds. Mrs. Turner paid $35 for the car, but Mrs. Nelson refused to give a certificate of title. Persuasion failed, and, because of her disadvantage in weight, Mrs. Turner notified the police and Detective Michael Shannon was assigned to bring in Mrs. Nelson.

Detective Shannon told of his adventures at the Nelson home, 721 West 63d street, when his prisoner was arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph A. Graber in Automobile court.

"When my partner and I went to her home we were told she was not there," explained the detective. "But we were suspicious and went around to a window. There was Mrs. Nelson as big as life. I went in through the window and tried to take her by the arm, but she shook me off easily and give me a good dressing down."

Then Mrs. Nelson added a detail that Shannon had neglected to mention.

"I was taking a bath at the time he grabbed my arm," she said. "Naturally I was a bit excited."

Judge Graber ordered Mrs. Nelson to give Mrs. Turner a certificate of title by May 15 or return her $35.

15,165 Vote Officials to Get $121,320 Extra Pay Today

Each of 15,165 of the 16,635 judges and clerks in the primary election of April 14 will receive $8 extra pay for their work. The checks, totaling $121,320, will be distributed this afternoon in the city hall. A new law grants double pay for election officials of all precincts in which more than 300 votes are cast. All officials have already collected the $8 basic pay, but all except 1,470 are entitled to the additional compensation.

A CANDIDATE REVEALS HIMSELF.

The interview with Gov. Landon, heard on the radio Thursday evening, disclosed a number of things about the man, his opinions, and the quality of his mind which could not have been discerned so readily from a formal address. The interview, to be sure, was not wholly informal in the sense that it was extemporized. Mr. Landon undoubtedly knew what questions would be put to him. He must have gone over the ground carefully in advance. The question and answer method did serve, however, to enable Mr. Landon to speak easily and informally, as man to man, rather than as speaker to a public meeting. The radio interview is a novelty in presidential campaigning, but it is a natural development of the use of the radio for entertainment, and no doubt will be widely employed as time goes on.

Gov. Landon showed that he is no panacea peddler. He does not believe in cure-alls, and if he is nominated he will not seek election on a cure-all platform. He knows he lives in a changing world, but he does not believe that everything in America must be made over instantly. New conditions create new responsibilities for the government, but they do not warant the scrapping of the American constitution.

The governor sees abuses and is eager to correct them. He believes that monopoly is bad and here his belief has plainly been formed by his own experience as an independent oil producer. The remedy for monopoly, he believes, is not more monopoly, such as Mr. Roosevelt has encouraged through his NRA, his Guffey bill, and his latest tax bill, but more competition. Not business as such but unfair business practices must be uprooted, in his belief. Gov. Landon mentioned casually that he had been reading Prof. Fetter's "The Masquerade of Monopoly." If Mr. Roosevelt had gone to the same book for guidance he would have avoided some of his most disastrous errors.

The government has a rôle to play in speeding recovery, the governor holds. It must prevent needless suffering, and it can do so without destroying the government's credit and without using relief as a means of building up a gigantic political machine. Above all, the government can restore opportunity to those who are willing to work by restoring confidence in its own intentions and stability. It can go far to reëstablish the self-respect of the men and women who at present are condemned to forced labor in Harry Hopkins' legion of misery. "I for one," he said, "am dedicated to the proposition that henceforth no American citizen shall ever again be put in a position where he has to sell his vote for bread."

Gov. Landon's views on the Roosevelt administration were particularly pointed. He finds merit in some of the ideas behind the legislation of the last three years, but he is convinced that the execution has been incompetent and blundering. Money has been wasted, time has been wasted by too much haste, there has been too much improvisation and too little painstaking thought. Much that has been attempted must be undone; much more must be revised, simplified, and made workable.

The interview went far to promote the governor's candidacy. He disclosed himself as a man possessed of common sense. He seemed in the interview to be patient, thoughtful, prudent, with a mind ripened by experience in business and in public life. He thinks and talks like an honest man, aware of his own limitations, but aware, also, of his proved capacity for meeting situations as they arise.

THE WAY OF THE RADICALS.

The interval in which France awaits the incoming of a revolutionary government is only three weeks. The interval back in '32 and '33 when the United States awaited the incoming of it knew not what was four months. During those four months, it was subsequently revealed, the party which was to have power did nothing to prevent the uncertainties of the time from leading to a general crash. There is indeed evidence to show that it did things to promote and insure that the depression should be at its worst at the inauguration.

Turning to France we see that the period, although to be shorter, is marked by an open determination on the part of the incoming revolutionaries to do everything possible to precipitate a crash of the financial and economic order. They may drive the conservatives to extreme measures to forestall them. Their announcements of policy have terrified the propertied classes in France. That this is deliberate could not be doubted.

We have reason to believe here that the Rooseveltians wanted precisely what they got, a paralysis of the country's institutions. Since then we have been given reason to believe that the continuance of depression is desired by the men who propose to fix America's clock. If the country bounded out of the depression they would be out of the job they like best, which is the revolutionary make-over of the country's political and economic order. They can't dose a well country; therefore they keep it sick.

The French revolutionaries want a nation in a desperate situation. The more they can sink the old order in wreckage, the more they can assert that it has proved its inherent weaknesses and stupidities. They only have three weeks in which to work and they are out in the open about it. The American radicals work under cover, but their purpose is the same.

THE TEMPTATION OF IL DUCE.

Mussolini may be spending the late hours of night contemplating an opportunity. It tempted Cæsar. It was realized by Octavius. Nothing would be taken away from the House of Savoy. Rome could have an emperor, and Victor Emmanuel remain king of Italy. Mussolini sees the Roman empire in the process of restoration, repair, and rebuilding. An empire needs an emperor.

Il Duce may stand in front of a full length mirror and contemplate the figure and features there reflected. His right hand may glide naturally over his proud chest and slip between the first and second buttons of his coat. His chin juts out further than Napoleon's, his eyes are quite as piercing, and the brow could sustain a crown. Surely nothing less than Napoleon is staring at Mussolini from the mirror.

True, most of the Italian's Napoleonic career, if any, may be in front of him rather than in back of him, but he's having more success on the road to Egypt than the Corsican had. England has pulled in its fleet as it never did from Napoleon. True, also, his battle grounds do not mark the triumph and progress of his armies in Europe, but time may still have something to tell.

Every one about the duke flatters him, even the image in the mirror. Shall he take the advice it gives him? Shall he reach for the purple which is within his grasp? Would Napoleon have shaken himself out of such a dream? History wrote the answer to that one. Will Mussolini write the answer to the one he must be propounding to himself?

A Roman empire will require a Roman emperor and surely it would be a laughing irony if the House of Savoy ascended to the greater throne. The legions in Ethiopia are Mussolini's legions. He is his own ancestors and his own blood royal. The Corsican could say no more and he had kings to do his bidding.

HONEST ELECTIONS.

Permanent registration, approved by the lower house of the legislature shortly before the primary, but beaten by four votes in the senate, is probably to have another chance before a fourth special session at Springfield. If the votes are taken before July 1 a simple majority in each house will be sufficient to put the measure in force for the November election.

Nothing can destroy democracy more quickly, opening the gates to Fascism or communism, than ballot thievery which balks the will of the majority. The permanent registration plan erects a barrier to vote stealing by requiring the signature of each voter, to be compared with his signature on the registration list. The repeater or stinger will have to become adept at forgery, a talent fortunately rare among the nondescripts who form the storm troops of election thieves.

Mr. Nash, boss of the Democratic machine in Chicago, doesn't like permanent registration, which is not the least of the plan's recommendations. One of his henchmen blurted out at Springfield that the measure would cost the Democratic machine 200,000 votes. Perhaps it was 250,000. The frankness, at least, was unparalleled.

Mr. Nash argues that permanent registration, if adopted, ought to be state-wide. The plea is a specious one, designed to turn downstate legislators against the proposal. They see no reason for putting the expense of the plan on rural districts where every voter is known to his neighbors, and frauds of the type prevented by permanent registration are consequently almost unknown.

The place to guard against vote stealing is where the votes are being stolen. One of the Nash stalwarts virtually admitted on the floor of the legislature that they are being stolen in Chicago. Until such time as Mr. Nash produces proof that they are being stolen on a similar scale in the country precincts he may be regarded as talking through his hat when he pleads for needless state-wide application of the measure.

THE RED FLAG IN WASHINGTON.

The treasurer of the Harvard Lampoon says that his editors ran the Red soviet flag up the Supreme court flagstaf, all in a spirit of fun. Washington firemen had to burn it down with a blow torch. Usually when mention is made of the Lampoon it is identified for general readers as a magazine of wit and humor which may at times be true. Frequently the extra editorial activities of the editors are the cream on the top of the bottle.

The young people of the colleges are doing considerable peering into the future, of war and one thing or another. Presumably here they were peering into the future of the Supreme court if Mr. Roosevelt finds the opportunity to nominate a few judges.

Editorial of the Day

GRASS ROOTS PHILOSOPHY.

[From "Bald Knob News" in the Benton, Ky., Tribune-Democrat.]

In this community radio audiences, composed mostly of farmers, are making an interesting study in the growth of what they call the American language. They are discovering that the words "farmer" and "mortgage" are getting to be synonymous. When a radio speaker says "farmer" he says "mortgage" in the very next breath. One Bald Knob farmer ventures the assertion that back in our fathers' day a mortgage was something to be ashamed of, like the itch or bedbugs, but now it is as essentially a farming tool as a hoe or a plow. He claims that the government would not have it otherwise because the farmer with his mortgage furnishes jobs for a vast army of white collared workers such as county agents and Federal Land bank men who, by keeping track of the debts, manage to make a living off "the horny handed sons of toil."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

DR. MERRILL TELLS US that city clatter is deleterious to health. Especially the clatter raised by the lazy suitor who signals his girls on the fifth floor of an apartment building that he is waiting below in his automobile. In the good old days gone by, when we young men would a-wooing go, we drove our trusty steed hitched to the buggy up to the front door of the adored one. Then we hitched said trusty steed, adjusted our necktie, saw that the geranium or carnation in the buttonhole of our coat lapel was well displayed and that just three inches of our gorgeous hued silk handkerchief hung from the breast pocket of our coat and marched solemnly up to the front door and rang the bell and the small sister or the small brother always opened the door and said, "Sis will be down in a minute," and we stepped into the parlor and looked at the family album and the sea shells for half an hour and expressed ourselves as having a most enjoyable time until in a half hour or three-quarters of an hour the lady finally appeared. Then we went out and woke up the horse and rolled grandly away without disturbing any of the neighbors. As for that, they didn't have to be disturbed; they were all at the windows anyhow. But now a wooer honks his horn, and if Dulcinea doesn't appear in five or ten minutes he begins a steady tooting like a lake steamer signaling for the Boul. Mich. bridge. And city clatter must be deleterious to health, for a pain in the neck is certainly anything but healthful.

CRUSADERS.

All crusades end in sad confusion,
For greed transmutes the holy grail
From gold to tinsel; disillusion
Awaits man at his quest's conclusion.

The silver lance of freedom splinters
Against the mail of selfish men.
The virus of self-seeking enters
The wine of kindness at the vintner's.

All this means nothing to invaders,
Who storm the forts along the border,
For brave men broken by the traders
Are sacred icons for crusaders.

DENT CHANEY.

MUSSOLINI is having a jeweler make a replica of the crown of Ethiopia to be presented to King Victor Emmanuel. But I'll bet the Duce tells the jeweler to make that crown six and three-fourths. It's strange, Victor Emmanuel must wear about a size six hat, while Mr. Mussolini wears a seven and three-fourths. Still Victor Emmanuel keeps his throne, you must admit that, and probably he has a toothbrush and six shirts and plenty of cigarets and carries matches and has a wrist watch and everything.

THE NEWS FROM WASHINGTON says that Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau was accused before the senate finance committee of making "an obvious and serious misstatement of facts." Which shows how young the presidential campaign is right now. In fact, it's hardly started. After it gets going statesmen do not accuse each other of making an obvious and serious misstatement of fact." They waive those solemn and courteous phrases and shout from the stump: "He's a damliar and I can prove it."

TWO THOUSAND British motorists in their own British cars are scheduled to tour the United States this summer. And when I see 'em coming I'm going to scoot right down a side road or climb a telephone pole or something. The British drive on the left hand of the road instead of on the right, as we do, and instead of obeying the injunction, "Turn to the right as the law directs," they turn to the left. Of course they'll try to conform to American customs, but I'm afraid of those British born cars. They've been bred and brought up to keep on the left side of the road and to turn to the left, and I'm afraid some of them might have spells of forgetting where they are. An automobile is very much inclined to go the way it's been trained. And I would just hate to feel a sudden jar and look down and find that I had a cunning little British motor car on my lap.

WHEN GOV. ALF LANDON found out that people were talking about him as a possible Republican candidate for the White House he broke right out in print for five or six columns on what he thought about things in general and the New Deal in particular. The sly little rascal, he couldn't have dashed off that long statement in just a few hours. I'll bet he knew he was being talked of as a candidate at least a week or two ago. No, sir, he can't fool me. Somebody must have told him.

PIERROT.

And if I seemed to weigh too light
This love that held my heart,
It was, I lacked the words to say
Love should not be (or so I thought)
Theatrical and sham.
I would not counterfeit, and you
Loved not the one I am.
For under grace, and under lies,
And under guarded smile,
The lonely me not on parade
Tramps mile on weary mile.
Below the swagger, cape, and smirk,
The arts that coin had bought
You found the narrow soul of me
Was not the form you sought.
My hour was brief, my hour was bright.
The price I paid was high:
Remembrance like a narrow room
To wall me till I die.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

TUBERCULOSIS—EARLY DETECTION.

WHILE the death rate from tuberculosis per 100,000 of population in the United States has dropped in the last 35 years to one-third its former level, the situation is far from satisfactory. The reason is that the disease continues to take approximately its aforetime toll of those in the productive period of life, particularly men after the age of 20. The loss among the young adult population challenges the efficiency of our anti-tuberculosis campaign.

Many years ago it was established that tuberculosis is a curable disease. But, with the passing of time, every one recognized that prevention was of greater importance. There are so many means readily at hand for detecting the disease that there would seem to be no excuse for the existence of hidden or sleeping cases. Furthermore, the methods of diagnosis are standardized throughout the scientific world, and any properly trained physician can make an accurate investigation. This being true, physical inventories should be resorted to far more frequently.

The tuberculin test, particularly that form developed by Mantoux in 1908, is entirely harmless. If this test reacts "positive" it means that the individual has been exposed to some one who is eliminating or giving off tubercle bacilli. This in turn may lead to a search for an infected person with whom the patient has come into contact and thus other cases will be disclosed, either in the immediate family or among those with whom he has associated.

It should be understood that a positive tuberculin test is merely a straw showing the direction of the wind. It is not by any means a final verdict. At one time it was thought that a reaction to the test indicated that the individual was protected and would not later show acute manifestations of the disease. Accurate observation, however, indicates that young persons who react positively are much more likely to exhibit the infection later than those who react negatively. Furthermore, activity will usually develop before they reach young manhood or womanhood.

The next step in the examination of a suspected case involves a careful X-ray study of the lungs. While the plates may not reveal tiny areas of early infection, yet if the plan is repeated at intervals of from two to three months the percentage of accurate diagnoses will be considerably increased.

Sputum, of course, should be tested, and the lungs themselves receive a thorough going over. As a rule, it is wise to keep a positive tuberculin reactor under observation for a year or more.

There is every reason to believe that contact with individuals who are throwing off tubercle bacilli is dangerous to all and sundry and that the disease should be handled with strict contagious precautions. The chances are that we have been entirely too lenient in permitting known active cases to mingle with noninfected persons.

Can tuberculosis be inherited? No, it cannot. Nevertheless, infants if exposed can contract the disease and succumb to tuberculous meningitis. The afflicted mother who cares for her child invites a serious infection in the infant.

While it is true that many children harbor tubercle bacilli, the disease fortunately assumes a benign [harmless] form—that is, not tissue destroying, in the great majority of cases, and causes little or no illness. It is the so-called second or reinfection which is more likely to occur after the age of 10 that establishes the progressive tissue destroying type. An important objective, therefore, should be the separation of all individuals who have the disease in active form from children after the age of 10. The overtired and the undernourished become easy victims.

RUPTURE.

G. G. writes:
1. What causes rupture?
2. Are surgical methods the only cure?
3. How long can one be ruptured without taking treatments and then be absolutely cured?
4. Can a rupture heal without treatment?

REPLY.

1. Weakness of the abdominal wall, an increased pressure within the abdomen, or a combination of both. Hernia is more common among men, as it is brought on by laborious occupations involving great physical effort. Conditions such as chronic cough and constipation are also responsible.
2. The ideal treatment of hernia is to repair surgically the deficiency in the wall of the canal along which it occurs. For a time the weakened area may be protected by a suitable truss. In strong and healthy individuals an operation is advisable. In the case of a strangulated hernia an operation is imperative.
3. If the hernia causes no trouble one may go without a truss, but it is unwise to ignore the condition, as strangulation may occur when least expected.
4. No.

TARTAR ON TEETH.

A. E. H. writes: What causes tartar to gather on the teeth? What is the remedy? I need to have it scraped off every two months. My dentist is of the opinion that there is something in the saliva that causes it, but does not know how it can be remedied.

REPLY.

Tartar consists chiefly of phosphate of lime deposited from the saliva. Mixed with this are food particles, and in it flourish bacteria. At first when it forms it is soft and can be easily taken off by brushing the teeth. If allowed to remain for a period of twelve hours its removal will be more difficult. Regular brushing of the teeth is essential and if this is done only once a day it should be the last thing at night. Teeth that are not used collect tartar, so chew your food well.

MAJOR OPERATION.

Mrs. H. writes: We have been hearing much about thoracoplasty as a cure for tuberculosis. There seems to be a great difference of opinion as to the value of this operation. Do you consider this a permanent cure for the disease? Is it a dangerous operation?

REPLY.

This method of treatment is usually employed only after the regulation plan—rest, good food, fresh air, and collapse therapy—has failed to heal a diseased lung. By removing sections of the ribs the chest wall is permitted to "cave in," insuring rest for the lung. It is a major surgical operation and must, therefore, be considered serious. The procedure has many advocates in advanced cases.

From Across the Sea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA.—By visiting all the provinces of the archipelago and having heart to heart talks with the people, President Manuel Quezon is developing what might be called the psychological preparation of the Filipinos for independence. The extent of his success is looked for in increased tax returns, support of his national defense plan, and the backing given his national policies.

Appearing before eager people in the important towns, Quezon advocates and declares:
1. Abolition of sectionalism.
2. Elimination as much as possible of politics in government administration.
3. People must pay their taxes.
4. The commonwealth is a new government of, by and for Filipinos.
5. Filipinos must set up the best government in the world.

Attacking popular beliefs and prejudices that hinder the establishment of a nation, Quezon points out that the people are not of this or that province but of the Philippine commonwealth.

"More than ever, the Filipino should be first, second and all the time nothing but a Filipino. We are not tribes—we are a single people," he repeats.

Though Quezon calls for the abolition of provincial political partisanship legislative leaders close to the administration recently advanced a plan to make provincial governors and municipal presidents appointive by the commmonwealth president. As all these officials are now elected by the people, the projected change would give Quezon direct control of the local goverments. There will be less politics, perhaps, but there will be less local autonomy and more government centralization.

Quezon, of course, can campaign for abolishing politics since he was elected under a coalition of the major political parties; therefore, he is a nonpartisan president. Furthermore, the constitution of the Philippines provides that the president shall remain in office six years but will not be eligible as a candidate in the election following his term. Not having to prepare for reëlection, and having to take care of all the parties that elected him, he is really setting up a government with a minimum of politics.

The stress on payment of taxes is designed, it seems, not only to provide the government with adequate current expenses, but also to prepare the Filipino mind for possible new taxes should the various Quezon projects need greater financing. His military and economic programs show indications of such an eventuality.

Quezon never tires of declaring the new government should be supported by the Filipinos because it is truly their own government. Heretofore, he tells them, "we have been governed by the Spanish cortes or by the American congress; everything we have been allowed to do politically has been possible under specific authorization from one or the other foreign body. Today, however, the Philippine government is based on the Philippine constitution, which is truly a creation of the Filipino people.

"This being our very own government," he tells his listeners, "let us make it the best we know how—let us make it the best in the world."

Quezon is more and more clearly centralizing the government to render it easier to direct. Recently he proclaimed himself rice dictator, and as such will regulate the importation and exportation of this cereal which constitutes the basic food of the people, and its wholesale and retail prices on the local market.

Quezon has also shown a flair for commissions and boards. He has, to date, created the following advisory bodies: The government survey board in charge of reorganizing the government, the national economic council to advise on planned economy, the rice commission, the national education council, and the national defense council.

VACATED BY ORDINANCE.

Chicago, May 5.—[Friend of the People.]—As I interpret the law the city ordinance prohibits the closing of a street or alley unless it will be of benefit to the public at large, and the property owners in the immediate vicinity should have a voice in the matter. With this in mind I would like to know how and for what good reason the alley between 71st place and 72d street from Dorchester avenue to Kimbark avenue has been closed. The property owners in this block a few years ago paid for the paving of the alley for the purpose of improving same. Today trucks delivering coal or other things must back in or out the open end at Kimbark avenue. If a load of coal is dumped at this end, supplying fuel for large flat buildings, one must wait until it has been put in the basement before he can remove his car from his own garage.

A. S.

Ninety-eight feet of said alley has been vacated beginning at the west building line of Dorchester avenue and extending 98 feet west, and at the end of this vacated strip there has been dedicated a strip 35x10 feet adjoining said alley, this strip having been given from rear of lots at 1346-48 East 72d street, which together with width of alley leaves a space 35x26 feet for vehicles to turn around. The 98 feet of vacated alley was provided for by ordinance passed Dec. 11, 1931, recorded Jan. 28, 1932, document 11,038,706, for religious, educational, or charitable purposes. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

JOINT WILLS.

La Salle, Ill., May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In a joint will [1] is the will of the first one to die probated at his or her death, or [2] is it not probated until the death of both parties? If it is [3] does the heir of his or her estate receive his inheritance then? 4. Could it be made so it would not be probated until the death of both? 5. I understand there can be no changes made in the will after the death of either one. Is that the case?

E. S.

1. Yes, in the ordinary case. The necessity for probate depends on the nature of the assets and on other facts that are not before us.
2. Depends on all the facts.
3. Depends on the wording.
4. See preceding answers.
5. Ordinarily joint wills are made on the understanding that neither party will make changes, but substantially any arrangement could be made that the parties find desirable between them.

THE DECLINE OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Blue Island, Ill., May 5.—In today's issue your editorial on "Britain Loses the Ethiopian War" is of profound interest. You reveal the hand of Gibbon, but it is not his voice. How it would delight you to write "The Decline and Fall of the British Empire!" But that is not the point at issue in your editorial. When did Britain enter into the war against Italy? By simply closing the Suez canal she could have stopped the Italian invasion of Ethiopia and to a large extent she would have had world opinion with her. But she did not do that because it is very doubtful if England was out and out against Italy. Furthermore, at what period of her great history has England rushed hurriedly into any conflict? Not one. She has, and in this respect like America herself, always been loath to draw the sword, and, owing to the terrible complications that would arise from any European war, England will exercise caution, and there will seem to be many times when she is weak when actually she will be strong.

England's greatness is her patience and complete control over her own destiny, something which seems lacking in almost every other great nation. Then again England's greatness and her vast empire have not been built overnight, neither will it fall overnight. She knows only too well that they that live by the sword shall perish by the sword, and also that the meek inherit the earth.

Any who have traveled extensively in the British empire and dominions, not only Canada but Australia and New Zealand, know well how naive your analysis of the empire is and of its spirit of unity in times of crisis. Prior to 1914 the same mistake was made by Germany as you would have us make in an understanding of the British and their farflung interests, in lands, peoples, and wealth today.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PROMOTIONS.

Chicago, May 6.—There seems to be a great deal of talk lately regarding civil service employés and how the government pays no attention to civil service when filling positions. Why go to Washington? Conditions here in Chicago apparently are just as bad or worse, as shown by the recent posting of civil service promotions for lieutenant and captain in the fire department.

In recent years the trend in fire department activities has been the schooling of men in scientific fire fighting, discreet use of water, salvage operations, etc. Under civil service it is claimed a man who studies and applies himself can rise to the highest positions. Can he?

The recent lieutenant and captain list showed men who are students of fire fighting and fire prevention far down on the list, and in some cases their names did not even show. Others who are far below in intelligence, experience—yes, and in some cases efficiency—were near the top. How come?

I personally have no ax to grind, but I am wondering if civil service examination papers are open to perusal. Also, who gives the efficiency mark?

We have a fine fire department in Chicago, but if efficient men are to be side-tracked for politics Chicago will be in a sorry state.

H. E. SMITH.

THE D. A. R.

Belvidere, Ill., April 25.—I was greatly interested in an article in today's TRIBUNE written by Ruth De Young, which so exactly pictures the D. A. R. as it now is.

I think with her that it is a sad state when the youth of our land resist joining such an organization, and I still more deplore their reason, or one of them.

All of my daughters' ancestry trace to the New England 17th century. One of them refused to join the D. A. R., giving for her reason the society's ultra conservatism. The other joined and in a few years dropped out for this reason. The deplorable fact that they were sorority girls may have some point in this action by them.

The D. A. R. should begin to realize that their soldier forbears were among the radicals of their day and many of them shed good red blood for their beliefs. The words communist and socialist were not then invented, but probably there were others of their kind which tagged our great granddads. It seems hard for a certain type of mind to realize that a woman can despise oppression without necessarily flourishing a Red flag. History shows that the world never was without people like the revolutionary soldier and some of his daughters, haters of ultra conservatism.

One branch of my family in the good old days was strictly Tory and shows no record of soldiery in this early war. Permit me to suggest to Miss De Young that a new society be formed, smaller and more select than her D. A. R. It would be called the D. A. T.—Daughters of the American Tories. Doubtless a considerable number of her ruling sisters could qualify, and if they decided to drop their present relation they might give place to a more modern thinking group and thereby arouse a revived interest in the present society with the more modern thinking of our daughters.

SALARIES.

Chicago, May 7.—Disclosures of sky-high salaries paid corporation officers, while stirring protests among stockholders and exciting the wrath of proletarians, cannot be alibied by pleas of "fair value" for services. The real secret of the practice is this:

By fixing the salary of a president or chairman of the board at, say $100,000, there is made available a scale for other high salaries, e. g., for vice president, second ditto, third ditto, assistant to president, executive window washer, and so on, until most of the members of the board of directors have been fixed up in a game of give and take. It is evident that if the president's salary were $20,000 instead of $100,000 the easy money allotments for minor officers would be drastically cut. Merit? Huh! Note the number of relatives in the lists. "Supply and demand"? Shucks!

ANSWER.

Chicago, May 6.—The church about which your correspondent, Edward Walsh, inquires, is the Immaculate Conception church at 1415 North Park avenue, of which the Rev. John A. Fleming is pastor. I am astounded that a grand old Irish name like "Walsh" doesn't know the first "real Oirish" church on the north side.

REPORT JAPAN TO CREATE EMPIRE OF NORTH CHINA

Emperor Kang Teh Slated for New Throne.

PEIPING, China, May 8.—(AP)—Japan's apparent political, economic, and military campaign for conquest of North China, more intensive since the February Tokio revolt blew over, revived rumors today of the creation of a North China empire.

This empire, the rumors have it, would be similar to Manchukuo with Emperor Kang Teh [the former Henry Pu-yi] as combined ruler of the two "shadow empires."

Japan's military machine gradually is taking control of not only the vital military centers of North China and Inner Mongolia, Chinese allege, but also is rapidly working into Chinese customs revenues.

Prepare for "Inevitable War."

Japan's feverish construction of airdromes, barracks, and other military bases in Tientsin, Kalgan, Dolonnor, and Changpei, the Chinese say, leaves no doubt the Japanese intend to get a strangle hold on the whole of North China and Inner Mongolia so as to prepare for the "inevitable war" between Japan and Russia.

Rumors of the impending restoration of Kang Teh to the dragon throne of China give rise to a faint hope among many of the distressed population for a return of the prosperity of old imperial days.

5,000 Merchants Bankrupt.

But rejuvenation will be too late for at least 5,000 merchants who were forced into bankruptcy at the beginning of the Chinese new year—traditional settlement time.

History records no period in Peiping's colorful existence since the days when Mongol conquerors swooped down from the north to set up their capital here when the old city was in more desperate financial straits than it is today.

The decline began with the revolution of 1911 which overthrew the ruling Manchu dynasty. Removal of the national capital to Nanking was another blow, and gradual withdrawal of Peiping's heavy spending diplomatic colony southward spelled further decline. Political instability caused by Japanese military pressure has brought new woes.

ALL AMBULANCES OF HOSPITALS TO FACE INSPECTION

A new ruling of the American College of Surgeons, made with an eye to the protection of accident victims, was announced before the tri-state hospital assembly yesterday by Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, associate director of the college. The assembly is meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

The ruling, Dr. MacEachern said, is that henceforth inspection of ambulance service and personnel will be added to the regular inspection of hospitals before they receive the college's approval. Of the 3,600 hospitals inspected by the college 2,500 are approved at present.

"It is just as important that the accident victim be conveyed safely to the hospital as that he receive good hospitalization," Dr. MacEachern said.

AID OF MINISTER WINS PROBATION FOR HOLDUP GIRL

When the Rev. Walter Clawson, pastor of St. Mathew's Lutheran church, agreed to act as her sponsor, Mrs. Ruth Hetzell, 21 years old, who accompanied two gunmen on a south side robbery tour during which Sam Bell, a grocer, was killed March 29, was placed on probation yesterday for one year by Judge Mathew D. Hartigan. She is the mother of a boy. The holdup tour ended with the death of Anthony Rossolille, 23 years old, in a pistol battle with police, and the capture of Stephen Przybyla, 23 years old, now serving a life sentence in prison for the Bell killing. The charge against Mrs. Hetzell was accessory to the holdups.

GOLFERS HEED KILDEER'S FIGHT TO GUARD NEST

Golfers at the Westward Ho club on Wolf road, one-quarter mile north of North avenue, recently found added to the usual rough, bunker, trap, and water hazards a new one, the nest of a kildeer hatching a clutch of four eggs. The nest lies between the eleventh green and the twelfth tee. The kildeer, a type of plover, valiantly attacked workmen who wanted to fence her nest to protect it. Signs were posted about the nest declaring the area a natural hazard.

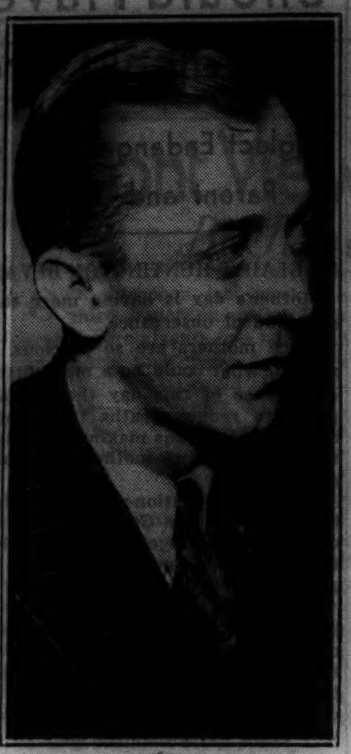
Fined and Arrested



THOMAS E. MALOY.

Thomas E. Maloy, 28 years old, 7842 Bennett avenue, nephew of Tom Maloy, slain czar of the Moving Picture Operators' union, was rearrested yesterday as he left the South Chicago police court after Judge Joseph A. Graber had fined him $200.

The fine was imposed on a disorderly conduct charge brought by Maloy's estranged wife, Jean, who alleged that he had threatened her. A motion to vacate the fine was continued until Sept. 3, and Maloy left the courtroom.

Outside he was met by Deputy Sherif Casper Schodrof who served Maloy with a writ of ne exeat to keep him from leaving the state before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court. Unable to supply $1,000 bond Maloy was held last night in the county jail.

CHINESE PLANES CRUSH RED ARMY; KILL 1,000 IN ROUT

TAIYUAN FU, Shansi Province, China, May 8.—(AP)—A communist army which overran southwestern Shansi province was reported fleeing northward tonight after 1,000 of them were killed in a crushing air attack by planes of the national government.

Flyers of the Nanking government, sent here to aid in a determined movement against the Reds, said their bombs dealt a decisive blow to the communist troops. Time after time the flyers dived low over their foes to drop large quantities of explosives.

After the air raid an infantry detachment was brought up, under support of the airplanes, to move against the Reds. Military authorities said the communists abandoned the field and fled toward northern Shansi.

STATE NEAR END IN TRIAL OF 7 FLOGGING POLICE

Argue Day on Evidence Against Ex-Chief.

Bartow, Fla., May 8.—(AP)—The state today neared completion of its case against seven former Tampa policemen in connection with the flogging, tarring, and feathering of three unemployed labor organizers at Tampa last November. One of the three died.

State's Attorney Rex Farrior formally advised defense counsel he expected to rest his case by noon Monday, but the announcement was not definite.

Judge Robert T. Dewell ordered a half day of court tomorrow, contrary to the practice on previous Saturdays, in an effort to speed up the trial. It has lasted four weeks already.

The trial bogged down today over the question of whether testimony Matt C. Beasley gave the court Wednesday, with the jury excluded, was admissible against former Police Chief R. G. Tittsworth, accused as an accessory after the fact.

Judge Dewell, who heard lengthy argument over the propriety of this testimony Wednesday, called for further argument today. At the close of the afternoon he announced he was ready to rule, but the prosecution requested an opportunity to present additional citations tomorrow.

$1,700,000 DEBTS LISTED BY VOLIVA IN BANKRUPTCY

Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of Zion, filed in the United States District court yesterday a 150 page schedule in his personal involuntary bankruptcy case, instituted in May of 1933. The schedule, submitted by Attorney Frank O'Brien, listed liabilities of about $1,700,000 and assets approximating $1,200,000.

Accompanying the schedule was a petition in composition, offering to place in trust with the First National bank of Zion all of the property involved provided Voliva and two other men named by him are appointed trustees. The others are City Judge Theodore Forby of Zion and Vernon Carroll, an official of the Chicago Title and Trust company, which is the principal creditor. The offer is to be submitted today to Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who will be asked to refer it to a master in chancery for hearing.

Much of the land in Zion is included in the assets listed, Attorney O'Brien said. There are 6,000 parcels of property, half of which are owned by Voliva, the leaseholds of the rest being in his name.

Lack Harmony at Symphony (Women) Vote

By-Laws Changed Despite Sharp Protests.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The harmony for which the Woman's Symphony orchestra [i. e.—the playing group] is noted in its concert performances was noticeably lacking yesterday in the annual meeting of the Woman's Symphony Ochestral Association of Chicago, Inc., [i. e.—the organization which sponsors the orchestra]. The meeting was in the Fine Arts building, where voices of singers taking lessons increased the medley of discords.

In the face of minority opposition led by the only member of the by-laws committee present, Mrs. Amy K. Carroll, a new set of by-laws was adopted, which Mrs. Carroll charged made the board self perpetuating with a perpetual president. She objected to what she termed "this seizure of power."

The chief objector [i. e.—Mrs. Carroll] was delegated to read the by-laws she so disapproved of. She made it clear that they were not drawn up by the by-laws committee, but at the instance of the nominating committee.

Although a comparatively large number of women from the orchestra itself [repeat: the musicians] were present and indicated they would like to support the minority opposition, they were informed crisply by the presiding officer, Mrs. Henry B. Vanzwoll, that they could not vote.

Members of the orchestra [again: not the patrons but the players] were the original founders of the association, obtaining a charter in 1926. After the association became sponsor for the orchestra the musicians remained active members.

"There is a changed condition now," Mrs. Vanzwoll, the outgoing president told the musicians. "You are employed by the association. You are union members, paid union wages, and it has been ruled by state authorities that you cannot have the privilege of voting in a not-for-profit organization."

"When this thing was started," a member of the orchestra said, after asking permission to speak, "it was with the idea that there should be some place in the world for women to earn a living and still play symphonic music. What has become of that idea? Now, just because we're approaching a living wage, it makes it impossible to vote on our own affairs."

"A living wage doesn't enter into the discussion," said Mrs. Vanzwoll. "We, your sponsors, have one association. You agreed at the end of last year to be ruled by the union. You are now our employés under the union ruling. Do you understand, players?"

"If they'd like to get along without the board," another board member said heatedly at one point, "let them try it."

"The union is interested only in our salary," one musician said.

"The point is that there is no provision in the new by-laws for any election except the election of a president to take place today," said Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. William J. Pigott, national chairman of music for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, retiring chairman of music for the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, protested against the proposed limiting of board members to 12, instead of 21. "Our clubs are just getting into this and it seems to smash our work entirely," she said.

In the by-laws as they were adopted the board consists of 12 members and provides for no future elections. Mrs. Vanzwoll, who directed the drawing up of the by-laws, said that a new set of by-laws could be adopted at any time, providing rules were followed.

Mrs. Edward Morris was elected president without opposition, and a board was named.

Cocktail Parties Before Benefit

The Madonna Center dinner-dance annually is one of the spring season's gayest benefits, partly because the women's committee is so competent in arranging food, music, and entertain- has achieved a reputation as being ment, and partly because the event "fun." The annual party tonight in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel promises to be as gay as any in the past, and there are dozens of cocktail parties planned by dinner hosts and hostesses and members of the committee,

The ballroom is being decorated to resemble a boulevard café. Mrs. Joseph W. Cremin, a member of the dance committee, is entertaining at cocktails in the Cremin home in Scott street before taking her guests on to the dinner-dance. Many of the Cremins' guests will be friends of Mrs. Robert H. Perlitz [Noel Cremin] of Houston, Tex., who is visiting her parents, and of William A. Cremin. Among young Mr. Cremin's guests will be Miss Janet Ayer, Miss Bette Rich, Miss Betty Brawley, Hewitt Bayley, Peter Fortune, John E. Baker Jr., and John Peter Theurer.

Miss Isabel Gordon and Miss Betty Kellogg have reserved a large table for a Dutch treat group of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Douaire Jr. will entertain their cocktail guests at the hotel instead of at home. Others entertaining tonight include the Paul McNultys, the junior Edward N. Hurleys, Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Ripley, whose niece, Miss Blanches Plamondon Smith of Detroit, was unable to come for the week-end with her fiancé, Charles W. Bishop, because of a minor injury to her leg; Dr. and Mrs. Vincent O'Connor, the George Kiefers, the junior James E. Baggots [Mrs. Julius T. Benedict], Count and Countess Potocki, Frank Stenson, Andrew Sexton, Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, the J. Donald Scotts, Mrs. William Corbett, Mrs. Daniel B. Scully, Mr. and Mrs. J. Donald Kearns, and the Michael McGuires. Mrs. Thomas J. Condon is chairman of the party.

Methodist Radicals Win in First Test with Conservatives

Columbus, O., May 8.—[Special.]—The radical Methodist Federation for Social Service today won at least a temporary victory over conservatives in general conference sessions of the Methodist Episcopal church here. This victory was seen in the defeat in committee of a resolution offered on the opening day of the conference by Dr. Thomas F. Holgate of Evanston, Ill., calling for an official commission of twenty-five to speak on all social and economic problems for the whole church.

The attack on the Holgate resolution was led by Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePauw university. Henry S. Henschen of Winnetka, Ill., president of the Conference of Methodist Laymen, who is observing the general conference in the interests of the laymen, stated tonight that a drive to support the Holgate resolution would be made when it reaches the conference in the form of a report of the committee which voted nonconcurrence.

BY MARY MEADE.

Today the young cooks are all set [at least we hope so] to make a special something that they probably order for dessert every time they have a chance. Go on, you've guessed! Chocolate ice cream, of course.

Are you going to use ice and a regular crank-turned freezer? Well, then, yours is the first of the two recipes.

LICK-THE-DASHER CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM.

1. Measure two cups of milk into the top of a double boiler, with boiling water in the lower pan.
2. Shave two squares of baking chocolate with a knife or grater, and add to the milk.
3. Let the milk and chocolate heat together, stirring frequently, until the chocolate is well melted. If it remains in tiny flecks or lumps, give it a beating with a rotary egg beater.
4. In a mixing bowl break two eggs. Beat these a little, just until they're evenly frothy.
5. Add one cup of sugar and one-quarter teaspoon of salt to the eggs and beat again.
6. Slowly pour the hot chocolate-milk mixture into the beaten egg yolks, and stir all the time.
7. Return the mixture to the top of the double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until it thickens a little and the mixture coats the spoon when you lift it up to look at it. [No longer than that. Remember that eggs are easy to overcook and then your custard mixture will curdle.]
8. Take the custard off the heat and let it cool.
9. Add two cups of coffee cream [thin cream] to the cold custard, and three teaspoons of vanilla.
10. Pour the mixture into the inside container of the ice cream freezer. Pack ice and rock salt around it, measuring it by cupfuls so that you use one cup of salt for every eight cups of ice.
11. Turn the freezer slowly until you feel the ice cream thickening, then faster until it seems pretty hard to keep turning. Then remove the dasher or paddle carefully, plug the hole in the lid of the can, pack with more ice and salt.

FREEZER TRAY CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM.

1. Measure one and one-half cups of milk into the top of a double boiler, over boiling water.
2. Add two squares of baking chocolate, shaved or grated finely, and heat until the chocolate melts. Beat it with a rotary egg beater to help it blend nicely.
3. Measure three-quarters cup of sugar, one tablespoon of flour, and one-quarter teaspoon of salt, and mix together. Add a little of the hot chocolate milk to the mixture to make a thin paste, then stir the paste into the hot milk in the double boiler.
4. Let the mixture cook for ten minutes, stirring frequently.
5. Beat one egg in a mixing bowl, and pour a little of the chocolate mixture into it slowly, beating all the time. Pour the mixture back into the double boiler, and stir constantly while it cooks for two minutes. Remove from the heat.
6. Measure one teaspoon of granulated gelatin and mix it with four tablespoons [one-quarter cup] of cold water. Add this mixture to the hot chocolate custard and let it stand to cool.
7. Whip one and one-half cups of heavy cream [whipping cream] until it stands in peaks. Fold this, along with one teaspoon of vanilla, into the cold custard.
8. Turn the mixture into the freezing trays of the refrigerator and set the cold control as low [cold] as possible.
9. When the ice cream is mushy, take it out and stir it well. Then return it to the refrigerator to finish freezing.

For Slender Junior Figures

JUNIOR GIRL'S FROCK.

Any member of the younger set who is the proud possessor of a slim figure will delight in this simple frock which suits so many occasions. This dress is cool and comfortable for active or spectator sports and charming for a wide variety of daytime social events. The miss in her teens may create it herself, for it is exceedingly simple to sew. The brief cape sleeves are cut in one with the narrow yoke which achieves the broad shouldered effect. The bodice is gathered softly and girlishly into the yoke. The skirt is plain and full without benefit of plaits, this latter detail being worthy of great consideration when it comes to laundering and pressing.

The original of this frock is youthfully charming in shrimp pink linen crash, printed in amusing rings in a navy shade. The lether belt repeats the navy contrast. White tub silk, with the yoke and belt of Kelly green, is another suggestion.

Style No. 2972 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3 yards of 35 inch material, with ⅛ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Mother-to-Be Should Have Medical Care

Neglect Endangers Life of Parent and Child.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Mother's day is having more than one kind of observance.

Since mothers are so precious, so needed, what could be a more fitting observance of this day than a campaign to reduce deaths from childbirth? This means making childbirth safer and guiding mothers to health and strength.

This year's nation-wide campaign, by the Maternity Center association of New York, waged to promote better care for all mothers, reaches its peak tomorrow on Mother's day.

The object of this campaign is to impress mothers with the necessity of proper care before and after their babies are born. It also is to awaken the community to a realization of its duty in supplying this care to those who could not otherwise have it.

Telling how this maternal care devolves upon the conscientious physician, and describing some of the difficulties of his position, Dr. Palmer Findley, in a recent book, "The Story of Childbirth," says: "The practice of obstetrics is now largely in the hands of the general practitioner of medicine and, as a rule, for understandable reasons, he finds it burdensome. There is no certainty in estimating the date of confinement, and we find the busy doctor in continual suspense lest he be unavailable when his services are needed.

"He looks at his calendar and observes a waiting list of expectant mothers, but he knows full well that his calculations may 'gang aft a-gley.' Too often it is at the end of a busy day, when his physical and mental powers are exhausted, that the demand comes for a night of unremitting toil and responsibility.

"His greatest successes create little comment, for he alone knows the dangers his skill has averted. His failures are on every gossip's tongue and their merciless criticisms are often his sole reward for waging a losing battle when all the odds were against him. In no other field of medical practice do the responsibilities weigh so heavily upon the doctor, and yet it is this work that is least remunerative."

The five points of adequate care which will save mothers' lives are:

1. A complete medical examination early in pregnancy.
2. Regular and frequent examination of prospective mothers.
3. An aseptic delivery under the supervision of an obstetrician.
4. Supervision, care, and instruction until the mother is able to resume her full schedule of activities. [This is one of the most overlooked safeguards for new mothers.]
5. Examination of the mother at four, six, eight, and twelve weeks after the baby is born.

Lemon Juice as Hair Rinse.

Jay: The juice of several lemons in the last rinse water after shampooing the hair makes an excellent rinse for blond hair that is growing darker. It brings out the golden tints. Peroxide is a bleach and makes the hair lighter, but if you continue to use it it will make the hair dry and brittle, unless you counteract the dryness with oil shampoos.

Detroit Opera Pleases with 'Prince Igor'

Complete Work Is Given Here First Time.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Detroit Civic Opera society, which had introduced itself twenty-four hours before in a successful performance of "The Dybbuk," chose "Prince Igor" last night as the second offering of its three day season in Chicago. The vivid and highly colored Borodin opera increased the reputation of the Detroit outfit for aggressiveness in matters of repertoire, for, as far as memory and inquiry have been able to determine, the piece has never before been mounted here in its entirety.

The music as a whole has some points of similarity to the excerpt that it played so frequently under the title, "Polovetzian Dances." There is that same sense of strangeness, the result of skilfully handled adaptations of eastern modes, and the same rhythmic originality and vividness. This last similarity appears only when the general tempos are rather high.

The powerful George Dubrovsky and Gean Greenwell led the cast as Igor and Galitsky, respectively. Jeanne Palmer, statuesque of presence and possessed of an opulent voice, sang Yaroslavna, wife of Igor, and succeeded in dissipating the fog of heat and indifference that had settled on the house early in the evening. The ovation which Miss Palmer's work provoked raised the spirits of both audience and singers.

Vasily Romakoff and Joseph Kallini furnished comic relief in the person of two heavy handed moujiks. The remarkable Edwina Eustis brought a note of softness and sweetness into the barbaric glitter of the opera through her haunting solo in the Polovetzian camp scene. And her vis-a-vis, Ivan Velikanoff, coöperated splendidly.

Eugene Fuerst conducted, and the Detroit Symphony orchestra provided the instrumental backgrounds. The sturdy chorus was drawn from the organization called Art of Musical Russia. Yakovleva's fetchingly comely and skilful Ballet Russe took a major part in the campfire revels.

The opera was sung in Russian. "The Dybbuk," in English, will be repeated tonight to close the short visit.

Four hundred children of grammar school age, gayly decked out in white suits and dresses and scarlet capes, crowded the stage of Orchestra hall last night when the Chicago Children's Festival orchestra and the Children's Festival chorus presented a highly creditable program under Edwin Harris Bergh's direction.

The youngsters are so young that the feet of some of the violinists do not touch the floor. But they chose for the important post of concert master an old man named Martin Sauser, who will be ready for high school almost any time now.

The devoted efforts of Mr. Bergh, who has been interested in the musical education of very young children for twenty or twenty-five years, has resulted in a clean, fresh, precise tone quality. Some of the credit for the good impression made last night must go to Don Wilson, whose imaginative arrangements keep so cleverly within the powers of child musicians.

Béla Martay, a likable young Hungarian violinist, played some Bach in Kimball hall last night in a manner that one does not usually associate with the fiery race from which he sprang. It was careful and introspective, with little or no attempt to make an old cantor's music especially vivid.

Besides variety of tone Martay can boast a clean technique and a nice line to his phrases. Prudence Neff accompanied.

Front Views and Profiles

ONE afternoon last week the third graders in an Oak Park school were given a free half hour in which they were told they could tell riddles, stories, draw pictures on the blackboard, or do anything to entertain their classmates. One little fellow stood up, went to the blackboard, drew a straight line, then put a letter S behind it and asked the children what it represented. They guessed that it was a dollar sign, or a cleff, and finally gave up.

"All right, I'll tell you," said the little boy. "It's Mae West hiding behind a lamp post."

THE village of Winnetka had its annual cleanup day last Wednesday, and residents were notified at what time the city would pick up rubbish put out in front of homes for collection. One Winnetkan did some sorting out in his basement Tuesday evening and set out a collection of objects, including an old oil burner and an old radio, for the city to pick up Wednesday morning. However, by Wednesday morning there was nothing left for the city to pick up. A procession of cars—some of them handsome ones, too, drew up at the house on their way by, and the occupants looked over the discarded objects and made selections. The householder watched some of this from behind the living room curtains, in the dark. The old radio and old oil burner went first.

Glazed Chintz Styles Smart Summer Coats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Not a smidge of material or any other possibility escapes the glittering eyes of a designer out for something new. Consider cotton ticking. The material makes the slim summertime suits in blue and white narrow stripes.

There's another new stunt to be noted in the long party coats to wear over summer cottons or the airy confections of cotton net or organdy or dotted swiss and kindred fabrics that make the best of the dance dresses. These coats are of glazed chintz with flowered patterned prints.

This doesn't mean that you should risk paternal wrath by pulling down the summer window drapes, but the stuff that makes these charming coats is the same flowered and colorful chintz that also is used for window drapes and summer slipcovers for furniture.

These coats are lovely, they fit snugly, and accent a narrow, small waistline. The short sleeves are puffed moderately, enough to give them a quaint charm. The skirts are full and flare from the kneeline down, like a flower. They are fashioned just like an old-fashioned greatcoat, with revers and an upstanding collar.

The shining black backgrounds are splashed with great clusters of roses and green leaves, with other small flowers for color contrast. The creamy white backgrounds have the same colors, mellowed as only this chintz stuff can be. You'll look like an old-fashioned valentine or shepherdess in the white affairs, and just as romantic in the black.

Wear the black background numbers over all your light dresses and the white over all the dark party clothes. These are definitly new, unpacked just in time for all the first exciting late spring and early summer parties, and are ticketed with considerately low price marks.

Furs for Fall

The American woman will wear her furs in capes next fall. This is indicattd in the advance autumn showing of the Associated Fur Industries which opened yesterday at the Palmer house.

The capes are of three lengths, finger-tip, three-quarter, and swagger. In addition to silver fox, ermine, and sable, all of which are easily adaptable to draping, beaver, nutria, and seal also are going capeline.

In coats, Persian lamb and Hudson seal will be the leading furs, stylists predict, with fitted lines being abandoned for the more flattering swagger and stroller lines. A trend toward the more luxurious furs, such as mink, is noticeable.

Silver fox is being shown in many guises, with the "twin silvers," or matching double scarfs, predominant. An innovation is the silver fox boa and the matching muff of gargantuan proportions, which conceals a purse under a flopping foxhead.

Harold Lloyd and Garbo Return Home on Same Train

Hollywood, Cal., May 8.—[Special.]—Harold Lloyd and Greta Garbo arrived from the east on the same train today but the manner of their respective journeys was in marked contrast, fellow passengers said. Garbo kept to her compartment during most of the trip while Lloyd laughed and joked with his admirers en route. The bespectacled comedian was met at San Bernardino by his wife, the former Mildred Davis, and their children.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin Wed to Dwight Davis

Relatives Only Witnesses at N. Y. Ceremony.

New York, March 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin of New York and Washington and Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis and Tallahassee, Fla., former secretary of war, were married quietly here this afternoon in the chapel of Riverside church. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock by the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, the pastor of the church, in the presence of relatives.

The engagement was announced in Washington on April 7. At that time it was said the marriage would take place this month, possibly at Bayberry Land, the Sabin residence in Southampton. Plans for today's marriage were kept secret and they were not announced until after the marriage had taken place.

Those who attended the wedding were the bride's mother, Mrs. Paul Morton; her sons by her first marriage, Paul Morton Smith and J. Hopkins Smith III., and her sister, Mrs. Harry F. Guggenheim; Mr. Davis' son and his daughters, Dwight F. Davis Jr. and the Misses Helen B. and Cynthia B. Davis.

There was no reception after the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis are expected to sail the early part of next week for a wedding trip to Europe. They will be gone for a month, possibly longer.

Upon their return it is expected that they will divide their time between this city, Southampton, and Washington.

The bride is the widow of Charles H. Sabin, who was president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York. Mr. Sabin died in 1933. The former Mrs. Sabin is a daughter of the late Paul Morton, secretary of the navy in the cabinet of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Davis is 56; his bride, 49. The former Mrs. Sabin had been a Republican national committeewoman from 1924 to 1928 after a long service to the party in New York state. She resigned her committee post to take a leading part in the women's movement for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Davis' first wife, the former Helen Brooks of Boston, died in 1932.

Carrie Chapman Catt Here to Help Plan Conference on Peace

Expressing gratification over the increasing influence of women in national and international affairs, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt of New Rochelle, N. Y., honorary chairman of the committee on the cause and cure of war, visited Chicago yesterday.

Mrs. Catt attended a meeting in the Harriet Hammond McCormick Y. W. C. A., at which plans were discussed for the twelfth annual conference on the cause and cure of war, to be held in the Palmer house the last week of January. Previously this conference has been held each January in Washington, D. C. Miss Josephine Schain of New York is active chairman of the committee.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

That young man whom everybody's been talking about [Mr. Robert Taylor, in case the name NEEDS to be mentioned] will be the reason why "Small Town Girl" makes movie history—if it does.

The picture is a comedy romance, built on too familiar lines to be outstanding from a story or production standpoint. The plot is that concerned with the handsome and inebriated scion of the rich who marries a poor girl after a squabble with his fiancée.

He wakes up to regret his action. For good reasons the newlyweds decide to pose as a rapturously happy pair for six months and then split up. During that time—O goodness, you could write the rest of the yarn with your eyes shut!

As in "The Magnificent Obsession," Mr. Taylor impersonates a medico. This young Dr. Bob Dakin is a brilliant chap whose work in the clinic conducted by Dr. Fabre, a friend of his father, a retired physician, is hampered by his playboy tendencies.

Following a Yale-Harvard football game, Bob picks up Kay Brannan, a small town girl who is awfully fed up with small townedness. The dawn wedding at the home of a complaisant justice of the peace follows. . . .

The piece is distinguished by nice performances throughout. Mr. Taylor is handsome and dashing as Dr. Dakin Jr. He has breeding and great charm of manner plus genuine manliness and makes both his drunk and his sober scenes convincing. The latter he invests with a nice, clean ring of sincerity.

Miss Gaynor is pretty good. She's much more appealing in her sad and quiet moments than in those where she's standing up for herself, at which times she seemed a bit yappy and futile to me. She is past the days of girly naivete and I hope her producers will not try to keep her too sweet and simple in future.

Nella Walker and Lewis Stone are delightful as the elder Dakins. Charley Grapewin does a fine bit as Dr. Fabre. Binnie Barnes is luscious as the girl Bob forgot to remember. Bright bits are contributed by assorted members of the capable supporting cast.

Direction was adept. Some of the dialog is clever—some merely routine. The picture is smartly staged and dressed.

All in all it SHOULD prove B. O. [No, no, Lambkins! BOX OFFICE!]

See you tomorrow.

Through the Looking Glass

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

A smart little box containing a rich cream, tonic, a cucumber emulsion and a delightful face powder is a beauty investment for the dry skinned that will pay good dividends. It's inexpensive and attractive.

There are heavy creams and light ones and some that are in betweenish. Every woman to her taste and to her own needs. Cosmetics are pretty much like diets—individual requirements and preferences will best dictate their selection.

Among the definitly heavy creams we have a great favorite, one that is positively drippy with rich oils. It's yellowish, gooey, and it even smells a little oily. The most stubbornly dry skin responds to it and it can be used as a softener as well as a cleanser. We've often recommended it and have never yet had a dry skinned woman tell us it wasn't completely satisfactory.

Now you'll find this cream, surrounded by three companion pieces, in most of the shops at a very low price. This is your chance to get acquainted with it—and with some of the other good products by the same maker. It's a beauty bargain of importance, we think.

There is, for instance, one of those summer essentials, a delightful tonic. This is made especially for dry skins; without being a harsh astringent it does its bit to keep the skin from becoming too relaxed and it does wonders when used after cream to promote the clean, nongreasy feeling.

There is also a cucumber emulsion which is to be spread over the rich cleansing cream. This has a bleaching action, gentle but effective, which has obvious merits for the woman who is no longer young and whose skin has begun to darken.

There is also face powder in this package—a choice of two shades. It's a good powder for dry skins, and a pretty veiling for any face.

This small green and gold box is a happy thought as a week-end kit to tuck in your bag. It's awfully inexpensive.

Field Mansion Will Be Scene of Gay Party

Planned as Successor to 'May in Vienna' Fete.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE hear there is going to be a "Mai im Wien" party this year, some have been saying hopefully. We hear there isn't going to be a "Mai im Wien" party others have said sorrowfully. All are wrong. There is going to be another party, arranged by the same clever ones who planned the charming dinner-dance at the old Germania club last May, but it isn't going to be a repetition of the "May in Vienna" one.

What it is going to be the secret committee is guarding well, but after much sleuthing we have discovered that it is going to be held on Friday, May 22, and that the location chosen is the old Marshall Field house in Prairie avenue.

The invitations will be telephoned, and since no one admits that he or she is on the committee planning the affair, those who aren't invited cannot be offended at any one. But every one who went to the delightful dinner and dance at the Germania club last May is hoping to be on this year's list and some others hope that this year's list is longer than last year's.

The old Field mansion will be an ideal place for a dinner-dance and, although we were not able to confirm this supposition, we imagine the costumes will be those of the vintage of the days when Prairie avenue was THE fashionable residential street of the city, for the committee is calling it "The party on Prairie avenue." Until the telephoning starts, however, bidding the chosen ones come to the affair, your guess is as good as mine!

The Association of Arts and Industries owns the mansion now, so it is through its generosity that the committee is able to use the house.

Director Cites Great Success of 'Adult' Films

Magowan Sees the End of Standard Plots.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 8.—Kenneth Magowan, one of the top rank movie producers who attained his position by brains and hard work, thinks the movies have grown up. He points out that so many recent successes have been stories of adventure, characterization, realism and historical fidelity, instead o fthe old "boy and girl" plot.

"What is happening in the pictures now is a parallel of the process through which the stage passed in this country," he says. "It was not until the matinée idol and the 'Old Homestead' and love melodramas gave way to vital subjects and accomplished character acting that the stage came to maturity. The cinema now has discovered that it is not necessary to adhere to romance entirely for story material. Stirring and human stories in which love of man for woman plays a negligible part are just as readily accepted, and sometimes more so.

MacGowan cited "The Informer," "The Country Doctor," "Tale of Two Cities," "Mutiny on the Bounty," "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," "Prisoner of Shark Island," "Private Life of Henry VIII," "Louis Pasteur," "Things to Come," and "All Quiet on the Western Front" to support his remarks.

Figures in a Twentieth Century-Fox report filed in Washington, D. C., show that Warner Baxter drew $20,000 in 1935.

Margot Grahame, who hurried back to England on completion of her last picture for a reconciliation with her husband, Francis Lister, has asked two months' additional leave from Radio R-K-O studio and says that she hopes to induce Lister to come to Hollywood with rer. If he doesn't, she'll stay in England, she notified her employers.

One years ago "Curley" Twiford, a gassed and wounded world war veteran living in Hollywood, found a stray mother dog with four puppies and befriended the little family. He found good homes for all but one pup, apparently part Boston bull. A little later some one gave him a sick love bird.

Curley trained the dog and bird and now has both of them taking movie assignments at $25 each while he lives comfortably on what's left over from hamburger and bird seed. Both the dog and bird are in "His Majesty Bunker Bean" with Owen Davis Jr. and Louis Latimer, a Radio star, the bird riding all around the place on the dog's back.

George Raft, playing a jaz orchestra leader, is cast as the lead opposite Gladys Swarthout, playing the part of an opera singer, in "Opera Versus Jazz," which will be the good looking soprano's next movie. Frederick Brennan is doing the screen play.

Tom Brown gets the biggest rôle of his young film career opposite Barbara Stanwyck in "The Noose," her part being the same she created on the stage.

Mrs. Verna Cover of Chula Vista, Cal., wrote Paramount studio offering a "house broken deer which sleeps in our living room with the dog" for a rôle in the film, "Wilderness," in which the main rôles are to be taken by animals.

H. Pahl, 2209 Coyne avenue, Chicago, wrote offering a "fearless 8 year old black horse, with jet black beautiful mane and tail, well built, nice action, well broke unsual disposition, has been used two years in a milk wagon, and will follow you any where if you call his name—Tony."

A practical joker almost gave Queenie Smith heart failure. He looped a stuffed boa constrictor about her pet avocado tree in the back yard just before Miss Smith went out to pick herself a fresh bouquet.

Lorimer Johnson, a pioneer of the movies and the producer of the first serial film, J. W. Kerrigan's "Adventures of Jacques" and the first five reeler, is now playing a bit in Gertrude Michael's "Return of Sophie Lang." He used to be the stage understudy to John Drew, and his son, Richard L. Johnston, is production manager at Paramount studio.

Frank Morgan plays Shirley Temple's grandfather in "Dimples." He's Prof. Eustace Appleby. Frank says his movie ambition is to play in the same film with his brother Ralph and have Ralph steal a scene from him.

Elisha Cook Jr., who is making his movie debut in "We Found Love" at Universal, is finding Hollywood a bewildering spot. Joel McCrea and his director, Al Green, conspired to slip some spoons into Cook's pocket at the San Fernando Valley café where the three have been lunching. Back on the set the café proprietress, who was in on the plot, phoned Cook and testily asked him to return the spoons. Cook almost swooned when he reached in his pocket and found them. A couple of days later the jokesters put more spoons in his pocket. Then they had a policeman come to the set and ask if he had any of the spoons. Cook didn't know that the cop was just one of the studio force who happened to be working on another film on the same lot.

Henry Wilcoxson gets the rôle of Duncan Heyward in "Last of the Mohicans" for Reliance Pictures. Much of the James Fenimore Cooper story will be shot in forest regions along the Klamath river in Oregon. Randolph Scott, Bruce Cabot, Robert Barrat, Don Alvarado and Frank McGlynn are in the cast.

Net of Stars.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Apparently a most complicated pieced block, "Net of Stars" enjoys the usual brilliant reputation of all the star patterns in existence. Color has much to do with the final success of the design, but the pattern itself is not nearly as difficult as might be imagined from the various pieces used to create the block. Only 30 fifteen-inch blocks are required, and these are sufficiently attractive to require a half inch binding for a finish.

Sarcastic Man Usually Makes Poor Husband

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I have fallen in love with a man who is very sarcastic and cynical and doesn't trust girls at all. At times he is almost rude and has hurt me terribly. He married a boyhood sweetheart when he was 24, and she left him at the end of a year. She said she could not stand his nagging. He is willing to let her get a divorce so she can marry the man she has since found. He likes me a great deal and wants to spend every evening of the week with me. He gets furious if any other man even telephones. Now I don't intend to try and change him, for I like him the way he is. I am only trying to make him believe in me and trust me." Ginger.

Darling, if you have any ginger left in your system, you'd better proceed to fall out of love with that man as fast as you can. We would recommend, as a quick means of accomplishing the fall out of love, a young man you do not have to make believe in you or argue into trusting you. Believe us, youngster, marriage will have enough problems of its own without loading yourself down with the extra worries attached to being mistrusted.

It's amazing how young women who are so smart about picking out pleasant jobs for yourselves, choosing reputable houses at which to purchase your clothes, get your beauty work done, and so on—we say it is amazing the way you'll accept marked down goods when it comes to suitors and future husbands. There's something farily shopworn about a man who has been married already, you know. The fact that a first wife found a year with him all she could stand is no recommendation for the man.

Besides, you already have run up against the unpleasantness of a sarcastic, cynical companion. Don't think marriage is going to smooth down that disposition. It won't. It will become worse as time goes on, and you will feel less like aiming to please as the days go on.

There's nothing in favor of a man who doesn't trust girls. He has not played fair with them himself, you may be sure. That's why he has turned on them. However, if you are one of those sillies who will marry anything in trousers, go ahead. But be sure that you're in for it if you take this cynical suitor.

Her Husband's Past

By Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Nell Martin elopes to London with Eric Cameron, an older divorced man, who had been visiting in her home town Wellsport, ignoring her parents' pleas to marry Dick Holmes, her childhood sweetheart. On their honeymoon Nell learns Eric has two children, Meg, 17, and Robin, 15; that she must make her home with them and with Mrs. Beaumont, the mother of Hilda, his first wife. Hilda has married again. Her children believe her dead. From the first a feud develops between Nell and granny. Nell is tortured with constant reminders of Hilda. Nell returns to Wellsport with her ready made family, where Eric has an engineering job. Granny becomes friendly with Mabel Weston, hotel clerk and town gossip. Mabel arranges to have Dick Holmes invite her and Meg sailing one afternoon. Granny accompanies them to the boat. Nell is at home alone when a solicitor's clerk calls, with news that Hilda's husband had died, leaving her destitute. Nell arranges to send her a weekly sum secretly. When granny comes home she finds gloves, which the man left behind, and insinuates Dick Holmes, who failed to meet the girls, had been calling on Nell.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

THE MYSTERY OF THE GLOVES.

"I don't think I own a pair of gloves—except those I use for motoring in the winter," Dick said, eyeing Mrs. Beaumont a little sullenly. "Why should I come calling in a pair of yellow gloves?"

"Why should you 'come calling' at all," mimicked granny, "when you'd fixed it up to take the girls out for a sail?"

"I didn't," said Dick.

"O yes, you did. You said for Meg and Mabel to meet you at the hotel and they waited for nearly an hour."

"I mean I haven't been near here this afternoon. I'm sorry about the girls. I had to take a lorry over to Tewbury this morning. I knew I'd be a few minutes late getting back, but I didn't count on engine trouble out on the marsh road exactly three miles from anywhere. That held me up an hour and when I got back they told me the girls had got tired of waiting and took the bus into Tewbury to go to the pictures. I thought maybe they'd be back by now, and I came around to explain."

"A very pretty story!" granny exclaimed with a knowing nod and wink. "I almost believe it, myself."

"As far as I know it is a true story," Nell said, as cheerfully as she could manage. "I expect Meg will be home before long. Will you wait, Dick?"

"Thanks—I might as well," he said, with a scowl at the Doubting Thomas.

Granny affected not to notice him and turned her head sidewise, sniffing the air.

"Something's burning," she said. "I do believe the house is afire!"

"It's a cake I put in the oven and forgot," said Nell.

The front gate clicked. There was Meg coming home with her father. Probably they had returned from Tewbury by the same bus.

A little pang shot through Nell's heart when she saw them together. Meg was so like Eric, yet she resembled her mother, too. She looked so lovely in the white linen dress she had put on to go sailing—the trip that hadn't come off. She held her hat in her hand and her dark curly hair was tossed becomingly by the wind. She seemed to have grown up this summer; she was nearly as tall as her father.

"What's the matter with you, my sweet?"

"I must see about supper," Nell said hurriedly.

In the ordinary way she would have been on the doorstep to welcome Eric. She felt that she wanted to avoid him now.

And in the ordinary way, too, she would have extended Dick a cordial invitation to stop and have his evening meal with them. As it was, her parting remark sounded like a hint for him to take himself off.

She hoped devoutedly that granny would not follow her into the kitchen. She had had about as much devilment as she could stand for one day.

No, granny trailed upstairs and it was Eric who came into the kitchen.

Nell found him standing there staring thoughtfully at the ruined cake when she came out of the larder with a laden tray.

"O, hello, Eric," she said.

She set down the tray and dumped the cake out of its tin into the kitchen dust bin.

Wasn't she going to kiss him—or wasn't he going to kiss her?

There was a guilty load on her conscience. It he faintly guessed, if he ever found out how she had dealt with Hilda's emissary, how would it affect his feelings toward her? Would his love turn to hatred?

He couldn't possibly love two women, could he?

"How did Dick Holmes happen to be here?" he asked.

"I think he called to explain why he didn't keep an engagement with Meg and Mabel Weston. Didn't Meg tell you?"

"She told me they waited in the hotel lounge for an hour and he failed to turn up. I suppose he forgot completely there was a telephone in the hotel."

Nell repeated what Dick had said, but all the time she seemed deeply preoccupied with assembling the things for supper. There was the cold meat, the potato salad, a jar of potted prawns . . . "Now where do you suppose that woman has hidden the pickles?"

"Nell!" He had her by the shoulders now.

"Yes, Eric?"

"What's the matter with you, my sweet?"

"Nothing. What makes you think there's anything the matter?"

"Your whole manner. You look ill, too. Not at all your usual self."

"I can't help how I look. It's the heat, I suppose."

"Do you realize that you haven't kissed me, yet?"

"I was wondering why you hadn't kissed me."

He kissed her then, but her lips were not very responsive.

"Did you ask Holmes to stay to supper?"

"No, of course not."

"Why didn't you?"

"Because—O, Eric, I don't like to put it into words, but I sort of feel you don't like Dick."

"Is that the only reason you didn't ask him?"

"It's the best one I can think of."

Meg came into the kitchen and they turned away from each other.

"I've asked Dick to stay to supper," Meg said. "I hope that doesn't put anybody out."

"There's plenty and he's quite welcome as far as I am concerned," Nell replied. "But I think you should have consulted your father first."

Eric adopted a puzzled air.

"Why should anybody consult me? I don't run the commissariat," he said lightly.

At supper granny reintroduced the story of the yellow gloves and they had it all over again with some of the old woman's insinuations couched in playful guise.

Nell thought: "In another minute I'll go crazy and tell them the truth."

Perhaps if Dick Holmes had not been there she would have done so.

The afternoon that had started so happily . . . O, it doesn't do to allow oneself to be happy for even so much as one little second in this wicked world!

Nell was thankful when the meal was finished.

Granny said: "I'll help you with the dishes, although if I were in your place I'd stack them up and leave them for Eva in the morning."

This was a sort of ritual inaugurated by Mrs. Beaumont every time the maid had her afternoon off; and since Nell would not leave the dishes and granny had not the slightest intention of helping with the menial task, it happened that Meg would reluctantly offer her assistance. Meg, too, thought the dishes might be stacked and left, but Nell had not been brought up that way.

The telephone rang. That was Robin to ask might he stay all night at the Martin farm.

Meg answered it and then came through to the kitchen. Her father wasn't there so she said to Nell: "Robin's not coming back tonight. Would you mind if I didn't help you? Dick wants me to come along with him to the hotel to explain about this afternoon to Mabel."

"Of course I don't mind," Nell replied.

What a blessed relief to get them both out of the house.

Field Mansion Will Be Scene of Gay Party

Planned as Successor to 'May in Vienna' Fete.

most delightful ways of spending the after dinner hours is that the Playwrights theater, which was organized in 1922, has acquired a tiny theater and will bring to Chicago outstanding plays, professionally cast, which ordinarily never are produced here.

Mrs. Helen Walton, Miss Alice Gerstenberg, who founded the Playwrights; Miss Mary Gardner, Mrs. John H. Noyes, Miss Emily Goehst, Miss Virginia Dalton and Gerald Frank are members of the executive committee of the organization which has acquired the quaint old coach house in North Dearborn street which the Junior League used as a workshop for its sets and costumes during the last winter. The house, much like that of the Provincetown Playhouse, has been transformed into a small theater, seating only 150. It will be opened on Wednesday night with the first Chicago appearance of "The Wind and the Rain," a successful London play. The play also will be presented on Thursday and Friday nights. Friday night will be gala night with many dinner parties preceding the performance. Among those who will be entertaining are Mrs. Frank Fuller, Seymour Blair, Mrs. Andrew Sherriff and Frank Breckinridge.

Among those who have belonged to the Playwrights since its organization are Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Arthur Aldis, Mrs. Philip Maher, Miss Sarah Hinde, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank and Walter Frazier.

Tell Engagement of Barbara Fortune.

Although Mr. and Mrs. John Leo Fortune had planned to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Barbara, to French Strother Cary Jr. at a tea party in the near future, the romantic news has become known so generally that Miss Fortune and Mr. Cary are admitting the engagement to all of their friends.

Miss Fortune was graduated from the Chicago Latin School for Girls and spent a year at Vassar before making her debut two years ago. Miss Fortune, Miss Mary Harrington and Miss Betty Babson bowed at a ball on the night of the Princeton Triangle's performance. Mr. Cary is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fortune are returning from a trip to Indiana tomorrow and will decide then whether to continue with plans for the party. Young Mr. Cary's mother is in Baltimore just now. No wedding plans have been announced but it is expected that Miss Fortune's two sisters, Mrs. William J. Lawlor Jr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Nolan, will be in the wedding party, as well as one or more of their brothers, who are John Jr., Peter, Robert and Thomas.

Robert A. Gardners Married 20 Years.

The dinner-dance Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Gardner are giving tonight at the Shoreacres club is in celebration of their twentieth wedding anniversary, although the anniversary itself was on Wednesday. The wedding of Miss Katherine Keep and the young Yale athlete and golf champion took place in the Christ Reformed Episcopal church, no longer in existence.

Mr. Gardner's cousin, Paul E. Gardner, and his wife have come from their home in New York to attend the dinner-dance. They arrived on Thursday and have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins until today when they will go to Lake Forest for the week-end. Mrs. Hutchins, who is Mrs. "Bob" Gardner's sister, entertained at dinner for her guests Thursday night; yesterday Mrs. George R. Nichols had a luncheon for them and last night they dined with Mr. and Mrs. John A. Stevenson.

The William McCormick Blairs are giving a cocktail party before the dinner-dance tonight and tomorrow the Stanley Keiths will entertain at luncheon for the guests.

Early Sunday evening the Paul Gardners—he used to live here—will return east to start on a fishing trip in the south.

Second Son Is Born to Allen Earle Whitmans.

Yesterday morning, before he left for Columbus, O., Charles Edward Brown had a telephone call from his daughter, Betty Brown Whitman, bringing the news that Mr. Brown has another grandson, born early yesterday at the Doctors' hospital in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Earle Whitman, who live in Split Rock road, Oyster Bay, N. Y., already had one son, Allen Jr., who will be 2 years old next month. They are going to name the new baby Johnston DeForrest Whitman, after his great-grandfather, who was one of the founders of the Metropolitan museum in New York.

Mr. Brown went to Columbus for the funeral today of his wife's mother, Mrs. William G. Deshler. Mrs. Prown and her sister, Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox, already were in Columbus. Mrs. Brown will go on to New York from Columbus to see her daughter and grandsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, who haven't had any babies in their house in Lake Forest for some time, now have two, and two nurses. The babies are two of their five grandchildren, three week old Louis F. Swift III., and ten month old Janet Aurelia Hauck.

Tiny Louis and his parents, Louis F. Swift Jr. and the former Libby Chase, will be with the Chases until they find a house in the country in which to live, and little Aurelia, named for her mother and her great-grandmother, the late Mrs. Benjamin F. Ayer, will be with her grandparents while her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hauck, visit her other grandmother in California. The Haucks, who motored on from their home in Connecticut, are leaving today for the west.

Mrs. Charles Dwyer Heile Jr., the former Marianna Beckwith, has returned to her home in Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, with her infant daughter, Barbara Beckwith, now a few days old. The infant is the granddaughter of Mrs. John W. Beckwith of East Elm street.

Mrs. Donald Defrees Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. Donald Defrees was hostess yesterday at a luncheon in her charming home on Thornetree lane in Winnetka, her guests being the women who will assist her in staging next fall the annual benefit fashion show of the Winnetka board of Northwestern University settlement. Among those at the luncheon were Mrs. John P. Hooker, Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, Mrs. Robert Butz, Mrs. Hill Blackett, Mrs. Harold O. Barnes, Mrs. William Darrow, Mrs. John Nash Ott, and her house guest, Mrs. F. H. Lehy of Boston.

Mrs. Defrees' daughter Jean, who was scheduled to make a debut last season but who decided not to "come out" formally, is planning to go directly to Camden, Me., from Northampton when Smith is out, so she will not be back in Winnetka until about the first of August. Her grandmother, Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees, has a summer place at Camden.

Bridegroom Is Ill; McMurray-Walker Nuptial Plans Change

Illness of the bridegroom-to-be last night forced a change in the wedding plans of Miss Jane McMurray and Robert G. Walker. The wedding will take place this afternoon in the apartment of Mr. Walker's parents, the William M. Walkers, on Sheridan road, instead of at St. Chrysostom's church. The Rev. Dudley S. Starck will read the service.

The reception which was to have been held at the Woman's Athletic club has been canceled along with other social features of the marriage and the wedding will be a family affair.

The wedding trip of the couple will await Mr. Walker's recovery.

Miss McMurray is the daughter of Mrs. George N. McMurray.

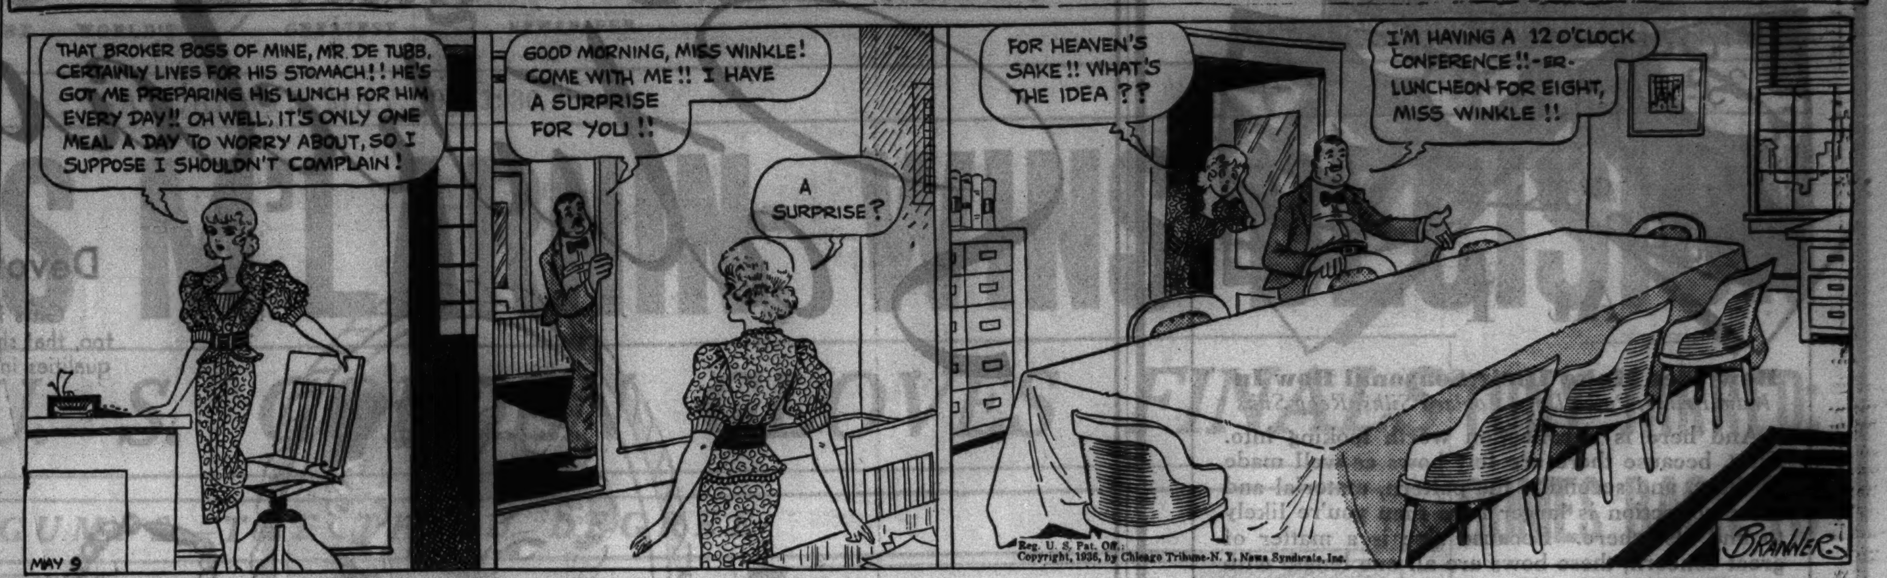
WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Serving Notice



Spring Frocks Bloom at Arts Club Lecture

"The flowers that bloom in the spring, tra-la," do not all have their roots in earth, for the warm days have brought out every conceivable color and variety of flower printed on gay spring frocks. Yesterday morning the large gallery of the Arts club resembled a flower garden, for almost every woman there was wearing a print, either a whole gown of it or a blouse or a gilet.

The occasion was a lecture by George Rowley of New York on "The Chinese Exhibition at London" and every one agreed after the lecture that it was most interesting and instructive.

Mr. Rowley traced the evolution of Chinese art in his talk about the treasures in the exhibit, illustrating it with slides showing some of the bronzes, procelains and paintings that were displayed at Burlington House.

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, who have Mr. Rowley as a house guest, sat in the front row for they have a keen interest in things Chinese and were very much disappointed that they were not able to visit London during the exhibition. They had planned to go to England before the show closed, but their departure for the Riviera was delayed until too late.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, one of the few fortunate Chicagoans who did see the exhibit, was smart yesterday in a cool looking print of black, green and rose, and sitting near her was Mrs. Arthur Meeker, handsome in a black suit with a printed blouse. Mrs. Palmer removed her black hat, as did many of the other women seeking more comfort on such a hot day.

Mrs. John H. Winterbotham's black gown was enlivened with yellow and black print accessories and Mrs. Charles H. Swift wore a black and white print. Mrs. Joseph E. Otis and her daughter, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Miss Clara Lake, Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne and Harold F. McCormick were a few of the others who filled the gallery for the lecture.

Mrs. Carpenter entertained at luncheon at her residence in Lake Shore drive for Mr. Rowley after the lecture.

The Neoterics Hold Another Good Exhibition

Moderns and Nonmoderns Meet There.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Another attractive exhibition has been hung as the climax to the active season which the Neoterics have enjoyed in the Findlay galleries, 424 South Michigan avenue. The room in which they exhibit is small, but in the case of the current show its size is an advantage, as there is a fresh and springlike air about the paintings that a larger hall might endanger.

The Neoterics are supplying, consciously or not, a link between the modern and nonmodern artists of Chicago. Walter Krawiec belongs as absolutely and finally to the nonmodern persuasion as does Macena Barton to the modern, yet both are found here and the presence of both works to the advantage of the group.

Mr. Krawiec is showing a spirited little "Paddock Scene" in which the horse's head is particularly fine and the men watching and moving by the rail are admirably real.

Macena Barton shows an excellent portrait of Fritzi Brod, a portrait that can almost defy the stigma of the word "stunning." It is well modeled and well painted and the color of the heavy gown worn by Miss Brod is richly regal. Miss Barton offers a little "Pink Lamp" that is quaint and intriguing.

Helga Haugan Dean has been successful in her use of fresh, bright, piquant colors and "Sewing" is one of the triumphs of the show. Julius Moessel gives us again his "Madonna," a quiet and beautiful painting of a woman and child in a landscape.

T. A. Hoyer fascinates us with his little picturesque paintings, like illustrations for a delightful juvenile—the "Pink Clouds" might well be a lollypop-towner's dream. Julia Thecla also retreats into miniature canvases and from the tiny dimensions of her field throws out an occasional gem, such as "The Little Prince," a curious and interesting head.

Romolo Roberti has a decorative "Apples and Flowers." Emil Bisttram has a stunning "Poppies." His "Mother and Child" is reminiscent of Picasso. Emil Armin shows two gay pictures, one a New Mexico hill town, animated and sparkling; the other, "In a Merry Widow Hat," a possibly careless but rather intriguing lady.

Anita Alexander shows a tiny "Mexican Landscape" and a still life "Forgotten Toys." Tud Kemp offers a plaque of attractive quality. It is the bas-relief of a young girl holding a jester's stick.

The exhibition is worth seeing and will run to May 28.

Chicago Wins Convention of Junior League

Richmond, Va., May 8.—(AP)—The Association of Junior Leagues of America authorized restricted participation of member leagues in legislative or controversial matters and named Mrs. Peter L. Harvie of Troy, N. Y., president today before concluding its annual conference.

The delegates accepted the joint invitation of the Chicago and Evanston, Ill., leagues for the 1937 conference. Pittsburgh had bid for the meeting.

A majority of the 300 delegates voted to permit leagues to join local federated agencies of which they are members in indorsing certain types of legislation.

This was the more conservative of two proposals for amending the Toronto resolution of 1934, which prohibited participation of any kind.

Mrs. Cyrus Philipp of Milwaukee, Wis., was appointed to succeed Mrs. Harvie as secretary, and Miss Helen Leovy of Pittsburgh was reëlected treasurer.

The Chicago Junior league will hold its annual spring meeting Monday morning, May 18, at 10:30 o'clock at the Saddle and Cycle club. Officers will be elected. Luncheon will be served following the meeting. Miss Helen Bell, president, and Mrs. Charles H. G. Kimball will have returned at that time from the Association of Junior Leagues of America meeting in Richmond, Va.

A larger audience than any so far this season will witness the league's Children's theater production, "Mr. Dooley Jr.," at the final performance this afternoon at the Chicago Historical society.

Woman's U. Club.

The Woman's University club of Chicago will hold its annual luncheon and membership meeting today in the club's new headquarters in the Fine Arts building.

According to CULBERTSON

SIMPLE CONVENTION.

Certain conventional signals remain a mystery to many players despite the fact that they are explained time and again in bridge books and columns.

Playing in a rubber game recently at Crockford's club in New York, I had been blessed with an admiring kibitzer for several hours. No matter how elementary a bid or play I had occasion to make, my one man audience was highly enthusiastic. Then along came this hand.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K Q J 6 5
♥ 7 4 3
♦ 8 6 2
♣ 5 2

WEST	EAST
♠ 10 7 2	♠ A 8 4

♣ J 9 4 3	♣ 10 7 6

SOUTH

♦ A Q 3
♣ A K Q 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 no trump [final bid]

West, my partner, opened the four of diamonds and my king was taken by South's ace. A spade was now led up to dummy, West following with the deuce and, naturally, I let the jack hold the trick. But when the king of spades was led, I pounced on it with my ace. After that the declarer could make only his own high card tricks and was down one on the nine trick contract.

This time my kibitzer's face wore a dubious expression.

"Well, that's what I call pretty lucky!" he said. "How did you happen to guess to take the second spade lead? Suppose declarer had held the other spade?"

"But I knew he didn't have it," I answered. "My partner's failure to echo in spades notified me beyond question that he and not declarer had three originally. It is an ordinary convention."

"O!" he said.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the law about a player dealing out of turn?

Answer: A player dealing out of rotation or with the opponents' or an uncut pack may be stopped before the last card is dealt. Otherwise the deal stands as a correct deal made in rotation, and the packs, if changed, remain changed.

Mere Physical Loveliness Is Minor Factor in True Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

An editorial writer brought up the subject recently of looks as an influence in a man's life, as against its influence in a woman's life. Perhaps the editorial was suggested by the recently quoted remark that the pretty girl has a better chance at marriage than has the homely one. Anyway, our editorial writer argues that beauty, even prettiness, spells power to a woman. But for a man . . .

History would suggest that beauty in the man [or handsomeness, a better word for the sex] is hardly a stepping stone to success. Great statesmen have been notoriously ugly, with few exceptions.

The National Portrait gallery of London was combed for evidence bearing on the weighty these [?.. In that gallery housing portraits of the men who for the last 400 years have been important in every profession in London, the ugliness of the men is peculiarly impressive.

If there is a moral to be gained, it must be that ugliness in men has moral value. That is, the man must struggle harder to conquer. Too, he isn't handicapped by jealousy on the part of his superiors, say. Then there is a certain strength in being remembered for one's unusual features, although they may spell ugliness. So argued the editorial.

On might take issue with the assumption that beauty is power in a woman. It may be that we are dissuaded from the opinion by the futile uses to which many beauties have put their pictorial blessings. But the other day we met a beauty of younger years whose life since offers little tribute to the joy and power of beauty. Offhand we think of several just such beauty failures.

No, it takes more than beauty today to hold power for any length of time. Brains is the word for what a girl needs nowadays to get real places. Brains, grooming, clothes, and the general physical upkeep which makes for attraction, although form and features may be far from perfect. We might even go in for disputing the matrimonial advantages of having been born with a beauty prize in the mouth. Look around yourself at the married women in your group, in any group. The one you'd call a beauty is known as that because she stands out in the group. The rest are attractive in the modern manner, and that seems to be aplenty for the modern man's requirements.

All of which may sound as though we were playing traitor to our beauty editor job. Not so! We feel that all these modern advantages it is our privilege to pass on to women are giving women a new power and a new joy, so that no woman need feel she's been discriminated against today.

Facts About Gabardine

We Came Across These While Running Down Its History

$34.50

Gabardine, after having led a homely, but interesting life back in Shakespeare's time, dropped out of the picture and wasn't heard of again for several hundred years. It took one of London's by-appointment tailors to rediscover and revive it. Revive it he did, giving Gabardine it's new start in life in clothes recommended for a hazardous and adventurous sport career. Immediately it proved itself capable of standing up well against the work cut out for it. Today's Gabardine has an easier time of it, but it still retains the reputation it has always had for durability, coolness and the fine manner in which it responds to careful tailoring.

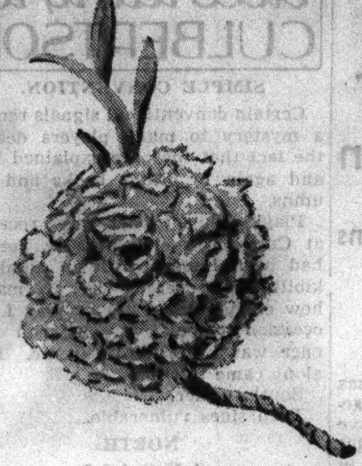
Saturday Review

Devotes This Issue to Mother's Day, Sunday, May 10th

Gifts for Mother should be new and exciting, and very thoughtfully chosen. They should be something, too, that she would adore having, but perhaps wouldn't buy for herself. We've selected these gifts with these qualities in mind. Choose any one of them and you are all set for Mother's Day.

Special Menu for Children, 11 A. M. to 2 P. M.
Today in the Children's Tea Room
Hobby Horse Singing Luncheon and Fashion Show
Little Tea Room, Eighth Floor.



50c to $2.95

A carnation for you to wear in your mother's honor—and almost any flower you can think of to present to your mother as a gift. You'll find them all here at Carson's—in colors to match her ensemble. Daisies, lilies-of-the-valley, water-lilies all are in readiness to be picked as Mother's Day gifts. Single carnations, 50c; double carnations, 95c; other flowers, 50c to $2.95.

Flower Counter, First Floor.

$1 to $2.50

Real ivory jewelry—it is lovely enough for even her. It will add a fillip to her every costume. A wide choice—bracelets, clips, earrings, necklaces—some are hand-carved, others are plain. Priced according to piece. $1 to $2.50.

Jewelry, First Floor.

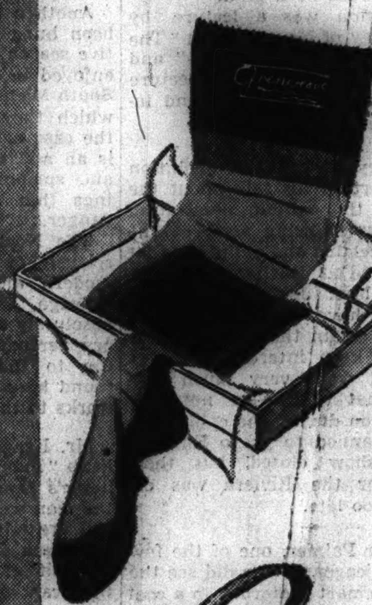
A dainty net blousette as feminine as she. It can make a matter-of-fact street suit take on a "Paris-in-the-Spring" look. It will give her a sort of elfin quality, a story book charm. Note the new wide points on the collar. Yellow, peach, white.

Neckwear, First Floor.



$1.15 pair

Grenweave silk stockings and she'll trust your taste. They're remarkable for their strength, luxuriously sheer appearance, and their quite extraordinary ability to wear. Give her a pair of service chiffons for everyday and sheer chiffons for dress. A wide choice of new shades. Other qualities, $1 and $1.35.

Hosiery, First Floor.

$2 and $3.75

Lucien Lelong's gardenia—and you're on the right scent for a perfect gift. Give her the perfumed cologne to keep fresh in her memory your good wishes to her. According to size. $2 and $3.75. Lelong's perfumed gardenia dusting powder is very true to its flower namesake. $1.75 box.

Toiletries, First Floor.

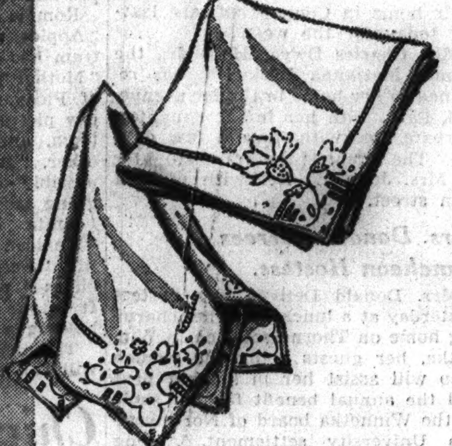
Paris says white "Toyo" for tailored or dressy wear. It's THE material, right now, and is destined to hold its own throughout the Summer—it's so cool and lightweight. The hat shown is an attractive peach basket style, becoming to a wide variety of types. One of many individual styles at $5.95.

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

$3

Tailored in calf—mother will probably get more downright use out of a calfskin bag than any other. Calf tailors to a "T", it makes a well groomed woman look even trimmer, it stands a lot of wear. Carson's collection at $3 is a triumph of individuality. Here are bags for every type of costume—from the tweedy type to the more formal tailored costume. Initials extra, 3 for $1.

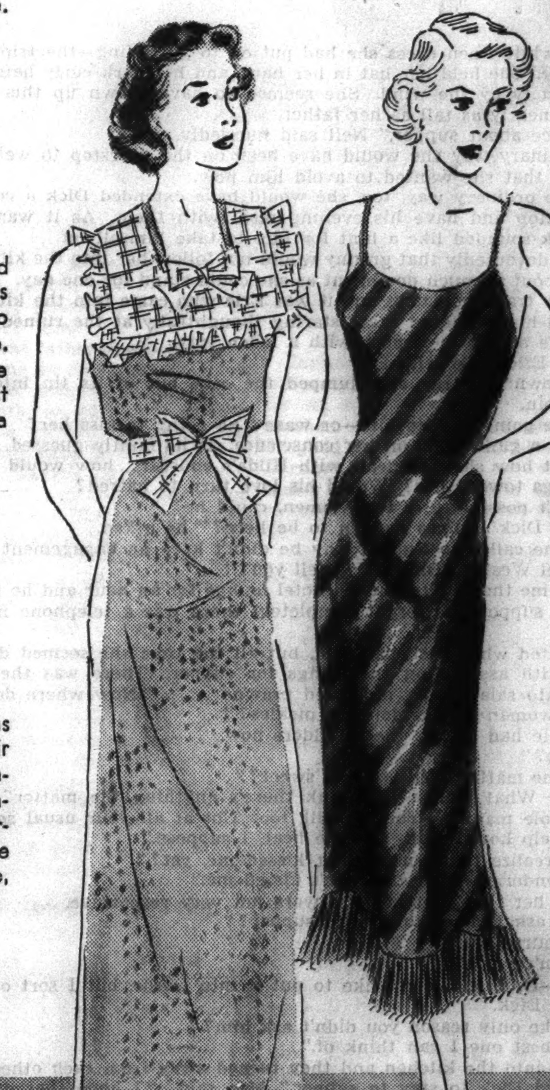
Handbags, First Floor.

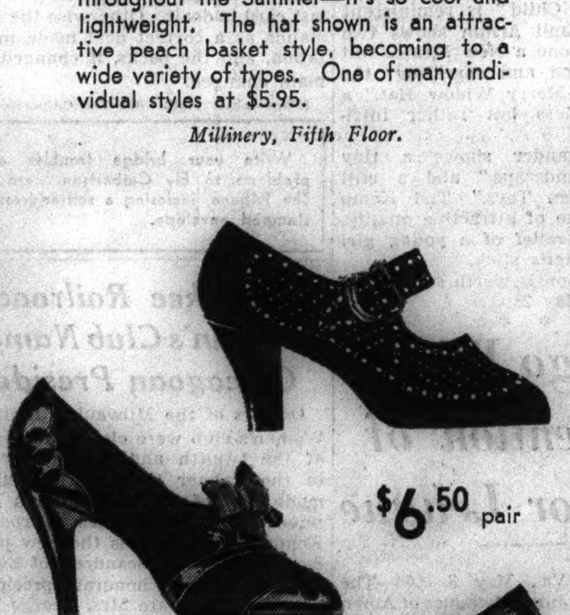


35c each

Hand-made handkerchiefs in good taste are showering our counters for this important occasion. A grand array to meet each individual mother's preference. Fine sheer linen, hand-rolled with elaborate hand-embroidery and applique. Select them by the dozen or singly to tuck in a new handbag or to give with gloves.

Handkerchiefs, First Floor.





$6.50 pair

$1.50 pair

Colored fabric gloves as exciting as her first flower bouquet. Give her a pair to match the flower on her hat, the trimming on her frock, the posy in her buttonhole. Imported double-woven fabric, overseam sewn, with one clasp opening at the wrist. White, black, brown, gray, beige, chamois, green, red, sky, pink, navy.

Gloves, First Floor.

Look at the New Styles that Just "Blue" in for the Smart "Younger Set"

And you can't tell, these days, whether she is a mother or a sweet young thing. Of course she wants blue shoes, for blue shoes are in the front rank of fashion. They have the knack of making her feet look smaller and more feminine than any other shoes.

Carson's presents a huge and exciting collection of blue shoes—from the sturdy walking shoe in service calf to wear with tailleurs to the more dressy styles in kid or fabric appropriate with softly tailored feminine fashions. Priced, the pair, $6.50.

Shoes, Third Floor.

4 CHICAGO BOYS JOIN STADIUM BATTLE MAY 20

Thrilling Bouts Mark Semi-Finals.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The sixteen boys who will fight in the finals of the National Golden Gloves meet at Chicago Stadium May 20 for places on the American Olympic team are:

Flyweights—Jimmy Urso, Detroit, and Louis Laurie, Cleveland.

Bantamweights—Johnny Brown, Chicago, and Jackie Wilson, Cleveland.

Featherweights—Joey Church, Batavia, N. Y., and Ted Kara, Cleveland.

Lightweights—Tommy Tedesco, Buffalo, N. Y., and Andy Scrivani, Chicago.

Welterweights—Chester Rutecki, Chicago, and Howell King, Detroit.

Middleweights—Jimmy Clark, Jamestown, N. Y., and Ord Fink, Syracuse university.

Light heavyweights—Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha, and William Townsend, United States army.

Heavyweights—Willis Johnson, Detroit, and Arthur Oliver, Chicago.

These boys last night fought their way through semi-final matches, marked by thrills and upsets, at the International amphitheater.

Four Chicagoans Win.

Seven thousand three hundred howled themselves into a state of frenzy as the semi-final battles were run off. Golden Glovers, four of them from Chicago and the others from Cleveland, Detroit, and Omaha carried away the lion's share of the spoils.

Chicago's spectacular battlers—Johnny Brown, Chester Rutecki, Andy Scrivani, and Arthur Oliver—surprised even their own wildly cheering admirers by the great showing they made.

Golden Glovers who unexpectedly failed to fight their way into the championship matches were Milt Shivers, Johnny Barbara, and William Joyce. They went down with colors flying, however, fighting madly until the final tap of the bell. But they were up against lads who were too good for them.

One Collegian Left.

One after another the intercollegiate and United States army champions went down in defeat. The only survivor from the university and college ranks is Ord Fink of Syracuse, in the middleweight division. The army's lone representative is William Townsend in the light heavyweight class.

The lads who reached the semi-final round were evenly matched. There was but one knockout during the fighting last night. Jimmy Clark of Jamestown, N. Y., a middleweight, delivered that mighty punch. He sent Jule Medynski of North Carolina university down and out in the first round.

Despite the lack of canvas kissing punches, every other match was a thriller and few boxing shows offering more excitement ever were presented in America.

Kara Beats Gevinson.

The crowd lingered on to see the last match which brought Ted Kara, brilliant Golden Glover from Cleveland, into action against the terrific puncher, Lou Gevinson of Washington, D. C. Gevinson had won all his earlier tournament matches on knockouts. His punches failed to reach the clever Kara's chin and the Clevelander in the final round rolled up a comfortable margin of points.

Jimmy Urso of Detroit won the first of the semi-final battles. He floored John Martin of the United States Indian school a half dozen times in the second and third rounds, but could not finish the redskin. Nevertheless he triumphed by a wide

GOLDEN GLOVERS SET PACE IN U. S. OLYMPIC TRIALS

Nelson Springs Surprise; Beats Milton Shivers.

No other unit made as strong a showing in the two day competition of the National Golden Gloves Olympic tournament at the International amphitheater as Chicagoland's Golden Glove champions.

Seven Chicago Golden Gloves champions competed and only two, Pete Lello, lightweight, and Milton Shivers, middleweight, were eliminated. The eighth champion, Paul Hartnek, Creighton university heavyweight, did not participate because of a broken hand.

Those who remain in the fight for the titles at the Stadium May 20, where the United States representatives in the Olympic games will be chosen, are Jackie Wilson, flyweight, competing as a bantamweight; Johnny Brown, bantamweight; Teddy Kara, featherweight; Chester Rutecki, welterweight, and Carl Vinciquerra, light heavyweight.

The various organizations which sent teams to the tournament qualified the following number of boxers for the finals May 20.

Chicagoland Golden Gloves	7
National A. A. U.	4
Detroit A. A. U.	3
National Collegiate A. A.	1
U. S. Army, Hawaii	1

Teddy Kara, Golden Gloves featherweight champion, almost qualified for the Stadium bouts without fighting last night. Kara drew Rudy Oden, but the Los Angeles youngster failed to pass his medical examination because of an injured eye, and Teddy was given the match by default. Joey Church, Batavia, N. Y., and Lou Gevinson, Washington, D. C., featherweight rivals of Kara, protested the drawing as illegal because Oden wasn't examined until after the pairings were announced. The Olympic boxing committee upheld the protest, and another drawing was held. Kara then drew Gevinson, and Church got the bye, the only one of the evening.

The biggest surprise in last night's fighting was Frank Nelson, Davenport, Ia., bootblack, middleweight, who was born on Chicago's west side twenty-one years ago. Nelson qualified for the Olympic tryouts in the National A. A. U. tournament at Cleveland and eliminated the great Milton Shivers by beating him in three rounds. It was Shivers' first defeat in eighteen fights, sixteen of which he had won by knockouts. Then Nelson drew Jimmy Clark, the Jamestown, N. J., knockerout and National A. A. U. champion an hour later. Clark won the three round decision and qualified for the championship at the Stadium, but only after the hardest scrap he has had.

Paul Hartnek, Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, came along with Carl Vinciquerra, his fellow student at Creighton university, but not as a competitor. He showed up with a dislocated right hand in a cast.

Interest in the tournament is so widespread that four movie news reel companies and three national radio networks have applied for accommodations at the finals May 20.

Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic committee, was in attendance out south last night. So was Thomas Lockhart, a member of the Olympic boxing committee. Lockhart arrived by plane from New York.

Other sports notables in ringside seats last night were Dr. James Driver, athletic director at the University of Virginia; Capt. R. C. Giffin, who serves in the same capacity at the United States Naval academy; Hugo Bezdek, athletic director at Pennsylvania State college; Judge Walter Steffen, advisory football coach at Carnegie Tech, and J. Arthur Milton Shivers (right) of Detroit, Chicago Golden Gloves champion, was the victim of the greatest upset in the tournament. Shivers' hopes of fighting in the Olympic games crash as he covers up under a furious barrage by Frank Nelson, Davenport middleweight. Nelson won the decision.

SHIKAT REFUSES ALVAREZ'S OFFER TO DROP SUIT

Columbus, O., May 8.—(AP)—Joe Alvarez of Boston, Mass., wrestling matchmaker, failed today in an effort to have dropped without prejudice his federal court case in which he seeks to have a managerial contract with Dick Shikat declared valid.

Fred Rector, attorney for Alvarez, submitted an entry to John A. Connor, counsel for Shikat and Al Haft, Columbus promoter who is now acting as Shikat's manager, asking dismissal of the case without prejudice.

Connor refused to approve the entry and submitted a counter proposal asking that the case be dismissed with prejudice, which would prevent a new suit in equity being entered by Alvarez.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A FORMER college football player who was almost the entire team at an eastern school got to talking with this department the other day about the improved environment and the more intelligent supervision of athletes and athletics in recent years. . . . This gentleman, who now is athletic director at a state university, said that college football players in his day were treated little better than oxen or work horses. . . . His nose was broken so many times his breathing was affected and he was unable to wear a nose guard because of the difficulty in inhaling. . . . Toward the end of one season he had lost so much blood that in a certain game he dropped to the ground exhausted. . . . His coach rushed out onto the gridiron, and, observing his condition, gave him two hypodermics. . . . He soon was on his feet carrying on for the reputation of his coach until somebody again cracked him on the nose. . . . El Sayre, Illinois football captain, rates Al Lind of Northwestern and Regis Monahan of Ohio State the best linemen he has played against. . . . Jimmy Bronson, Gene Tunney's old trainer, is attempting to make a heavyweight boxer out of Murray Patrick, New York Ranger hocky star. . . .

Curt Davis of the Phillies, whom the Cubs would like to have on their pitching staf, had decided to quit baseball and had made a business connection before the Phillies bought him, because he thought the San Francisco Seals were giving him a raw deal. . . . Ellsworth Vines has been paid $132,000 as a tennis professional since 1934. . . . The Dodgers' outfield of Freddy Lindstrom, 31; Ox Eckhardt, 34, and Johnny Cooney, 35, is called "The Outfield of the Century." . . . Phog Allen, athletic director at Kansas, hasn't attacked any one in the public prints for more than 24 hours. . . . Our operatives are investigating. . . . Tinker's Damn is the name of a colt entered in this year's Hambletonian. . . . He is a son of Spencer, winner of the 1928 Hambletonian. . . . Capt. R. C. Giffin, athletic director at the United States Naval academy, who has been in Chicago attending the Olympic Golden Gloves bouts, has another year to serve as the middies' sports chief before being assigned elsewhere. . . .

Cy Moore, former Yankee sinker ball pitcher, is writing open letters castigating the Baltimore club of the International league for releasing him. . . . Moore claims he was discharged because his salary was too high. . . . Officer Eugene Walcott, of the special detail at the San Francisco baseball park, is Willie Meehan, who fought Jack Dempsey four times. . . . Frank Marolich, 220 pound Washington oarsman, has been transferred from the crew to the baseball team. . . . They were afraid he would sink the ship. . . . Marty McDonough, second baseman at Colgate, who Frankie Frisch says is ready for the majors, will report to the Yankees after graduation. . . . Lefty Wright, the team's leading pitcher, will get a trial with the Red Sox. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Hack Wilson starred as the Cubs defeated the Giants, 8 to 7. . . . Fifteen horses were named to start in the Preakness. . . . Ty Cobb's two home runs helped the Tigers whip the Yanks, 14 to 10. . . . The Senators pounded Ted Lyons in the late innings to nose out the White Sox, 6 to 5.

TWENTY RUNS BUT CUBS ONLY GET 9 OF 'EM; LOSE, 11-9

Cardinals Take Liberties with Five Pitchers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Whatever the Cubs did yesterday—and they did plenty—wasn't enough. The St. Louis Cardinals, known as the gas house gang, did things in a bigger and better way. They heaped grief on a series of Cub pitchers, snuffed out one Cub threat after another and whipped the league champions, 11 to 9, in an exciting nine inning struggle. As a result the Cubs were forced to vacate first place and the Cardinals moved in.

The game began in a crazy vein and never changed. The Cardinals took a two run lead in the first inning. The champions tied it in the second. The rough, tough visitors lost no time recovering the two run advantage. The Cubs charged back in the fourth to take a 5 to 4 lead. One mighty drive by Joe Medwick with two on put the Cards back in front in the fifth. And after that they were never headed.

Tough on Pitchers.

Five Cub pitchers saw service and only one escaped bruising. He got away unscratched probably because he pitched to only one batter. The first to go was Larry French. Four innings of southpawing ended him with four runs across. Mike Kowalik was next and the lead he had when he started in the fifth was gone before he had retired two men. Medwick's homer, following a couple of singles, upset him.

Kowalik was lathered again in the sixth, this time for only one run. Then when he wild pitched a run across in the seventh, he gave way to Clay Bryant, who pitched only the last third of the inning. In the eighth it was Clyde Shoun's turn to suffer. The Cards let him down with one run. In the ninth Tex Carleton tried his luck. Another run scored, this one on a homer by Johnny Mize, who had perpetrated a similar smash off French in the fourth.

Dizzy Takes a Hand.

The Cards' luck with pitchers was only slightly better. Wild Bill Hallahan, who was more or less generous with a fielding error, a wild pitch, and a couple of passes, had to quit in the fourth when the Cubs put on their heaviest blast of the day, climaxed by Billy Herman's fifteenth

TONY JARRED; COMES BACK TO DOMINATE BOUT

16,959 See Fight at Madison Square.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Tony Canzoneri, first boxer in history to regain the world's lightweight championship, tonight added to his reputation as one of the greatest little fighters the ring has ever known.

Recovering from the brink of disaster, rallying from an imminent first round knockout, Canzoneri returned courageously to hammer out a victory over Jimmy McLarnin, stouthearted little Irish welterweight veteran from Vancouver, B. C., in a ten round battle that sizzled with action in the humid atmosphere of smoke hazy Madison Square Garden.

16,959 See Fight.

A crowd of 16,959 fans saw this fight and paid gross receipts of $85,763 for the privilege. This gathering saw one of the greatest ring struggles between little men since the night 13 years ago when Benny Leonard knocked out Ritchie Mitchell.

Through ten bruising, highly exciting rounds, Canzoneri, the smaller man, fought like a tiger against a foe who knew no retreat. And, when the aging Joe Humphreys announced at the final bell that the unanimous decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and Judges Charles Lynch and Charles Devlin was for Canzoneri there swept over the arena a roar of approval which spoke eloquently of the crowd's satisfaction with the bout and the decision.

Canzoneri Is Outweighed.

Canzoneri, spotting his foe six and one-half pounds, shook off the effects of this terrific impost and hammered McLarnin solidly through eight of the ten rounds. Indeed, only a matchless courage and an instinct as a ring warrior kept McLarnin erect in the ninth and tenth rounds, two three minute sessions of fighting that must have been an eternity to the Irishman rocking in his foe's gale of paralyzing punches.

Canzoneri entered the ring the under-dog in the betting. The odds favored McLarnin at 9 to 5, and in the first round these odds seemed justified. McLarnin, after being outboxed for a time, had his lighter foe on the verge of a knockout from a left and right to the jaw, the opening wedge in a tirade of blows that had Canzoneri staggering.

Inspired by the chance for a quick knockout, McLarnin lashed out with a left hook to the jaw and Canzoneri lurched convulsively. A right to the jaw and Canzoneri was helpless on the ropes, but McLarnin lacked the power to launch the destructive blow and drive it home and Canzoneri weathered the storm.

Canzoneri Comes Back.

Canzoneri came back in the second, furiously seeking revenge. He pawed for an opening and when it came crashed over a right to the jaw which dropped McLarnin in midring. McLarnin's right knee hit the deck under the impact of this drive and momentarily he swayed there on his knee.

But before a count could be started McLarnin jumped to his feet.

After that, with few exceptions, it was just a breeze for Canzoneri. Canzoneri picked off McLarnin's lefts in mid-air, blocked them with a crooked elbow, or ducked and evaded them. And with a wary eye on McLarnin's right after that first round, Canzoneri thrust aside the blow whenever it was launched, save for exceptions late in the third round and through the eighth.

McLarnin Rocks Canzoneri.

Late in the third McLarnin tagged his foe again with a right to the jaw and Canzoneri rocked to his heels. A left and right to the head followed and a left and right to the jaw bounced Canzoneri, hurt and staggering, against the ropes. Thereafter, until the eighth, Canzoneri belabored his foe and easily outboxed him. Despite a cut on the bridge of his nose, sustained in the first round, the lightweight champion pelted McLarnin from all angles and with both hands.

In the eighth round Canzoneri coasted, conserving his strength for the last two rounds. McLarnin was successful accordingly with a succession of left hooks that cracked Tony about the head and face without noticeable damage.

Tony Renews Attack.

In the ninth and tenth Canzoneri had the crowd on its feet yelling madly as he hammered McLarnin under a staggering fire of rights to the jaw. But Tony was weary himself, more from the battering to which he subjected McLarnin than the battering to which he was subjected. More, he was over-anxious and he missed with punches that would ordinarily have landed, and McLarnin survived.

Johnny Sheppard Stops Howells in Second Round

Erie, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—Johnny Sheppard, 131, Cleveland, won on a technical knockout over Tommy Howells, 132, Buffalo, in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout tonight.

Thrills and Upsets Mark Semi-Finals.

margin. Two Indians in full war paint were in Martin's corner, but that didn't seem to slow up the rights and lefts Urso was tossing.

This fight was in the 112 pound division. The other lad to punch his way through the semi-final round in that class was Louis Laurie of Cleveland. He handed a neat pasting to Paul Colombo of Batavia, N. Y.

Johnny Brown, Chicago's 118 pound champion, and Jackie Wilson, Golden Gloves' 112 pound champion who moved into the bantamweight division, both faced stiff opposition in the battles which carried them into the 118 pound championship match which may be one of the great headliners in the National Golden Gloves tournament finals at Chicago Stadium on May 20.

Scrivani Keeps Winning.

Andy Scrivani, another Golden Glover, came through in fine style. He won his third battle of the tournament when he took the decision from Thomas Pallatin of South Bend at the end of three furious rounds.

The greatest fight of the tournament came when Frank Nelson, colored bootblack from a hotel barber shop in Davenport, Ia., lost the closest kind of a decision to Jimmy Clark, another colored chap from Jamestown, N. Y. This was a middleweight scrap and every one was picking Clark, who had scored five straight knockouts while winning the National A. A. U. championship.

Nelson had stunned the big crowd earlier in the night when he hammered Milton Shivers of Detroit into defeat in the biggest upset of the tournament. He took a long lead over Clark, noted as a terrific slugger, in the first two rounds. Clark had something left and rocked Nelson with his smashing right to the chin in the last session. That rally gave Clark just enough points to romp out of the ring with the decision.

Nelson Wins Crowd.

Nelson, unheralded and unsung, made a showing that won every spectator in the crowd over to him.

Johnny Barbara, a Golden Glover who many believed was a sure thing to make the Olympic team, had his dream of a trip to Berlin punctured when he bowed in defeat at the hands of Howell King, a hard punching colored boy from Detroit. Earlier in the night King had outpunched Danny Farrar, the national intercollegiate welterweight champion from Duke university.

Farrar's defeat was as much of a surprise as was that of Barbara. Hailing from Cleveland, Danny won a Golden Gloves championship back in 1934 and was rated as one of the strongest of all the intercollegiate champions.

The hardest working newspaper men at the ringside were Charles Dunkley, Associated Press sports editor, and his associate, William Weekes. They handled scores of out of town requests for special stories in addition to regular assignments.

Fred Ware, Omaha World Herald sports editor, was close by expressing hope that Carl Vinciquerra lands a place on the Olympic team.

Willis Johnson of Detroit, who at 172 pounds is the lightest candidate in the heavyweight class, won a three round decision over Jim Brown, Syracuse university 240 pounder, who was the biggest fighter in the tournament.

PrepsCompete in Qualifying Meets Today

Illinois high school track teams will compete today in 16 district qualifying meets for the right to participate in the annual state meet at Champaign next week-end.

District meets will be held at Bridgeport, Evanston, Freeport, Granite City, Jacksonville, Kankakee, Mattoon, Proviso in Maywood, Moline, Monmouth, Monticello, Ottawa, Pekin, West Frankfort, Stagg field in Chicago and Carbondale. Winners and those finishing second in track events will qualify for the championship meet.

Set Qualifying Marks.

In the field events, any boy equaling or bettering marks set up by the association, may compete in the state meet regardless of whether he places first or second in his district.

The first event marks which must be equalled or bettered by non-place winners are: high jump, 5 feet 10 inches; pole vault, 11 feet 10 inches; broad jump, 21 feet; shot put, 47 feet; javelin, 172 feet, and discus, 121 feet.

Tennis, Golf Meets Too.

Winners of district meets will be permitted to send any athlete who places among the first five in his event to the state meet, but may not enter more than two men in any one event. Other schools will operate under the first or second place rule. Because of its big entry list, the Chicago district meet winner and the runnerup, will be allowed to send all individual place winners to Champaign.

The tennis tournament, to be held at Champaign next week-end, will be decided for the first time on a point system. Points will be awarded for each advanced in the singles and doubles with the high total winning the state team title. The singles and doubles titles will be decided as heretofore. The golf tournament also will be held next week at the Urbana Country club.

Iowa Rallies to Defeat Gophers, 5-2

Minneapolis, Minn., May 8.—(AP)—Iowa jolted Minnesota's hopes of retaining its Big Ten baseball championship today by defeating the Gophers, 5 to 2, in the first game of a two game series.

A wild throw by Babe Levoir letting in two runs in the seventh, followed by a single by Johnny Stephens, diminutive Iowa second baseman, erased the Gophers' two run lead and put them behind 3 and 2. The Hawks scored two more runs in the ninth.

Iowa got eight hits off Ev Grossman while Gosser, hurling for Iowa, yielded only five. It was Minnesota's first defeat in five games. Score:

IS YOUR LIFE WORTH 50¢?

THIS question is not as ridiculous as it sounds. Because that's exactly the value a motorist places on his life when he puts off buying new, safe tires. Squeezing that last thousand miles out of an unsafe tire may save you 50 cents at present prices—but suppose you had a blow-out!

The chances are better than even that you might have one. Because today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms—grows bigger and BIGGER until sooner or later—BANG! A BLOW-OUT! And think of the repair bills—doctor bills—that you may have to pay.

To protect you against these high-speed blow-outs, Goodrich Silvertown Tires are built with the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This exclusive invention resists heat—keeps rubber and fabric from separating—keeps blisters from forming. That high-speed blow-out doesn't get a chance to start.

Isn't it foolish economy to take chances when these life-saving Goodrich Golden Ply Silvertowns cost no more than other standard tires? Put a set on your car. Come in today!

REVOLTA TELLS OF GREAT SHOTS WITH WOOD CLUB

Good Brassie May Mean Birdie or Eagle.

[This is the sixth of a series of articles by Johnny Revolta, Evanston Golf club professional, present holder of the national professional and Western open championships, and leading money winner of the 1935 season.]

BY JOHNNY REVOLTA.

I have seen dozens of good golf shots hit with wood clubs, but I have to go back nine years to single out the one which stands as the greatest of them all. It happened during the semi-finals of the United States amateur championship at the Minikahda club of Minneapolis. Fred Athearn of Oshkosh had taken a great interest in my play and brought me to the amateur as his guest.

That semi-final brought together Francis Ouimet, the first American to make golf page 1 news in this country by his victory in the 1913 open, and Bobby Jones, the greatest of them all. The shot I refer to occurred on one of the long par 5 holes on the back nine, and I am still convinced that only Jones could have taken a single look at the lie of the ball in this case, diagnosed it in that one glance, and then hit a perfect shot.

Brassie Shot Leads to Eagle.

Bobby's tee shot turned up on the fairway, but in a downhill lie. Bobby took the aforementioned one look, reached for a brassie, and smacked the ball. It went into a little hook and began to climb after 100 yards, finally landing on the green six feet from the cup, whence he holed it for an eagle.

Even though Jones holds to his idea of not competing in any other tournament than the Masters' each year, I believe that if Bobby ever has two good rounds in the big show at Augusta he will be hard to beat for the single reason that the rest of the boys will be fighting the old thought of "Jones against the field."

The one wood shot that stands out in my own career occurred during the first round of the western championship at South Bend last summer. I had gone out in 38, and by the time I reached the 13th hole, was five over par. Every one in the field, with only a few exceptions, was shooting high scores because of a strong wind which whipped the course all day. After my drive off the 13th tee, I found my ball in a freshly marked divot hole, half buried. Desperate at the realization that I was five shots over par, I decided not to lose any more strokes to the card. I took a thin faced brassie and intentionally aimed it out of bounds, against the powerful right to left wind. It sailed out of bounds, all right, by a good 20 yards, but curved back in until it landed a foot from the pin for a birdie, after a 220 yard carry.

Cooper a Master of Woods.

I have always thought that Harry Cooper of Glen Oak is one of the finest of players of woods and other long shots among the present day stars. Recently a jury of leading pros named Harry as the standout among the wood club players. In winning the St. Paul open last summer with a record breaking total of 271 on brilliant rounds of 68-68-67-68, Cooper was off the fairway only once in 72 holes.

Paul Runyan is another example of the ideal wood shot, and is aptly called the Knight of the Soft Spoon. Gene Sarazen has said that he would rather see Paul hit a long iron shot than a spoon. Runyan has an unorthodox stance, in which his head and body sway, rather than turn. He has accomplished a marvelous sense of timing and rhythm by dint of practice, but I regard him as an exception, and wouldn't advise other small, slender fellows of Paul's build to go at wood shots in this manner.

Bobby Jones has called Frank Walsh of Chicago the most improved professional of the last year. Recently I asked Frank why he rated the compliment, although I had already noticed that he has developed a natural forward press with his right knee which prevents any tension and enables him to make a full turn. He verified this by saying that he had worked on the start of his swing, as it concerns the pivot, for a full year.

Here's a Useful Drill.

Too many average golfers find themselves at the top of the swing unturning the right side too quickly. This causes them to swing outside of the intended line of flight instead of retaining that full turn at the top of the swing, and shifting to the left side, bringing the proper position at impact.

Of course all of this action is supposed to happen simultaneously, but in practicing without hitting a ball this movement can be achieved by stopping at the top of the swing and keeping the wrists uncocked. Then just shift forward and bring the left arm down until it points straight down at the ball. This is a good slow motion exercise, which, with constant practice, will prove valuable in actual play, but if it appears too complex here it might be well to check up on this feature of the swing with a professional.

[The seventh and last of Revolta's articles, summarizing all of his tips to beginners in the first six articles will appear in tomororw's TRIBUNE.]

McLarnin Decides It's About Time to Quit Fighting

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, after the beating he took tonight from Tony Canzoneri, conceded he "ought to quit" but he wasn't as convincing about it as his veteran manager, Pop Foster. Both have said the same thing before.

"Fighting once a year is tough going," said McLarnin. "I just didn't duck enough tonight. Tony is a grand fighter."

Foster added vehemently: "I will insist Jimmy quit the ring. He should never have taken this fight. I was against it."

Canzoneri paid tribute to McLarnin tonight as the "toughest and best man" he ever beat.

"He caught me coming in with a terrific left hook in the first round," said the lightweight champion. "For a few seconds I didn't think I could stand up under such a vicious shower of blows. When I was able to walk to my corner unaided, however, I figured I could win."

Canzoneri said he had been hit harder but never so suddenly. Ray Miller hit him a harder wallop, he said.

Dake Drops from Lead in Chess Tournament

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Arthur W. Dake of Portland, Ore., dropped the lead in the national chess tournament here tonight as he lost an adjourned game to Samuel Reshevsky of New York. George Treysman of New York held the lead with a score of 7½ to 2½, Dake's defeat putting him in a three way tie for second with 7 won and 3 lost.

SOX SEND CAIN OUT TO INCREASE BROWNS' MISERY

Hope to Hand St. Louis 12th in Row Today.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., May 8.—Pitcher Sugar Cain, who suffered with the Browns for the first nine of their unfinished run of eleven straight setbacks, tomorrow will lend his talents to the project of extending the streak of his former mates to a dozen. Cain, when he starts for the White Sox in the opener of a three game series here, will become the first second string pitcher to get a starting assignment in 19 games this season.

This start Cain is to make will be a fine honor for the most recent White Sox acquisition. Until Ted Lyons started against the New York Yankees a week ago, only three gents had been so favored. John Whitehead has had six starts, the second of which he won; Monty Stratton has had six, the first and last of which he won; Vern Kennedy has had four, the first of which he won, and Lyons has started twice, winning the second time.

Can Return Over .500 Mark.

The White Sox, who won four out of the first five games they played and who have won four out of the last five games played, have only the eight straight losses sandwiched between to mar their record. By sweeping the Browns series, however, the White Sox can return home Tuesday morning to face eastern teams one game over .500.

The Sox can come home "as good as the league," that is, even .500, if they win tomorrow and Sunday, and a heavy dew or a cloud brings about postponement of the Monday game. If the Monday game is played it is believed it will set a major league record for privacy.

Appling, Dykes Off Form.

Recent games have indicated that the Sox have all departments clicking from fair to excellent, except the fielding of Luke Appling and Jimmy Dykes in the jams. Game after game was lost or exploded by their lax fielding and several others would have been dropped had they not personally made amends with their bats for their awkwardness afield. Both have blown up repeatedly when facing what should have been game-saving double plays.

Both Luke and Jimmy have been great players and should be again. When they are picking up and throwing baseballs with accuracy, the Sox look like a major league ball club. When Luke and Jim stumble and fumble and heave, the whole scene immediately plunges into an uproar, for then the infield is left with only one fielder, Tony Piet. Zeke Bonura, of course, is retained only for his ability to hit the ball far places.

Hope Dykes 'll Break Down.

The White Sox arrived in St. Louis from Washington shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon and it was believed by several in the Chicago party that before midnight Manager Dykes might break down and celebrate the second anniversary of his appointment as beloved leader of the Sox by buying a drink. Unlike his lavish big boss, J. Lou Comiskey, Jimmy has a deep seated prejudice against purchasing alcohol for beverage purposes.

Despite the well known Dykian precepts, however, several thirsty brethren, greatly depressed by Mr. Comiskey's departure from the team at Washington yesterday, said on arrival here they still had hopes Dykes would pop, seeing it's been two years now since he was elevated.

NORTHWESTERN NINE TO MEET CHICAGO TODAY

Northwestern's baseball team will meet Chicago in a return game at Roycemore field in Evanston today at 3 o'clock. The Maroons won the first game on the Midway, 3 to 2.

Today's game will be one of four contests in which Wildcat teams will meet Big Ten opponents. Northwestern's undefeated tennis team will meet Minnesota on the university courts in Evanston. Both the track and golf teams will compete away from home, the former in a triangular meet with Indiana and Purdue at Lafayette and the latter in a dual meet with Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Warneke Faces Parmelee Today at Wrigley Field

The second game of the Cubs-Cardinals series at Wrigley field today will see Lonnie Warneke opposing Leroy Parmelee. Warneke beat the Cards on opening day, but they knocked him out and since then he has worked only one full game. In the second game of the season Parmelee whipped the Cubs, 3 to 2, with Bill Lee performing.

When Frank Demaree singled in the second inning, it marked the thirteenth consecutive game in which he has hit safely.

The lady guests blossomed out with all their summery finery and screeching. There were 15,200 of them present. The paid attendance was 9,882, according to the official announcement.

Virgil Davis, the Cards' portly catcher, thought Umpire Babe Pinelli missed a strike on Augie Galan in the eighth and showed his displeasure by tossing the ball in the air and speaking harshly. Pinelli chased him to the clubhouse. Right after this incident Galan hit his homer over the right field bleacher. A moment later Paul Dean was ordered off the bench by Umpire Pfirman.

Yankees Held to Four Hits; A's Win, 3-2

New York, May 8.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, led by George Puccinelli, who hit a home run with one on in the third, defeated the New York Yankees, 3 to 2, here today, and ended the Yankee winning streak at four straight.

Puccinelli, star batsman of the Baltimore team in the International league last year, was partially responsible for the third Philadelphia run. This one came in the first inning when Bob Johnson singled to left, raced to third on Puccinelli's single, and scored when Pitcher Red Ruffing made a wild pitch.

Dusty Rhodes led the A's to victory today. Although he had to be relieved in the eighth by Bill Dietrich, he gave the Yanks only four hits in that time.

SENATORS, 12; RED SOX, 9.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Just to indicate that there is nothing magical about the Red Sox the Washington Senators came out of a deep slump today and batted out a 12 to 9 victory over the league leaders.

The Senators beat out the Red Sox at their own game—slugging. They outhit Joe Cronin's boys, 17-10.

Jack Russell started on the mound for the Senators and outlasted Fritz Ostermueller, who was driven from the game in the fourth when the Senators scored three runs on two hits and an error.

GIANTS RELEASE FRED MARBERRY, CHARLES ENGLISH

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Fred [Firpo] Marberry, veteran pitcher, was given his unconditional release and Charles English, rookie infielder, was returned to the Galveston club of the Texas league by the New York Giants today.

Marberry, famous as a relief hurler, joined the Giants this year after umpiring in the American league last season. He appeared in only one game and that three days ago when he pitched only one-third of an inning against the Pirates and allowed one hit.

DENY REPORT OF DEAL BETWEEN GIANTS, PHILLIES

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—A reported deal between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies which would involve Harry Gumbert and Sam Leslie of the Giants and Curt Davis and Dolph Camilli of the Phillies was denied today by Eddie Brannick, secretary of the Giants.

According to the rumors, the Giants want Camilli and Davis and would give Leslie and Gumbert and throw in $50,000 in cash. Manager Bill Terry is reported far from pleased about Leslie's work at first base. Gumbert has won only two this season.

Pirates Pound Red Pitchers; Win, 9 to 6

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 8.—(AP)—The Pirates pounded three Cincinnati pitchers for fourteen hits to win, 9 to 6, today.

Cy Blanton's relief pitching played a big part in the victory. He went in for Swift in the seventh with none out and fanned Pinch Hitter Lombardi with the bases filled. Cuyler fouled out, but Thevenow singled to drive in two runs.

Cuyler started the game with a homer, but the Pirates tied the score in their half of the first.

WINSTON GUEST ASKS COURT FOR U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Winston Guest, international polo star, today asked the District of Columbia Supreme court to require Secretary of Labor Perkins and Daniel W. MacCormack, commissioner of immigration, to declare him an American citizen.

Informing the court that his real name is Winston Frederick Churchill Guest, the petitioner said his mother, the former Amy Phipps of Pittsburgh, Pa., who married Frederick F. Guest, an Englishman, in London on June 28, 1905, never swore allegiance to the British crown.

Guest was born in Roehampton, England, on May 20, he said, and in July, 1919, his parents entered into a separation in England. Under that agreement he was given in custody of his mother, who a month later departed for the United States.

On their arrival at Ellis Island, Guest, as a legal minor, was registered as an alien, he said. His mother was repatriated by a federal court decree in 1923, Guest said, while he was still a minor.

Cards Defeat Cubs, 11-9, in Wild Contest

double of the year. Jim Winford served for a short spell, but without success.

Dominic Ryba had to help him out in the fifth when a triple by Gabby Hartnett and a single by Frank Demaree pulled the Cubs up to one shy of a tie. Ryba led a precarious existence; so when Augie Galan hit him for a homer, another fellow walked, and a third singled in the eighth, Ryba was yanked. In came none other than the valiant Jerome [Dizzy] Dean and that was the finish of the Cubs, except that he did have a little trouble getting out of the eighth with his lead intact.

Moore, the lead-off man, was set down in the first inning before the Cards set out on their two run venture. French helped start it by walking Frisch. J. Martin singled to center, Frisch going to third, and when Galan fumbled momentarily, Pepper scooted to second. Both scored on Medwick's single to left. The firing continued with Mize's single to center, Medwick taking third, but further run production was halted when Davis' roller to English was turned into a double play.

The second inning, when the Cubs established a tie, opened with a single by Hartnett. Demaree also singled. Cavarretta bunted and Hallahan dropped the ball as he was about to throw it, the error filling the bases. Hack grounded into a double play, but there was time for Hartnett to score. Then English banged a single to center and Demaree scored. A force out on French's grounder to Frisch completed the inning.

Cards Regain Lead.

The Cards dissolved the tie in the third, when one hit proved sufficient for one run. Moore clubbed a double to left and moved over to third on Frisch's infield out. Pepper Martin's long fly to Demaree gave Moore a chance to score. Then the Cards added to their lead with a run in the fourth. Mize produced it single handed by frisking French for a homer into the right center field section of the bleachers.

With one out in the home fourth Hack beat out a bunt and this brought on the three run splurge that gave the Cubs a 5 to 4 lead. English singled, sending Hack to third. Lillard made his big league debut by batting for French and the first ball pitched to him went wild, Hack scoring. Winford immediately replaced Hallahan. He completed the pass to Lillard. Galan lined into Moore's hands, but Herman responded with his 15th double, a drive to left center which scored English and Lillard. Klein fanned for the third out.

Mr. Medwick Busts One.

The Cardinals' three run assault in the fifth began when Moore, the first to face Kowalik, singled through Hack's hands. Frisch bounced a single off Cavarretta's shins, Moore going to third and Frisch resigning from duty in favor of S. Martin. On Pepper Martin's tap to Hack, Moore was run down. Then Medwick took charge. With the count 1 and 1, he exploded his homer over the left field wall to put the Cubs behind, 7 to 5.

The champions fixed up a removal order for Winford in their half of the fifth, but it got them only one run. Hartnett led off with a high fly to deep center. Moore raced over, crashed into the fence and the ball dropped for a triple. Moore jammed his right knee against the screen and was replaced by King. When play was resumed Demaree slammed a single into center, Hartnett scoring and Winford giving way to Ryba, who made short work of the remainder of the inning.

First One, Then the Other.

A pair of hits off Kowalik in the sixth restored the Cardinals' two run advantage. Durocher singled to left with one out and scored from first on Ryba's double, which came down close to the end of the bleacher in left center. Another Card scored in the seventh, making it 9 to 6. Medwick singled, went to third on Davis' single, and scored on a wild pitch, which marked the finish of Kowalik. Bryant finished the inning.

Cavarretta and Hack conspired against Ryba to the extent of a run in the home seventh. Cavarretta doubled to left and went as far as third on Hack's double, which fell between the two Martin boys. Cavarretta scored on English's fly. Then O'Dea was asked to bat for Bryant and flied to Pepper Martin.

Cards Add Another.

The Cards got into double figures in the eighth with a run off Shoun. Ryba led off with a pass and was forced by King. King dashed to third on S. Martin's single to right and scored on Pepper Martin's fly to Galan.

Galan opened the Cubs' portion of the eighth with his homer over the right field wall. Herman popped out, Klein walked and Hartnett was subdued on strikes. Then Demaree singled through short and in came the Great Dean. Dizzy was annoyed slightly by Cavarretta's single to center, which scored Klein. The rally fell short when Hack bounced to Durocher.

To cap the struggle with a fitting touch, Mize hit his second homer of the day while Carleton was pitching in the ninth.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Memory takes me back to the old three story and basement courthouse and city hall occupying the same square as the one of today, only one-tenth the size. It was an imposing building surmounted by an artistic and lofty dome, grounds nicely kept, trees and shrubbery, as well as a fountain, all inclosed by a high iron fence.

Outside the fence at curb of sidewalk, two horse carriages, called hacks "for hire," were allowed parking space. The courthouse, like all other buildings in the path of the big fire of 1871, was destroyed.

As a youngster I several times ascended to this old courthouse cupola, reached by an ordinary wooden stairway from the upper floor of building. Walls and framework were engrossed with hundreds of names or initials of city or out of town visitors to this high point which afforded miles of clear view.

Near by was the Chicago river with its branches easy to trace by the topmasts of sailing craft over tops of buildings along the docks. Looking to the north, Evanston was in sight, and then the Grosse Point light.

Chas. E. Jennings.

In 1873 the Dime Savings bank was at the southeast corner of Washington and Clark streets. The Fidelity Savings was on the north side of Randolph, a few doors east of Hooley's [later Powers'] theater. The Bee Hive Savings was over on La Salle opposite the city hall. All these institutions went down in the panic of 1873, depositors receiving little, if anything at all.

Mother, your tired worn little hands

But your hands are divine in my sight.

Only One Germ.

The doctor, called on a case of mumps, found mother and six children awaiting his arrival, according to Helper E. E. C. There was only one case, but he remarked, "Wonder if all these little folks will have mumps, too, before we're through."

"O, no," the mother replied. "The school nurse was here and she said there's one germ for scarlet fever and one for mumps. Willie, he's got the germ for mumps, so there can't anybody else get it. There hain't but just one germ."

Continuing that only name in the world argument, Vic L. contends L. D. Brightsman, a service station owner at Marenisco, Mich., is entitled to be included in the category. Aside from the rarity of the name Brightsman, the two initials L. D. do not signify any special names. Unable to agree on a name, his parents, for no good reason at all, according to our informant, compromised on "L. D." just because the initials seemed to harmonize.

MICHAEL RYAN DROPS DEAD AT OLYMPIC TRIALS

Michael Ryan, 66 years old, died at the International Amphitheater last night from a heart attack while watching the National Golden Gloves Olympic bouts. Mr. Ryan, who lived at 8049 South Paulina street, was the father of Miss Mary Ryan, secretary to President William Harridge of the American League, and Miss Eileen Ryan, secretary to Lou Comiskey, owner of the White Sox. A married daughter, Mrs. Alice Schofield, and two sons, Richard and John, also survive.

Mr. Ryan, a regular Golden Gloves patron, was an accountant for the New York Central railroad. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms at 5533 South Wentworth avenue.

LANE WINS OVER SENN AGAIN, 11-6, FOR 7TH IN ROW

Lane Tech defeated Senn, defending champion, for the second time this season and scored its seventh consecutive victory in the north section of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday. The score was 11 to 6.

Frank Dasso, Lane pitcher twisted his ankle in the sixth inning and was replaced by Johnny Burkot. The injury was not serious. Dasso fanned 11 batters to bring his total to 71 in 34 innings. John Dzuira led Lane's fifteen hit attack with two doubles and a single.

Parker made five runs in the third inning to turn back Calumet 6 to 2 in the outstanding south section game. It was Parker's sixth triumph in seven starts.

Morgan Park won 8 to 6 over Fenger to move into a tie for second place with Bowen. Each has won four games and lost two.

Lake View and Schurz tied for second place in the north section race by winning, the former swamping Washburne, 10 to 2, and Schurz achieving its fourth victory by defeating Roosevelt, 7 to 1, at Athletic park.

JOCKIES WAGE RIDING DUEL AT AURORA TRACK

Chojnacki, Rukas Divide First Four Races.

A pair of local youngsters—Frank Chojnacki of Cicero and George Rukas of Aurora—started out at the Aurora race track yesterday to engage in one of those riding feuds which frequently develop between apprentice jockies in the spring of the year, when the competition for mounts is keen.

Rukas came galloping home on the first two winners of the day, scoring with Ricciardo in the first race and then coming back on Eva R. in the second.

Chojnacki, about whom attention has centered for a week as the probable leading rider of the meeting, brought Red Go in in the third race, then came right back with Evening Gown in the fourth.

Baboo Wins Fifth.

Neither rode in the fifth, but by the time the sixth race—a mile event in which sharp riding was necessary to get clear at the start—came up the 5,000 racegoers on hand were rabidly partisan. They backed their choices heavily in the mutuels. But the feud fizzled out when Harvey Ferguson led the field on Baboo. Chojnacki won a moral victory by finishing second on Centennial, while third money was the best that Rukas could do on Let Her Play.

Most of the horses these lads brought home in front were at tall odds, all of which goes to indicate that the players at Aurora are not quite convinced yet that either is a Snapper Garrison, an Isaac Murphy, or a Sonny Workman. Still, if they keep it up at this clip they're going to have plenty of backers following the horses they ride before the meeting is much older.

Bold Venture Nominated.

Interest in the Illinois Derby reached new heights yesterday when word came from the east that Trainer Max Hirsch had nominated the Kentucky Derby winner, Bold Venture, for the race to be run on May 20. Hirsch announced in the east that he probably will send Bold Venture to Aurora for the race if the colt comes out of the Preakness in good condition.

Easterners accused Hirsch of dodging Brevity in the renewal of the Withers stakes in New York, which is to be run on the same day the Illinois Derby is decided. Still, the Withers carries but $7,500 in added money. The Illinois Derby added money totals $12,000. No one has ever accused Trainer Hirsch of passing up a chance to make an honest dollar, so it may be that the more valuable race at Aurora will be the cause of Bold Venture's moving west and that, after all, he isn't dodging the issue with Brevity.

Here Are Derby Entries.

Went to post at 3:15. At post 3½ minutes. Start good, from gate. Won easily, place driving. [Daily double, second and third races, paid $252.]

RED GO much the best, took command at the break and was never threatened. MAEBEE worked her way up steadily on the outside, but was unable to reach the winner. JOLYON went prominently all the way.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $435; second $100; third, $50; fourth, $15.

EVENING GOWN, rated off the pace for a half, moved up fast on the outside, disposed of BILLY O'NEAL, but just lasted to withstand ODERIC. The latter closed with a great burst of speed and was wearing down the winner. LO followed the pace under slight restraint in early stages, responded wel to urging, but was not good enough.

MRS. WICKLAND WINS IN SPORT SHOW CASTING

Mrs. Howard Chatt Takes Second.

Mrs. Martha Wickland, Mrs. Howard Chatt, and Miss June Carleton were first, second, and third, respectively, in the casting competition for women held last night at Navy pier as part of THE TRIBUNE's tournament in conjunction with the National Boat and Sports show.

Mrs. Wickland made a score of 97, exceptionally high for women, to defeat Mrs. Chatt, winner of the women's division in last year's tournament. Mrs. Chatt scored 94 for second place and Miss Carleton, 13 years old, placed third with an 85. Three other women, Mrs. Nadine Bryan, Mrs. I. R. McCall, and Miss Det McSherry of St. Paul competed.

Two Events Today.

Mrs. Wickland became nationally known as a woman caster last fall when she placed fourth in the women's division of the national casting tournament held in Milwaukee. She is a member of the Lincoln Park Casting club.

The tournament will reach its climax today with the final event to be held at 7:45 tonight and the boys' competition to be staged at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

All Boys Invited.

All boys under 16 years of age will be eligible to compete this afternoon. Winners of first, second, and third will win trophies donated by THE TRIBUNE. Boys who have not yet sent in their entries may compete by applying to W. J. Butler, tournament manager, at THE TRIBUNE booth in the pier before 3:45 this afternoon.

Tonight's final event will bring together the winners of the various events held during the last week, with two large trophies to be awarded to the high scorers. The winners of the events held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights will face the three men who scored highest in the fishermen's event held Thursday night. Winning women casters and boys will be eligible to compete in the finals if they so desire. Either fishing equipment or tournament tackle may be used in the finals.

Novices Compete Today in Central A. A. U. Meet

Approximately 2,500 boys and girls will compete today in the Central A. A. U. novice track and field meet at the International Amphitheater, Halsted and 42d streets, in connection with the Exposition of Youth. Nearly all of the city's parks and playgrounds are represented.

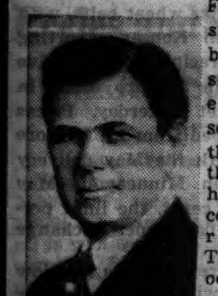
PARK TRAMMELL, SENATOR FROM FLORIDA, IS DEAD

Serving 4th Term; Former Governor.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Senator Park Trammell of Florida, former store clerk who became the state's chief executive, then served more than three terms in the senate, died here today of a cerebral hemorrhage. Senator Trammell, a Democrat, was 60.



SENATOR PARK TRAMMELL.

He was born in Macon county, Ala., and while he was still an infant his parents, John and Ida Trammell, moved to Polk county, Florida.

As a boy Mr. Trammell clerked in a Tampa store, earning part of the cost of his education at Vanderbilt university and Cumberland college.

Admitted to Bar in 1899.

He was admitted to the Florida bar in 1899 and practiced in Lakeland and Tampa. The next year he was elected mayor of Lakeland, serving two years.

The next step in his political career came in 1903, when he was chosen as a member of the state assembly. Then followed five years of service in the Florida senate, and in 1909 he became attorney general of the state. He was first elected to the United States senate in 1917 and had served in that capacity ever since.

Was Twice Married.

Mr. Trammell's first wife was Virginia Darby of Lakeland, Fla., who died in 1922. He is survived by his second wife, the former Mrs. Louis Mesmer of Lakeland.

When Senator Trammell came to Washington he achieved considerable notice by sleeping in his office and contributing the equivalent of the usual rent to Florida charities.

Mr. Trammell was chairman of the naval affairs committee, and in that capacity he introduced the bill to bring the United States navy up to full London treaty strength.

CUTTING LEAVES $50,000 ESTATE TO SON'S WIDOW

The will of Attorney Charles S. Cutting, former judge of the Probate court, was filed for probate yesterday. It bequeaths his $50,000 estate to his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary Bartelme Cutting, a cousin and namesake of former Judge Mary Bartelme. Mrs. Cutting is the widow of Attorney Cutting's son, Robert, who died in 1932. The elder Mrs. Cutting died in 1920. Attorney Cutting, who was 82 years old when he died in the Presbyterian hospital on April 17, was judge of the Probate court from 1900 to 1913, a former member of the board of education and a partner in the law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley. Mrs. Mary Cutting was named executor of the estate.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Curious Sex

LEO J. WINIECKI, CITY OFFICIAL, DIES SUDDENLY

Leo J. Winiecki, president of a printing concern at 2140 Clybourn avenue, and a veteran Democratic politician, died yesterday after a stroke in his home at 4449 Altgeld street. He was 60 years old.

LEO J. WINIECKI.

Born in Chicago, Mr. Winiecki began his career as a printer's apprentice, and organized his own printing company in 1906. For the last fourteen years he had been committeeman of the 35th ward. He served as commissioner of public safety under Mayor Dever, and at that time was credited with introducing safety zones for pedestrians.

Mr. Winiecki served as head of the state oil inspection service in Chicago until he declared for the Kelly-Nash organization during the recent primary election campaign. Mayor Kelly then named him a member of the city board of local improvements, a $4,000 a year job.

Surviving are his widow, Otylia, and three daughters. The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday from the family home, to St. Stanislaus church. Burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery.

F. H. MERRILL, EARLY MAYWOOD RESIDENT, DEAD

Funeral services for Franklin H. Merrill, a resident of the Chicago district for seventy-eight years, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the First Congregational church of Maywood. Mr. Merrill died Wednesday in the Westlake hospital. He was 81 years old. Since 1869 he had lived in the home at 800 South 6th avenue, Maywood, which was built by his father, Arthur Humphrey Merrill, a pioneer resident of the suburb.

Franklin Merrill was born in New Jersey and came to Chicago with his parents when he was 3 years old. When he was 10 years old his father took him to see the casket of Abraham Lincoln as it passed through Chicago. He was in the builders hardware business until 1907. Then he entered the insurance business, in which he was active until shortly before his death.

Surviving are a son and two daughters.

Albert G. Bunte Funeral Will Be Held on Monday

Funeral services for Albert G. Bunte, 81 years old, former Chicago candy manufacturer who died on Monday in Berkeley, Cal., will be held at 3 p. m. next Monday in the chapel at 3905 Lincoln avenue. The Rev. Rudolph John, pastor of St. Paul's House, will read the service. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery. Mr. Bunte, with his brothers Ferdinand and Gustave, founded the Bunte Candy company here in 1876. He retired in 1929.

JAMES HODOVAL, 58 years old, a member of the Berwyn police force for twenty years, died yesterday from a heart ailment. His home was at 2821 Highland avenue. His widow and two children survive.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Mother's day notes will be sounded often in tomorrow's broadcasts. The Golden Rule foundation has arranged a special program for 7 p. m. [opposite Maj. Bowes] over WLS-NBC in which John Charles Thomas, noted baritone, will be presented.

Mr. Thomas, who has followed the custom of ending each of his broadcasts with the words, "Good night, mother," is at odds with the federal radio commission because the commission banned this tag line on his program yesterday as a personal communication. His reply was a threat to quit broadcasting.

Mrs. James R. Smith of Claremont, Cal., who has been designated 'official something to say on the Golden Rule program.

The Cleveland orchestra will present a program of mother songs at 1 p. m. on WMAQ-NBC. On this same program a play entitled "John mother " by the foundation, will have Howard Payne" will be given. Payne wrote "Home, Sweet Home."

The American War Mothers will put on a special broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 2:30 p. m. from the Arlington amphitheater. Mrs. Howard C. Boone, president, is to present Senator Joseph T. Robinson and Representative Isabella Greenway. The marine band will play.

On the CBS Hour of Charm at 5 p. m. on WBBM Phil Spitalny's all girl orchestra will present Connie Boswell's song, "Mommy," which she has dedicated to her mother.

Wayne King, on his W-G-N-Mutual program at 5:30, will give his attention to songs that are the favorites of mothers. Eddie Cantor will salute the nation's mothers during his program over CBS at 6 p. m.

Baseball will occupy the airlanes as usual in the afternoon and will miss the Mother's day note unless some player slips a "Hello, ma" into the microphone in passing.

Donald Novis is to replace Morton Downey as the headliner on the NBC Evening of Paris program beginning at 7:30 tomorrow night on WLS. Downey and his wife and several of the children have departed for England and Ireland.

Coe Glade, opera star, is to be guest soloist on the W-G-N Mardi Gras of Melody next Wednesday evening. . . . Xavier Cugat, the tango and rhumba expert holding forth at the Stevens hotel, is to make a guest appearance on the Magic Key hour on WENR-NBC at 1 p. m. tomorrow. . . . Jack Russell will take over the W-G-N broadcast periods at the Drake beginning Monday until Horace Heidt returns from his tour to open there for the summer the following weekend.

Herbert Hoover's last formal radio address prior to the Republican national convention will be broadcast over CBS from 7:30 to 8 p. m. next Thursday. The address entitled "A Republican Program" is to be given at the Academy of Music in Philadelphia.

The music of Art Tatum, blind colored pianist, and his orchestra from the Three Deuces café, is to be aired from 1 to 1:15 each morning over WBBM starting next week. Austin Mack's music from Harry's New York Cabaret is to be heard following the Tatum periods.

Joe Sanders' orchestra and his Blackhawk entertainment unit, including Earl Rickard, Barbara Parks, Jack Swift and the Three Short Waves, will journey to the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital on Tuesday afternoon to entertain the disabled veterans.

SPENGLER, WHO WROTE 'DECLINE OF THE WEST,' DIES

MUNICH, Germany, May 8.—(AP)—Dr. Oswald Spengler, whose pessimistic prediction of the collapse of western civilization gained worldwide recognition for his book, "The Decline of the West," was found dead in bed at his home today. Heart stroke was given as the cause of his death. The 55 year old bachelor had been in good health. His niece, who kept house for him, found his body when she became alarmed over his absence at breakfast.

After teaching high school in Hamburg, Spengler came to Munich in 1910 and devoted himself to his private studies. He wrote his well known "Untergang des Abendlandes" [Decline of the West] in 1914, but held the work from publication until four years later.

One of Spengler's favorite theories was that familiarity of non-European races with technical knowledge was a crime against the white race and would inevitably accelerate its downfall. He also was strongly apprehensive of the dangers of bolshevism. National Socialism had little use for Spengler's pessimism and his latest work, "The Decisive Years," published in 1933 after Adolf Hitler came into power, caused a lively controversy.

POLICE AND FIRE VETERANS LOSE SUIT FOR JOBS

Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court yesterday dismissed the mandamus suit that sought to restore to duty 203 policemen and firemen who were retired last Jan. 1 under the new age limit of 63 years.

The judge overruled the contentions of lawyers for the plaintiffs that the law was unconstitutional because it singles out policemen and firemen, and because it vests discretionary power in the heads of the departments.

Judge Kelly ruled that the new retirement act is not discriminatory, in that it applies equally to all those who come within its scope. The discretionary power it confers relates only to determination of whether or not a policeman or fireman has attained the retirement age, the judge ruled. Once that age is reached retirement is compulsory under the act, in the opinion of Judge Kelly.

E. B. VREELAND DIES; NOTED FOR CURRENCY LAW

Salamanca, N. Y., May 8.—(AP)—Edward B. Vreeland, 78, a national figure a quarter of a century ago when he championed currency reform measures while in congress, died today.

The Aldrich-Vreeland emergency currency act, which was passed as a result of the panic of 1907, has been called one of the foundations of the federal reserve system by some financial authorities. It expanded the currency base by liberalizing collateral requirements. Vreeland served in congress for fourteen years.

He was president of the Salamanca Trust company for forty-four years until his resignation Jan. 1 on account of ill health.

He was born in Cuba, N. Y., became superintendent of schools here in 1877 at the age of 20, studied law, then entered banking. At 34 he was president of the local bank.

German Editor Dies in Fall from Horse at Army Drill

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, May 8.—Dr. Fritz Klein, former editor in chief of the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung and lately publisher of the weekly Deutsche Zukunft, was killed today in a riding accident, according to an official announcement. The account of Klein's death said he fell from his horse during a fainting spell while doing duty as a reserve officer in an artillery regiment at Liegnitz. Following Adolf Hitler's accession to power Klein assumer an independent attitude toward the Nazi régime. As a result he was forced to resign from the Allgemeine Zeitung in 1933. Later he founded the Zukunft.

New York, May 8.—French bonds continued under pressure today and fell to new low prices for the year. The 7s dropped to 167, losing 6 points in addition to yesterday's decline of more than 3 points. The Republic 7½s dropped back 3 points at 165.

To provide a contrary feature to the foreign section, Buenos Aires obligations moved up for gains ranging up to 2 points. Other parts of the foreign list were featureless. Italian loans held about steady.

Treasury List Weak.

United States treasury obligations encountered selling because of the approach in recent advances to the year's peaks and prices for most federal issues dropped back, although turnover was of minor proportions. Closing prices were 1-32 to 4-32 of a point lower.

Second grade rails moved irregularly, accounting for the bulk of moderate activity in the speculative section of the market. Prices of some of the favorite secondary liens developed a disappointing tone as support became half-hearted. Price changes were narrow.

High Grade Rails Easy.

High grade rails were in only light demand and quotations in some instances were a shade lower. Public utility issues were steady and quiet. Industrials were narrowly easier.

Transfers of $7,156,000, par value, were the smallest for a full five hour session since June 3, 1935. Sales on Thursday totaled $9,616,000.

Hines Land and Timber.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information on Hines Land and Timber company first and collateral trust sinking fund 6 per cent bonds—Mrs. B. L.

Answer: Hines Land and Timber company is a holding company formed in reorganization of Edward Hines Associated Lumber Interests and began business in December, 1933. It has saw mill properties in Oregon and Wisconsin, a wholesale department and 22 retail lumber yards in the Chicago area, cut over lands in Mississippi, and coal mining properties in West Virginia.

Funded debt outstanding consists of $3,637,400 series A, and $957,600 series B first and collateral trust sinking fund 6 per cent bonds. Outstanding capital stock Dec. 31, 1934, was $4,671,956 of $10 par shares. No dividends can be paid so long as bonds are outstanding.

Net sales rose from $4,065,000 in 1933 to $5,833,000 in 1934, and cost of goods increased from $2,666,000 to $4,200,000. Deficit for 1934 was $456,000, compared with 1933 deficit of $3,025,000 when $1,860,000 was charged as provision for abandonment losses and revaluation.

The bonds are regarded as highly speculative. Interest the first two years was paid in scrip. Full cash payment of interest is not required until after July 1, 1939. The stock, blocked from dividends as it is, is purely speculative.

Grocery Store Products.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate information on Grocery Store Products bonds due June 1, 1945.—F. E. M.

Answer: Grocery Store Products, Inc., formed in reorganization as successor to Grocery Store Products company manufactures and distributes macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, chocolate flavored malt food drink, canned and fresh mushrooms, and seasoning condiment. It was formed originally to control the Foulds company.

Under reorganization in 1935, holders of each $100 of 5 per cent debentures of 1944 receive $50 of new 10 year 6 per cent collateral lien bonds and 2½ shares of new common stock. One new share is given for each six old shares, represented by voting trust certificates. Capitalization now consists of $1,224,350 bonds, $184,300 8 per cent preferred of Foulds Milling, and 126,300 shares of 25 cent par common stock.

Net income for 1935 was $88,333 on gross sales of $2,164,000, with $794,000 gross profits on sales. Profit before income taxes was reported at $70,000 in 1934. Losses were sustained in 1933 and 1932.

The bonds are rated as speculative, the stock as highly so.

REMINGTON RAND TO CONSOLIDATE PREFERRED STOCK

Plan Includes Offering of Common.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—James H. Rand Jr., president of Remington-Rand, Inc., announced today a plan for the consolidation of all the company's present preferred stocks into a new $4.50 cumulative preferred issue bearing common stock purchase warrants, and for the offering to common stockholders of rights to buy additional common shares, the proceeds to be used eventually to retire the new preferred shares.

Under the plan each share of the present 5 per cent $25 par prior preferred stock, of which 196,441 shares are outstanding, including 9,702 shares reacquired by the company, will be exchanged into one-quarter share of new $4.50 dividend $25 par preferred stock, with warant.

$6 Preferred Exchange.

Each share of the present $6 dividend $25 par preferred stock, of which 175,394 shares are outstanding, including 16,800 shares reacquired by the company, will be exchanged for one share of new $4.50 dividend stock with warant.

Warants on the new preferred stock will entitle the holders to purchase 1½ shares of common stock for each share held at any time for a period of eight years beginning Sept. 1, 1936, at prices starting at $27.50 during the first year and increasing $2.50 each year thereafter to $45.

The new preferred stock will be entitled to $100 per share upon liquidation or dissolution, will have full voting rights, and will be redeemable at the option of the company at $100 a share. The company has covenanted that no preferred stocks of any class will be called during the life of the exchange plan, to terminate on June 12, unless extended.

Common Stock Offer.

Common stockholders of record June 10 will be offered the right to subscribe to one share of additional common stock for each four shares held, at $27.50 a share, for a period of 2½ years, from Sept. 1, 1936, to and including March 1, 1939.

Under the offering the rights may be exercised in full, but to help smaller stockholders to make use of their rights a stagger plan is provided under which they may subscribe at specified intervals from Sept. 1, 1936, to March 1, 1939.

The plan changes authorized capitalization from 310,000 shares $25 par prior preferred stock, 180,000 shares $25 par $6 preferred stock, and 2,500,000 shares $1 par common stock, to 250,000 shares $4.50 preferred stock of $25 par value, with warrants, and 3,000,000 common shares of $1 par value.

WHEAT BREAKS ON HEAVY RAINS IN SOUTHWEST

Better Outlook for Crop Causes Liquidation.

Heavy rains in the southwestern and western winter wheat belts, with some counties in Kansas reporting the heaviest precipitation in five years, resulted in a sharp break in the wheat market yesterday. Prices in Chicago dropped from 1⅝ to more than 3 cents, with the May delivery leading, while in Minneapolis May wheat was off 5 cents, the limit permitted for one day under exchange regulations.

Winnipeg futures sold at a new low for the season, with the October delivery touching 76 cents, or 11½ cents under the government guaranteed price for No. 1 northern cash wheat delivered at Fort William or Vancouver.

Holders of wheat contracts liquidated freely in all leading markets as the result of the more favorable outlook for the new crop, and at no time was there more than a moderate rally.

Some Short Sales Covered.

What little strength there was came largely from operators who were covering sales made at higher prices and by holders of bids. There was some buying of July wheat here credited to cash interests.

Closing trades on wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade were at losses of 1⅛ to 2⅞ cents, with the May delivery at 93 cents per bushel. Minneapolis lost 1¾ to 5 cents, with May wheat leading. Kansas City lost 1¼ to 2 cents and Winnipeg ⅞ to 1⅛ cents per bushel.

Reports from the southwest yesterday indicated the heavy rains would be of inestimable value in filling the heads of the wheat plant. Traders are prepared for a marked improvement in the character of the crop comments from the hard wheat belt.

May Wheat Under Pressure.

A feature of the trading yesterday was the persistent pressure on the May deliveries in the leading markets. Selling in Chicago against purchases of the July and September deliveries, which represent the new crop, coupled with a great deal of scattered outright liquidation of the old crop month, narrowed the difference between the May and July options to around 7 cents per bushel. Recently the May delivery was at 11½ cents premium over the July option.

Closing prices on the July delivery of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$ .86⅛	$ .87½	$ .86¾
Corn	.61½	.62	.61¼
Oats	.26¼	.26¾	.26
Rye	.51¾	.52½	.50⅝

Shorts in May corn showed uneasiness yesterday and prices averaged higher in the face of the decline in wheat. Distant deliveries were somewhat easier.

Oats and rye were affected to some extent by the action of wheat and prices declined fractionally.

CANADIANS PLAN BIG INCREASE IN GRAIN ACREAGE

OTTAWA, Ont., May 8.—(AP)—The dominion bureau of statistics today reported an increase of almost 1,000,000 acres in the area farmers will sow to grain in 1936 if they carry out their present plans.

The increase, about 3 per cent over last year's area, is confined almost entirely to Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The bureau, issuing its first crop report of the season, said the intended area for spring wheat is 24,354,000 acres, compared with 23,560,000 last year and 26,646,100 acres in the peak year, 1932. The total increase would be 793,400 acres.

Intended acreages of oats and spring rye show little change from the 1935 figures. Barley, however, indicates an increase of 168,500 acres, or about 4 per cent. Flaxseed will increase 22,400 acres, or 10 per cent.

Price of Grain Board Seats Decline; Control Feared.

Memberships on the Chicago Board of Trade sold yesterday at $4,500 and $4,600. A transfer was made on Thursday at $4,650. Fears that adoption of the commodity control bill in congress will operate to restrict speculative interest in the grain markets has been a factor in the recent decline in the price of memberships, it was said.

RESERVE CHIEFS TAKE STUMP TO LAUD NEW DEAL

Eccles and Szymczak Making Speeches.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 8.—The New Deal's federal reserve board has taken the stump to tell business that all is well and that the country needs more of President Roosevelt's medicine.

In a gesture to conservatives, Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the board spoke of balancing the budget "within a reasonable period" and defended his "spending for prosperity" theory tonight in New York before alumni and faculty of the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton school of finance and commerce.

Speaking before the Kansas City real estate board this noon, M. S. Szymczak, Chicago member of the reserve board, emphasized increased bank deposits as evidence that prosperity has returned.

Seek To Allay Business Fears.

The speeches were designed to allay the fears of business, which solidly opposed the cost and methods of the President at the convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce here last week. Copies of the speeches were distributed to the press here during the day. Expenses for the speech making tours will be footed by the reserve board.

Eccles minimized the all-time public debt peak of 31¼ billions and continuing unemployment as not "as unfavorable as most of the business and financial community have been led to believe." The net increase in the debt during the New Deal, according to Eccles, has really been only $5,979,000,000 instead of $10,524,000,000. From the debt total he subtracted an increase of $2,645,000,000 in the treasury's cash balance and an increase of $2,400,000,000 in recoverable assets, principally RFC loans.

Tries to Explain Unemployment.

Insofar as unemployment was concerned, Eccles said that there were between two and two and a half million persons out of work prior to the depression and the number of persons of employable age had increased from three and a half to four million.

"The federal government cannot and should not decrease its expenditures on recovery faster than private industry is able profitably to take over the load," said Eccles. "To do so would reduce consumer buying power and thus retard, if not reverse, the progress of recovery.

"The flow of money must be maintained and increased in an expanding economy. If private capital fails to maintain and expand the flow, and widespread unemployment exists or develops, government must act as a compensatory factor."

Eccles Avoids Press Interview.

The Eccles spending philosophy has been confined of late to public utterances. The chairman of the reserve board has granted only one press conference thus far in 1936.

Meanwhile, Szymczak at Kansas City had told gathered realtors that bank deposits had increased 1 billion dollars since June, 1933, up to a present total of 45 billions.

"Deposits at present are still below the 1929 peak by about five billions," said Szymczak. "However, since that time postal savings deposits not redeposited in banks have increased by nearly 900 millions, and money in circulation outside of banks has increased by 1½ billions. Accordingly, the available cash resources of the public are altogether only about 3 billions—or 5 per cent—less than they were in 1929."

Szymczak to "Educate" Public.

Szymczak was recently designated by the board to handle "education" of the public. He has made numerous speeches throughout the country.

The four new members of the board have not publicly entered into the Roosevelt campaign thus far, although one of them, Joseph A. Broderick, visited bankers in Chicago, Cleveland, and Minneapolis during the last few days.

At the Wharton school luncheon today two University of Pennsylvania economists, Dr. Ernest Minor Patterson and Dr. F. Cyril James, voiced warnings that uncontroled inflation might result from current government expenditures. Both urged immediate reductions. Dean Joseph H. Willits warned against the pressure being exerted by minority groups to influence public opinion through propaganda.

Marshall Field Chairman to Address Economic Club

James O. McKinsey, chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co., will speak on "Management Problems Under Present Conditions," and Frederick H. Wood of New York City will speak on "Government Interference with Business" at the ninth annual meeting of the Economic Club of Chicago at the Palmer house Tuesday night, May 26. Wood argued and won the NIRA case before the United States Supreme court and also argued against the Guffey coal act, which is now awaiting Supreme court decision.

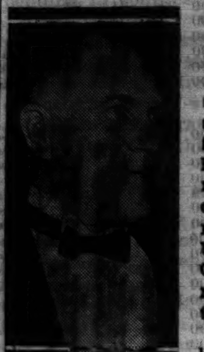
Cook County Real Estate Transfers Exceed Year Ago

Real estate transfers for April totaled 4,367, with a stated consideration of $7,574,290, according to the monthly report of Edward J. Kaindl, recorder of deeds for Cook county. This compares with 4,125 in April, 1935, with a total consideration of $7,034,774, a gain for last month over the same month last year of 242 transfers and $539,516 in value.

Calls Spending, Taxes Barrier to Good Times

BY WILLIAM YATES.

The New Deal's program of excessive government spending and mounting taxation is the biggest stumbling block to a return of normal business activity and employment faced today, Fred H. Clausen, chairman of the federal finance committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, said here today.



FRED H. CLAUSEN.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Executives' club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman, Clausen, who is president of the Van Brunt Manufacturing company, declared the United States must conduct its fiscal affairs as does an individual, balancing income and expenditures, if it hopes to survive.

"Business is more concerned with spending and taxes than with any other activity of the administration," Clausen asserted. "Many experiments, if they fail, can be discarded and the scar will heal. Spending, once incurred, must be paid for. That scar cannot heal.

Raps "Spending to Prosperity."

"The debts might be repudiated, or inflation resorted to, but business does not want this. The theory of 'spending to prosperity' is fallacious. It cannot work with a government any more than it can with an individual."

Clausen assailed many so-called make work projects of the administration as "crimes of extravagance and bad judgment," and urged business men to become vociferous in protest.

"We must cry out against such efforts as spending 7 million dollars to harness the moon," he said. "The Florida ship canal, even to many citizens of that state, is just one more river for the tourist to cross. Millions are being wasted on nonproductive exploits, such as theatrical and circus performances. It looks as though the man on the flying trapeze has obtained overhead support from the government."

Calls Tax Bill Impractical.

Clausen declared the New Deal's 1936 tax bill, now pending before congress, is wholly unworkable. It will not raise the revenue intended and will have dire consequences on business if enacted in its present form, he said.

"If its intent is to put business in the hands of the government, then the bill is logical," he continued. "If it is designed to change the social order at a time when stability is vitally needed to effect recovery, then it will achieve its purpose.

"But as it stands, it will do more than anything else to prevent restoration of employment in the heavy goods industries; it will weaken the soundness of many corporations; it will favor the well established company at the expense of those struggling for existence; and will raise the peaks of federal revenue in years of prosperity and deepen the valleys in years of depression.

Deficits Despite Higher Taxes.

"This is the fourth tax increase and the fifth tax measure applied to business since 1932. After each added impact we still find the government with a deficit. This fiscal year we will experience the largest revenues, the largest expenditures and the largest deficit in the peacetime history of the country. Managers of private business would not think of meeting such a situation by limiting their efforts to increased assessments on their stockholders. That is why business men are out of step with this bill."

Answering the President's recent challenge to industry that it restore normal employment by absorbing the present unemployed, variously estimated between 9,500,000 and 12,000,000 persons, Clausen said in normal times only 11,700,000 of the 48,800,000 persons gainfully employed were engaged in manufacturing industries and that industrial employment is now 83 per cent of normal.

Flails Federal Competition.

"To demand that industry absorb the unemployed is a misunderstanding of the problem," he charged. "In addition, we are asked to do this while the government is simultaneously advancing principles which prevent carrying out that demand.

"Government competition with private industry is reducing corporate income and at the same time increasing taxes to pay for federal activities. The whole system is unfair to industry and the public."

ROOSEVELT MAY ASK EXTENSION OF EASTMAN'S JOB

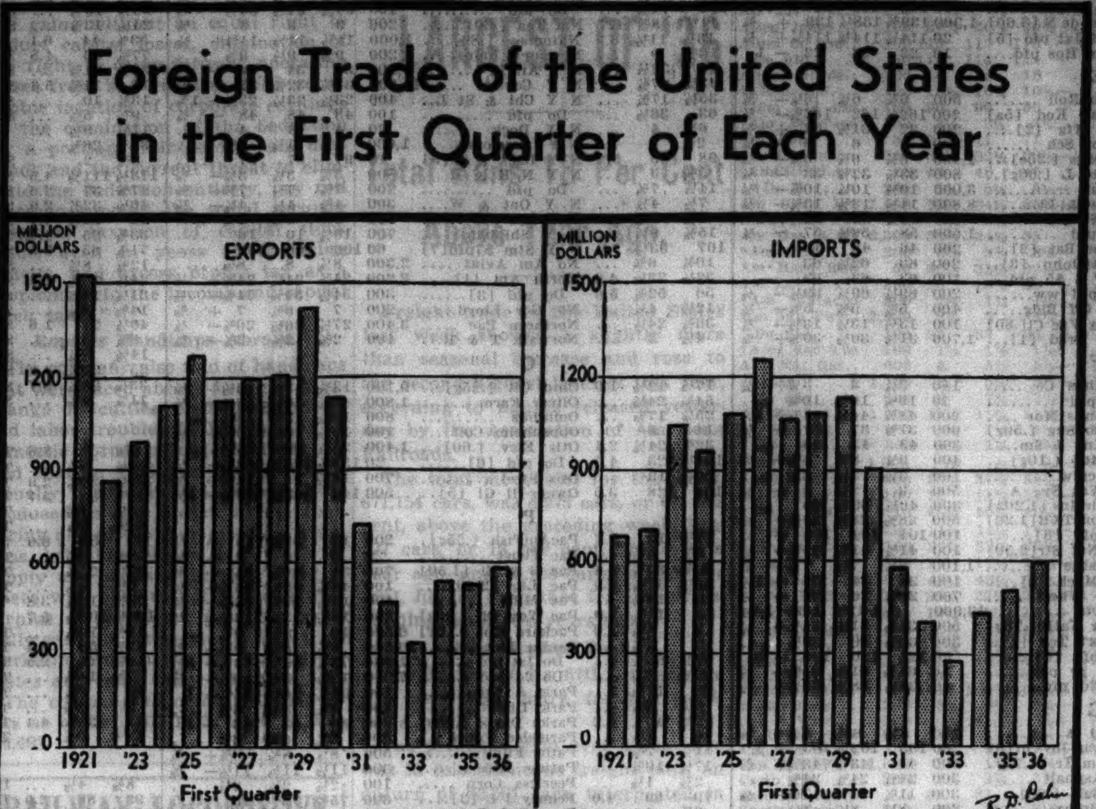
New York, May 8.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is expected to send a special message to congress soon urging the extension of Coördinator of Transportation Joseph Eastman's term of office for another year, it was learned today.

The President, it is believed, will point out the need for such an official to act as an intermediary among management, labor and the government. Eastman is also a member of the interstate commerce commission.

The federal coördinator act expires June 16 and, although Eastman expressed a desire for a five year term, it is probable that the president will recommend a one year tenure.

Chicago Corporation Votes Usual Preferred Dividend

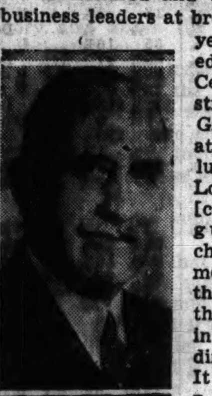
Directors of the Chicago corporation yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the preferred stock, payable June 1 to stock of record May 15.



New I. C. Train on St. Louis Run Goes 106 MPH

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

One hundred and twenty Chicago business leaders at breakfast at home yesterday, boarded the Illinois Central's new streamliner, the Green Diamond, at 8 a. m., had luncheon in St. Louis at noon [central time] as guests of the chamber of commerce there, and then returned on the same train in time to have dinner at home. It was just 6:53 p. m. when the train came to a stop in the 12th street station.



R. H. CABELL. [Moffett Photo.]

In what was said to be the first non-stop revenue passenger trip between the two cities, the business men spent 4 hours and 25 minutes on the train southbound and 4 hours and 18 minutes northbound. Scheduled to make the 294 mile run in 4½ hours, the train was five minutes early in arriving in St. Louis, and after having its departure from St. Louis delayed 5 minutes, reached Chicago 12 minutes ahead of schedule.

Reaches 106 Miles an Hour.

The train reached its top speeds of 105 and 106 miles an hour on the north bound trip, near Divernon and Ridgeville, Ill. On the northbound run the average speed was more than 68 miles an hour. The Burlington's Zephyrs make the 531 miles to St. Paul at an average speed of 66.3 miles per hour.

The weather was hot when the Chicagoans left yesterday morning and it was hotter when they got off the Green Diamond in St. Louis. But on the train summer resort kind of weather prevailed.

Some of these Chicagoans, a number of whom direct the affairs of some of the nation's greatest enterprises, played bridge on their day off from the office. Others sang, accompanied by Allan S. Noyes, La Salle street broker, on an accordion. Others just talked. Among the choristers were B. F. Affleck, president of the Universal Atlas Cement company, and George W. Rossetter, former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and head of the accounting firm bearing his name.

Armour Chief on Train.

R. H. Cabell, Armour & Co.'s president, enjoyed the conversation of railroad officials at the tail end of the train. Some of the English expressions which he picked up in his long stay in London before taking the helm of the big packing firm, clung to him as he questioned the railroad men about the train. "How much does this carriage weigh in comparison with regular carriages?" he asked, in referring to the passenger cars.

In St. Louis, Alfred Fairbank of the chamber of commerce welcomed the Chicagoans and described the trip as epoch making since it marked a time when Chicagoans could hang a sign on their doors saying they had taken the train to St. Louis for lunch but would be back in time for dinner.

'FUTURES TRADE' IN STUDENTS IS SUGGESTED

Boulder, Colo., May 8.—[Special.]—Envisioning the happy day when companies will bid against each other for the services of students leaving schools of business administration, Robert P. Boylan, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, today suggested that it may be necessary to establish a futures market in graduates.

A company would then be assured delivery of a contract grade graduate during the month he left school, Boylan said in a speech at the annual "business day" program at the University of Colorado.

The 1936 "crop" of university graduates, he said, will find a heartier welcome from business and industry than their predecessors of the depression years.

NEW YORK BANKS PLAN TO INCREASE RATES ON CALL AND TIME LOANS

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—The larger banks expect to advance their lending rate for call money and for time loans on Monday to 1 and 1¼ per cent, respectively, it was learned today.

As a result of informal conversations between officers during the last few days, the principal institutions have decided to attempt to place in effect on Monday morning a rate of 1 per cent for new and existing call loans, compared with a present rate of three-quarters of 1 per cent.

For time money the rate of 1¼ per cent compares with a present rate of 1. The quotation for loans against exclusively government securities collateral would be increased from one-half of 1 per cent to three-quarters of 1 per cent.

It was reported the banks would not lend for the account of out-of-town institutions, which, were the rate advanced to 1 per cent, would be able to net one-half per cent after payment of the one-half of 1 per cent commission fixed for such correspondent lending under clearing house rules.

NO CHANGE IN CHICAGO.

Chicago bankers indicated yesterday that they knew of no official action to boost call and time loan rates in New York on Monday. Even if this action is taken rates in Chicago will not be affected, they pointed out, as the call rate here is already 1½ per cent and there is no corresponding rate here for the time loan rate expected to be boosted in New York.

RETAIL TRADE VOLUME FALLS IN LAST WEEK

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Retail sales slackened perceptibly this week, with all leading cities of the country reporting a smaller turnover than in the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today. Some localities reported sales under those of the corresponding week a year ago.

"Both seasonal factors and unfavorable weather conspired against a continuance of the retail sales advance," said the weekly review. "The recession was most marked in women's wear. Demand for men's clothing, furnishings, sport goods, and shoes continued strong. House furnishings, paint, wall paper, furniture, and rugs showed more than a seasonal gain, and sales of automobiles, tires, and accessories continued to expand.

"Buying of silverware and jewelry for graduation and wedding presents increased and sales of other gift items and candies were stimulated by purchases for Mothers' day."

The volume of retail distribution for the nation was fixed by the review at 4 to 9 per cent above that of the corresponding week in 1935. Retail sales for the middle west were estimated 9 to 12 per cent higher than a year ago.

"Following the spurt of last week most of the wholesale markets turned quiet this week," the review said.

CHICAGO RETAIL FURNITURE MEN ELECT OFFICERS

The Chicago Retail Furniture association yesterday elected the following officers at a meeting in the American Furniture Mart: President, Earl Rusnak of Rusnak Bros., Inc.; first vice president, L. W. Stratton of Wieboldt Stores, Inc.; second vice president, Frank Stern of the Dale Furniture company; treasurer, Jurgen Petersen of the Petersen Furniture company, and secretary, William Jansen of the Jansen Furniture company.

The following directors were elected: G. Engelhardt, Alex Revell Jr., S. I. Frank, Milton Fish, Jack Bernstein, Edward Bass, Jack Schram, Francis T. Shiverick, Arnold Kobzina, A. Stiefel, George Thorp, Roscoe R. Rau, and George W. Rockwood.

Banco di Napoli Trust to Pay $8 Extra Dividend

Declaration of an extra dividend of $8 a share by the Banco di Napoli Trust company of Chicago was announced yesterday by Dr. Joseph Quattrone, president. The bank has 3,000 capital shares of $100 par value, on which regular dividends of $6 annually have been paid without interruption. The extra dividend is payable to stockholders of record May 7.

A. M. Andrews Loses Appeal in Hupp Deals

Cincinnati, O., May 8.—[Special.]—Severely criticizing contracts entered into by Archie M. Andrews and the Hupp Motor corporation, of which he formerly was chairman, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld Judge Arthur J. Tuttle in his opinion that the contracts were "unconscionable and fraudulent."

The contracts gave Andrews certain stock options and also a percentage on the sales of cars over a certain number.

Never Lawfully Approved.

The stock option contract of Aug. 23, 1934, was termed invalid because it was never lawfully adopted by the directors or ratified by the stockholders, and because the provisions continuing the appellant's [Andrews'] rights to exercise the option in the event of a merger was concealed from the stockholders.

The court said the circumstances surrounding the contract for a percentage of sales "indicate the utter disregard of appellant and other members of the old board for the true interests of Hupp." The contract was approved March 19, 1935, by the old board of directors and rejected May 6, 1935, by the new board.

Plans to Resume Operation.

Detroit, Mich., May 8.—[Special.]—The Hupp Motor corporation will take prompt steps to resume operation which were suspended late last year because of inadequate working capital, Alex J. Groesbeck and J. Walter Drake, directors of the company, said today after learning of the court decision in Cincinnati condemning contracts of Archie M. Andrews, former chairman of the Hupp board.

"The decision will have a very salutary effect," said Groesbeck. "We expect to arrange for new working capital without difficulty now. When that is done we will be in a position to resume production within thirty days."

Applications were made several months ago for a loan of $1,500,000 from the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago and for permission from the securities and exchange commission to issue 193,463 shares of stock. Action was delayed pending disposition of the Andrews case.

SEC IS PROBING MARKET ACTION IN AUTO STOCKS

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Several well known New York brokerage houses are under investigation by the Securities and Exchange commission for alleged manipulation in stocks, it was revealed today upon inquiry at the office of the commission.

While the federal agency continued its policy of secrecy, it was admitted that the price movements of certain leading automobile company stocks are the basis for several of the inquiries. Whether grounds for citation by the commission exist, however, will depend, it was said, upon the outcome of the inquiries.

The commission, it was explained, does not make public the names of firms or stocks being investigated unless an actual citation is issued, since the activities may be found not to be illegal. Disclosures of the inquiry into automobile stocks surprised a part of the speculative element in Well street, who had been led to believe that the commission had been restricting its recent activities to unimportant stocks.

LEHMAN GROUP BUYS STOCK IN CANADIAN FIRM

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—Lehman Brothers and the Lehman corporation have acquired privately a substantial block of shares of Anglo-Huronian, Ltd., a mining development and investment company active in the mining industry in Canada since its formation in October, 1933, it became known today.

In addition to the private deal, the board of directors of Anglo-Huronian at a meeting held in London on May 6 sold to Lehman Brothers and the Lehman corporation a block of 50,000 shares of treasury stock and granted an option on 150,000 shares for one year.

Anglo-Huronian has large investments in new mining ventures, as well as a portfolio of mining and general investment securities.

LABOR LEADERS CLASH ON PLANS FOR STEEL UNION

Federation to Start Campaign Soon.

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Bitter rivalry for the privilege of attempting to organize the steel workers of the nation broke out today between the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization, of which John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, is chairman.

JOHN L. LEWIS.

The executive council opened the hostilities by sending a letter to the convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers in Canonsburg, Pa., announcing the terms under which it would undertake an organizing effort, which was decided upon at the last two federation conventions. The letter, signed by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, excluded the industrial union group from consideration by declaring unequivocally that the executive council would conduct the campaign only if it were "free from interference on the part of any group or groups either within or outside the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor."

Lewis Assails Council.

On learning of the letter Lewis promptly sent a telegram to the steel workers' convention in which he declared the council's statement was a "rehash" of resolutions adopted from time to time, charged that such a policy would fill the industry with a horde of organizers attached to craft unions competing for new members, and declared that the leaders of the drive would be men who had shown their incapacity for this work in the past.

The messages were sent as a result of a visit by a committee of the steel workers' convention to confer with the council and the Committee for Industrial Organization. The latter several months ago proposed to the A. F. of L. that a fund of $1,500,000 be raised to organize the steel industry and offered to advance $500,000 of this sum if the organization were conducted along industrial lines.

Proposed to Workers.

Meeting with no success, the committee made the same proposal to the steel workers at Canonsburg last week. The convention decided to canvass the situation further and sent a committee to Washington last Tuesday. The committee promised to make a report to the convention, which has the final decision as to which proposal will be accepted.

On giving out the council's message to the convention at noon today Green said it was proposed to open organizing offices week after next in Pittsburgh and Gary, Ind., to assign organizers from the federation and allied unions to work, and that ultimately 80 organizers would be available for the drive. The funds would come, he said, from contributions made "unconditionally" by the affiliated unions.

Criticizes Lewis' Group.

While the council was framing the steel organization plans, John P. Frey, president of the American Federation of Labor metal trades department and a craft union leader, assailed the Lewis committee.

Organization of the committee, Frey said in a statement, "opened the door of opportunity for the communist party to play a direct part in connection with a trade union organizing campaign."

"Already the communist party has sent numbers of its trained workers into the iron, steel, automobile, and other industries to preach the necessity for coöperation with the Lewis committee on the industrial basis with communism temporarily a side issue," Frey added.

I. C. C. PUTS LIMIT ON PROTECTIVE RAIL COMMITTEES

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—Persons seeking service on protective committees for securities of railroads in reorganization must show not only that "nothing objectionable is intended," but also that there is need for such a committee and that they are qualified to serve, the interstate commerce commission's bureau of finance ruled today.

The bureau's views were set forth in a proposed report to the commission urging rejection of an application by Charles H. Thornton, James M. Kemper, and A. J. Sevin to constitute themselves a protective committee for holders of junior securities of the Missouri Pacific railroad now in process of reorganization.

The committee had sought the commission's permission to act for holders of $61,532,000 of Missouri Pacific bonds and 1,546,396 shares of common and preferred stock of $100 par value.

Gen. Household Utilities Hearing on Fees Delayed

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday postponed until May 15 a hearing on the petitions for fees and compensation in connection with the reorganization of General Household Utilities company.

Gen. Motors April Sales Set Records

April sales to dealers by the General Motors corporation were the largest for any month in the company's history, it was announced yesterday.

Total sales of cars and trucks in the United States, Canada, and overseas last month amounted to 229,467 units, compared with 196,721 in March and 184,059 in April last year.

April sales to consumers in this country alone aggregated 200,117 cars, against 181,782 in March and 143,909 in April a year ago. Sales to dealers in the United States during the month totaled 194,695 units, compared with 162,418 in March and 152,946 in April last year.

The previous high record for world dealer sales was 227,718 cars and trucks in April, 1929.

Other Sales Records Made.

The April figures for sales to dealers and consumers in the United States also established new monthly high marks. The previous high for sales to consumers was 186,892 in May, 1928, and the best previous month for sales to dealers was April, 1929, when 176,634 units were sold.

Monthly sales to dealers in the United States, Canada, and overseas for the last three years are shown in the following table:

	1936.	1935.	1934.
January	158,572	98,268	62,506
February	144,874	121,140	100,848

Sales for Four Months.

For the first four months of 1936 world dealer sales totaled 729,634 units, compared with 572,775 in the corresponding period a year ago.

Sales to consumers for the four months aggregated 580,067 cars and trucks, against 402,002 for the same four months of 1935.

Sales to dealers in the United States for the period amounted to 605,009 units, compared with 454,202 units for the same months last year.

The April showing in all classification indicated a further draft on supplies in the hands of dealers.

Output Higher This Week.

Automobile production in the United States and Canada climbed slightly this week, reports of two leading statistical agencies indicated. Ward's Reports, Inc., placed output at 117,804 units, compared with 117,150 last week, and Cram's Reports, Inc., estimated assemblies at 118,786, compared with 118,764 a week earlier and 87,395 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Ward's placed April production at 508,456 passenger cars and trucks, and Cram's said assemblies were "past the 515,000 mark." Neither agency estimated May output, but Ward's commented that production will be well ahead of earlier estimates.

Dealers' Orders Continue Heavy.

"This circumstance," Ward's said, "is ascribed to a continued volume of dealer orders at factories and retail deliveries, which are expected to range between 425,000 and 450,000 units in May. June may cling to the heels of May figures. Virtually all signs point to an extended selling season.

"Dealer stocks continue in good shape, although shortages are evident in some localities. Several factories are confronted with backlogs which will keep their assembly lines at full pace for a good share of the year."

PANAMA TO PAY U. S. IN DOLLARS, COLLECT IN GOLD

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Because of the gold reserve act of 1934, the United States has agreed to accept payments due from Panama on July 1 in present American dollars instead of pre-revaluation gold coin worth some 60 per cent more.

Wilbur J. Carr, assistant secretary of state, said today that Panama on that date, in accordance with awards made by the Panama-American claims commission, will pay the United States $111,246 for distribution to 19 American claimants.

Panama, faced with a similar question arising from revaluation and conflicting treaty provisions, refused to accept checks for $250,000 at present dollar values and—under a new treaty—will hereafter receive payments of approximately $450,000 annually for Panama canal rental instead of the $250,000 in gold coin specified in the old treaty.

POLAND'S BANK CHIEF RESIGNS; FIGHTS INFLATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, May 8.—Adam Koc, president of the Polish state bank, resigned his post today, leaving the road open for the government to inflate the zloty.

Koc, one of Poland's leading sound money men, strongly opposed financial experiments. His resignation leaves the government with only one remaining member of the original Pilsudski group that has governed Poland since 1926—Foreign Minister Josef Beck.

The government today denied planning general inflation but officials admitted that bank note issues have been enlarged to finance a program of public works.

FALL OF FRANC CAUSES FEAR OF GOLD EMBARGO

More Metal Engaged for Export to U. S.

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—The foreign exchange market floundered in confusion today as the flight from the French franc gained momentum. With the approach of the week-end fears of a possible gold embargo increased.

Engagements of gold in Paris for shipment here today amounted to only $10,395,000, a substantial decline from the rate of engagements in previous days; but this falling off was explained as due to increased nervousness on the part of banks about making commitments over the week-end. Including today's engagements a total of $124,700,000 gold has been taken from France for shipment here since April 24. Shipments of $10,179,000 were received today.

Socialists Statement Awaited.

As a clew of what is in store for the franc, New York bankers are awaiting the outcome of a meeting of the victorious French socialists scheduled for Sunday. It is expected following this meeting a statement of the plans of the socialist group may be forthcoming. If this statement implies any radical moves when the "Leftist" parties come into power next June, the flight from the franc may at once become overwhelming, bankers here believe, while if no statement of intentions is issued the uncertainty surrounding the future of the franc will merely be deepened.

Bear speculators against the franc are facing a possible severe squeeze next week when, it is estimated, some 300,000,000 francs, sold for forward delivery over the last few months, will have to be covered. Franc exchange deliverable tomorrow, rose sharply in the face of continued weakness of the spot contract, calling for delivery of the francs on Monday, and an acute decline in 30-day and 90-day contracts.

Close Is Unchanged.

The spot rate on French francs dipped to 6.58¼ cents, which is below the gold import point, but closed unchanged at 6.58⅝ cents, under the influence of official support. In contrast, franc exchange for delivery today was bid for as high as 6.59¾ cents in this market and was reported to be sought in Paris at rates as high as 6.61 cents.

The gathering distrust of the franc was most strongly shown, however, in the quotations for forward contracts. The discount on 30-day futures was 30 points, equal on an annual basis to about 55 per cent, while that on 90-day futures was 54 points, or 5 points wider than on Thursday and equal on an annual basis to about 32 per cent. These quotations indicated that interests having French money due them were hastening to get rid of the exchange, even at a heavy sacrifice.

Dutch and Swiss Moneys Fall.

While gold continued to flow from Paris the prospect of an additional influx from The Netherlands and Switzerland was opened up by a severe decline in the currencies of those countries. Reports from abroad said $2,000,000 gold had already been taken in Holland for shipment here, but there was no confirmation of these reports locally.

The fall of the guilder carried that currency to 67.42 cents, the lowest price since November, 1935, and about 19 points under the theoretical gold-import point. Dutch exchange closed at 67.47 cents, off 23 points net. Swiss francs fell to 32.29 cents, compared with a gold import point of 32.35 cents, off 16 points net. The Swiss currency had not been so cheap as this since March, 1935.

While the gold bloc currencies were thus dropping, sterling and the currencies allied to it were forced up by the pressure of funds seeking to escape from the franc. The pound rose to $4.99¼, the highest price since March 6, and closed at 4.99⅛, up 2⅛ cents. The belga advanced 2 points to 17.03 cents, or 8 points over parity. The Canadian dollar remained at par.

Will Change Trade Rules.

In an effort to broaden the foreign exchange market here and to attract business from London, the world center, the foreign exchange brokers of this city will put into effect on May 15 a new system of commissions and trading rules, modeled on those in force in the British market. Commissions will be paid by both buyer and seller of exchange at fixed rates. Hitherto the seller alone has paid the commission and no rigid schedule of charges was enforced.

Under the new rules spot sterling will be dealt in in units of £10,000 and quoted in fractions of 1-16th cent a pound and both buyer and seller will pay a commission of $5. The franc will be traded in units of 1,000,000 francs, quoted in sixteenths of a point and will call for a commission of $5 from both buyer and seller.

STOCKS SLUMP; TRADE LIGHTEST SINCE AUGUST

French Situation Main Market Factor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 8.—With a brilliant sun beating down on Wall street, the temperature was the only thing that displayed rising tendencies today as traders appeared more inclined to doze than to deal in stocks. A ragged performance was the result, with the list closing irregularly lower.

Comparatively little ticker tape was used as trade dragged through the five hours to record total sales of only 779,830 shares—the smallest volume for any full trading session since August 30 of last year. Professional operators were responsible for a major share of the business transacted, with the rank and file of traders moving to the side lines to await new developments.

Eye French Situation.

Especially are the eyes of the financial community trained on the monetary situation in France, with the prospect of devaluation being increased by the action of the French government in curbing dealings in franc futures. Another factor was a report the banks plan an advance in time and call money rates.

General Motors, with its sales report for April showing an increase of nearly 25 per cent over a year ago and 16 per cent over March, met good demand, but was unable to advance more than a small fraction. Chrysler held firm around its previous closing levels, with most other members of the group steady to slightly higher.

Railroad shares found the road rough despite another rise in car loading figures, and final quotations were generally a little lower. Farm implement shares were mixed, with the losses far exceeding the gains. Case and Caterpillar were the weakest, the former declining 3 points and the latter losing 2¼.

Steel Shares Lower.

Steel shares were uniformly lower. With lower prices being set for scrap metal, United States Steel gave up a sizeable fraction and Bethlehem followed. Crucible Steel faded 2½ points to equal its low for the year on a single sale.

Chemical shares were heavy. Allied Chemical, Monsanto, and Columbia Carbon each gave up 2 points or more. Du Pont resisted the trend to finish fractionally higher.

Westinghouse Electric moved up 1⅝ points in the pivotal group, and American Telephone scored an advance of 1¾. Some other stocks to gain a point or more included General Cigar, Louisiana Oil preferred, May Department Stores, Colorado and Southern, and American Snuff.

Dividend News Favorable.

Dividend news was construed as favorable. Commercial Investors Trust boosted its rate, and the stock, after advancing to a new high of 82¾, fell back to close fractionally lower.

Philip Morris ignored the general sluggishness of the tobacco group and spurted ahead 3⅝ points.

Hazel Atlas Glass cracked up to record a loss of 10 points on one sale, while Owens recorded a loss exceeding a point. Oils were mixed and coppers lower.

REPORTS OF GOOD RAINS LOWER COTTON PRICES

Speculative interest in cotton was at a minimum yesterday, with the new crop months easing early in sympathy with Liverpool and on reports of good rains in northern Texas and in Oklahoma. The trade bought the May delivery. A rally from the lowest figures came toward the close, with final prices in Chicago 1 point higher to 5 points lower, while other markets were 4 points higher to 5 points lower. [A point is equal to 1-100 cent.]

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points higher, with New Orleans and Houston 11.60 cents, Galveston 11.55 cents, and New York at 11.65 cents per pound. Prices follow:

AGGRESSIVE BUYING LIFTS EGG PRICES; BUTTER DULL

Comparatively light receipts of eggs here and at New York, a firm undertone in the spot market, and the into storage movement failing to equal that of last year brought in more aggressive buying of futures on the mercantile exchange yesterday. Prices advanced sharply, with the October delivery closing ½ cent higher at 23⅜ cents per dozen to equal the best figure of the season. Sales of futures were 80 cars.

A government report showed receipts of 224,145 cases of eggs at 239 packing plants for the week ended May 2, compared with 216,566 cases for the preceding week and 265,312 cases a year ago.

Butter futures were dull and steady, with the November delivery closing unchanged at 27⅛ cents per pound. No purchases of spot butter by the government were reported. Sales of futures were 11 cars. Prices follow:

APRIL HIGH MARK SET BY SPIEGEL, MAY, STERN SALES

Other Concerns Show Gains for 1st Quarter.

Net sales of the Spiegel, May, Stern company for April totaled $3,795,637, compared with $3,299,647 in April, 1935, an increase of 15.03 per cent, it was announced yesterday by M. J. Spiegel Jr., general manager.

This was the largest volume for any April in the history of the company and marked the thirty-ninth consecutive month in which sales expanded over the corresponding month of the preceding year, Spiegel said. For the first four months of this year sales amounted to $11,242,801, compared with $9,285,707 for the same 1935 period, an upturn of 21.07 per cent.

Sales of the J. C. Penny company for April were $19,759,156, compared with $17,591,998 in April of 1935, a gain of 12.32 per cent. Sales for the four months this year were $63,703,416, compared with $58,068,325 for the corresponding period of last year, a gain of 9.7 per cent. In both instances the totals were the highest ever recorded.

Western Union Income Climbs.

The Western Union Telegraph company reported for the March quarter net income of $964,686, equal to 92 cents a share on the capital stock, compared with $204,100, or approximately 20 cents a share, in the March quarter last year.

The General Baking company reported for the first three months net income of $394,973, equal after preferred dividend requirements to 14 cents a share on the common stock. This compares with $464,396, or 18 cents a common share, in the same quarter last year.

The Continental-Diamond Fiber company reported for the first quarter net income of $45,719, equal to about 14 cents a share, compared with $15,214, or approximately 5 cents, a year ago.

Two Utilities Earn More.

The United Light and Power company yesterday reported consolidated net income for the twelve months ended March 31 of $3,093,039, equivalent to $5.15 a share on the $6 preferred stock, compared with $769,165, or $1.28 a share on the preferred, in the preceding year.

Operating income of the Associated Gas and Electric company and subsidiaries totaled $32,769,763 for the twelve months ended Feb. 29, compared with $32,675,795 for the corresponding period a year earlier.

The General Steel Castings corporation reported first quarter net loss of $622,983, against net loss of $493,235 in the March quarter, last year.

Other Earnings Improve.

Superheater company reported net income of $263,644 for the quarter ended March 31, equal to 30 cents a share on capital stock, compared with $180,433, or 20 cents a share, in the March quarter, last year.

The Louisiana Land and Exploration company reported for the year ended Dec. 31, 1935, net income of $973,135, equal to 32 cents a share on capital stock, against $460,693, or 15 cents a share, in 1934.

The Reed Roller Bit company reported March quarter net income of $348,696, equivalent to $1.74 a share of capital stock.

BOND GROUP HERE ASKS HIGH COURT BLOCK NEW PLAN

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Twenty-eight holders of $63,360 in gold bonds issued in 1928 by S. W. Straus & Co., Chicago, asked the Supreme court today to block a reorganization of the bonds under federal bankruptcy laws in an Illinois Federal court.

Their attorneys said the Straus issue was for $2,225,000 and was backed by proposed erection of a 19 story building in Chicago. They contended "over a million dollars" of this issue had been used to pay interest on the bonds, carrying charges, and commissions, and for a building site without knowledge of the bondholders.

The issue was in the name of the Michigan Boulevard Garage corporation, the bondholder group said, but later the Wabash-Harrison Building corporation was substituted. The minority group asserted they would be forced to exchange bonds for common stock in a voting trust under the reorganization.

Building Corporation Pays 50 Cent Dividend

Distribution of a dividend of $1,480, amounting to fifty cents a share, to the stockholders of the 79th and Racine Building corporation [the Lorraine business block] was announced yesterday by the American Bond and Mortgage bondholders' committees.

ANTI-CHAIN STORE BILL IS DESCRIBED AS 'BOOMERANG'

May Harm Retailers Who Seek Benefits.

The anti-chain store legislation passed by the senate ten days ago may prove a boomerang to the interests it is designed to benefit, the Illinois Manufacturers' association warned yesterday. If enacted, the drastic provisions of the measure may force manufacturers to sell goods only to their large customers, the association said.

The bill would outlaw price discounts for large scale buyers. Sponsors of the measure assert that it will protect the independent retailer from the competition of chain organizations. It was introduced in the senate by Senator Robinson, majority leadere, and was passed May 1 with only perfunctory debate after a less drastic measure, sponsored by Senators Borah and Van Nuys, had been discarded.

Similar Bill in House.

A similar measure, known as the Patman bill, has been reported out favorably by the house judiciary committee. It differs in some respects from the senate bill, but its provisions are equally severe.

The manufacturers association published an opinion by Fyffe and Clarke, its general counsel, expressing the belief that under the provisions of the bill the manufacturer would have the privilege of selecting the customers to whom he chooses to sell. Under such conditions, it was pointed out, the manufacturer may cease selling to the small customers to avoid legal annoyance. Such a step would cut off the source of supply of many small buyers to their own detriment, it was asserted.

Opinion of Counsel.

"The commission, under the bill, may 'fix and establish' quantity limits and revise them from time to time where available purchasers in large quantities are so few as to render the differentials on account thereof, unjustly discriminatory or promotive of monopoly," the opinion of the manufacturerss' counsel said.

"But if the manufacturer chooses only large customers, and this would seem to be his privilege under the specific terms of the bill, and if he makes no differential between them, and if this is not done in restraint of trade, there would appear to be no occasion to 'fix and establish' quantity limits."

As a result, the lawyers said, the bill "may defeat its own purposes and operate to seriously injure the small consumer."

TAX PLAN CURBS ALLIS-CHALMERS PLANT EXPANSION

Milwaukee, Wis., May 8.—[Special.]—Uncertainty over the tax situation and the probability of new and higher federal taxes is one factor holding up expansion of the Allis-Chalmers manufacturing plans, an expansion needed to provide for the current demand for farm implements and tractors.

Max Babb, president of the company, today confirmed statements made in Washington yesterday by W. H. Story, vice president, testifying before the senate finance committee. Mr. Story told senators the company was contemplating plant expansion, but was uncertain whether it would proced in the face of proposed new taxes.

"The problem of what levy the federal government will impose leaves the company in the dark about the amount of funds that will be left available for a building program," Mr. Babb said.

INSURANCE AGENT ASKS $22,000 FOR AIDING MERGER

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopwood of Columbus, O., appealed today to the Supreme court to award him $22,000 for a form letter he mailed in 1922.

Hopwood said the letter eventually resulted in merger of the Abraham Lincoln and Springfield Life Insurance companies in 1931, with the former acquiring $66,000,000 of insurance. Both companies were located in Springfield, Ill.

The Columbus insurance broker admitted that success of his form letter was "a coincidence," but insisted that it had caused the merger of the two companies, located in the same city, which had been "rather antagonistic rivals of each other."

An Ohio federal court jury awarded Hopwood $22,000 in his suit against the Lincoln company but the sixth federal Circuit court reversed this and ordered a directed verdict against him.

HIGH TAX, WAGES TO CLOSE SILK DYEING PLANTS

New York, May 8.—[Special.]—It was disclosed in an authoritative quarter here that the United Piece Dye works, largest silk dyeing concern in the United States, will close its plants at Lodi and Hawthorne, N. J., and move either to New England or the south. High taxes, union wages, and numerous strikes were given as reasons.

It was said that one mill employing 750 persons will shut down within two weeks, and another employing 2,500 will be closed by August.

Company officials said that the concern is operating at a loss of $150,000 a month and last year lost $2,470,510. Its surplus of $9,000,000 in 1932 has shrunk to about $1,000,000. One official said that the organization pays about $1,000 a day in taxes. He added that the development of synthetic products, such as rayon and celanese, has injured the silk industry.

Standard Oil, New Jersey, Tells SEC of Tax Burdens

Washington, D. C., May 8.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in the registration statement it has filed under the securities act for the issuance of $85,000,000 of 25 year 3 per cent debentures, outlined what it believed to be the uncertainty faced by business because of the rapidly increasing total of taxes. It referred specifically to the "current threat" to eliminate entirely deduction for intercorporate dividends in the administration tax bill pending in congress.

The debentures which the company proposes to issue, together with other funds to be supplied by it, are to be used to retire $76,493,500 of 5 per cent preferred stock of Standard Oil Export corporation on June 30 at 110 per cent, this requiring $84,142,850.

Lists Tax Burdens.

"The importance of the rapidly increasing tax bill of industry in the United States is generally apparent," the company said. "The registrant has been equally affected, with other businesses, by such major changes in the taxing statutes in the last five years as elimination of the right to file a consolidated return for a group of affiliated corporations engaged in an integrated business, taxing of capital gains without an equal right to deduct capital losses, elimination of the right to carry forward operating losses from bad years to good years, double taxation of corporate earnings by the elimination of the deduction for a portion of intercorporate dividends and the current threat to eliminate the deduction entirely, pay roll taxes to support the social security program, taxation of capital stock value, even in years of operating deficits, and excess profits tax as a supplement to the income and capital stock taxes."

Reports Handicaps Abroad.

The company also told of handicaps that were faced abroad because of exchange difficulties, trade restrictions, and labor troubles in Mexico. As to domestic production conditions, it said that in 1935 less crude oil not actually needed in the industry was produced in the United States than during any of the four previous years, thus bringing closer a balance of supply and demand in this country. There was, however, it added, still a surplus of petroleum products, especially gasoline, "resulting in unsettled marketing conditions in the United States and some other countries."

The company reported its total assets as of Dec. 31, 1935, were $1,894,914,482.

KRESGE COMPANY TO MODERNIZE STATE ST. STORE

Cost Quarter Million; Leases Corner.

BY AL CHASE.

The S. S. Kresge company has had plans drawn for a quarter of a million dollar modernization program for its store at 10 to 14 South State street, it was learned yesterday. The B-W Construction company has the general contract to remodel the basement, sub basement, and the first, second, and third floors of the six story building. A complete year round air conditioning system will be one of the features of the rebuilt store.

It is understood that the store will be temporarily closed about June 1 and that the modernized building will be completed within three months. Plans for the remodeling, drawn by Ross L. Henderson, of Detroit, include a new store front.

Leases Corner Store.

The Kresge company also leased for twenty-five years the corner store in a building to be erected at the northwest corner of 63d and Troy streets by the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, from plans by Kocher & Larson. According to Cornelius Teninga, who represented the lessee, the lease is on a minimum guarantee and percentage of gross profits basis.

The new building, work on which will start within a few weeks, will front fifty-four feet on 63d street and 125 feet on Troy. It will cost a reported $40,000 and completion is scheduled for Sept. 1. The Kresge store will be 40x125. John McCarthy represented the owner.

Plan Hospital Addition.

Bids are being taken for a $50,000 two story fireproof addition to the South Chicago hospital, at 2323 East 92d place. F. W. Fischer, architect, has drawn plans for a unit which will add 40 beds to the hospital's present capacity of seventy. According to C. A. Tice, secretary, part of the original hospital unit, built in 1862 for use as a farm house, will have to be wrecked to make room for the addition.

Wreckers are tearing down the north half of the five story Atlas block, owned by the estate of Leander J. McCormick, at the northwest corner of Randolph and Wabash. The Randolph street part of the building will be partially modernized. Eighty-four feet of the Wabash avenue frontage, at the north end and fronting 138 feet on an alley, will be razed, the land to be used for parking.

NEW ARGUMENT FOR CLAIM GIVEN SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., May 8.—(AP)—George F. Bachman, Wichita, Kas., insurance agent, presented to the Supreme court today a legal question which he said had never been passed on. Bachman asked the court to award him $32,500 in commissions from the Illinois Life Insurance company of Chicago, which is in receivership.

It was the duty of the company "to remain solvent," Bachman argued, and because it had not, he contended it "should not be permitted to have the advantage of its own wrong" and escape his contract for commissions.

Under an agency contract with the company in 1919, Bachman said it agreed to pay him a percentage of annual premiums on insurance he had sold, even after his agency terminated.

Bachman appealed from rulings by the seventh Circuit and Illinois federal District court which denied his claim.

National Power Conference Discusses Expansion Plan

Officers and the board of representatives of the National Power conference, formerly the Midwest Power conference, met yesterday at the La Salle hotel to discuss the proposed affiliation of about 50 engineering societies with the conference in the near future. At present the conference, which adopted its new name on May 1, consists of seven engineering societies. Definite plans for the expansion are expected to be made by June 30, according to G. E. Pfisterer, executive secretary of the conference. Frank D. Chase, Chicago, is president.

RAILWAY LOCOMOTIVE AND PASSENGER CAR ORDERS FAR ABOVE '35

The railroads ordered more locomotives and more passenger cars in the first four months of 1936 than were ordered during all of 1935, the Railway Age reported yesterday. Freight car purchases in 1936 had on April 30 reached a point where the conversion of outstanding inquiries into orders would bring the business in that category also above the 1935 total, the publication said.

"Orders for 15 locomotives reported in April brought the 1936 total to 88 as compared with the 83 locomotives ordered during the entire year 1935," the review said. "Included in the 1936 locomotive business are orders for 69 steam locomotives, or nearly two and a half times the number of this type ordered last year."

The paper said that so far this year orders have been placed for 87 passenger cars as compared with 63 for all of 1935. April freight car orders totaled 3,650, which, with an additional 777 ordered since the close of the month, brings the 1936 total to 13,340. This compares with a 1935 total of 18,699, which will be surpassed when inquiries for 8,675 cars outstanding at the end of April, 1936, are converted into orders.

PRICES OF HOGS DROP TO LOWEST IN FOUR MONTHS

The hog market was pounded down 10 to 25 cents further yesterday to the lowest levels in more than four months. Prices were 50 to 60 cents lower than a week ago and $1 under two weeks ago. The average sank to $9.65, the lowest since Jan. 6, when it was $9.35, comparing with $10.20 a week ago and with $10.65 two weeks ago.

Receipts were curtailed sharply by farmers in an attempt to halt the demoralizing decline in prices, but buying orders were cut even more sharply because of the stagnant condition of the wholesale markets for pork.

There was no improvement in the demoralized condition of the cattle trade yesterday. Only 1,500 head arrived, hardly enough for one of the larger packers, but most of the buyers reported they have more cattle and beef than they can dispose of and most of the meager receipts had to be carried over for next week's selling.

Reports from the meat trade were bearish, coolers being loaded with beef carcasses carrying sharply lower bids. No prime long feds were offered, the best in the run going at $8.35. Weakness prevailed in other cattle, but not sufficient business was transacted to warant a change in quotations.

Lambs rose 15 to 25 cents, shippers taking almost 85 per cent of the receipts.

WEEK'S FREIGHT TRAFIC SECOND LARGEST OF '36

Total Runs 18 Per Cent Above Year Ago.

Freight trafic in the United States last week showed a slightly more than seasonal increase and rose to the second highest level of this year, according to figures released yesterday by the Association of American Railroads.

The total movement for the week, 671,154 cars, was 4,973 cars, or 0.7 per cent, above the preceding week, 102,227 cars, or 18 per cent, ahead of a year ago, and 65,908 cars, or 10.9 per cent, higher than that for the corresponding week two years ago.

Sets Another Peak.

The trafic set its fifth consecutive five year high mark for the particular week.

The principal gain over a year ago was in miscellaneous freight with an upturn of 52,501 cars, interpreted in trade quarters as a sign of general business pick-up. Last week's total movement was distributed as follows among the various commodities:

	Total last wk.	—Rise over— prev. wk.	yr. ago.

May 2	671,154	568,927	605,246

Total loadings in the United States since the beginning of this year to May 2 were 11,123,211 cars, compared with 10,375,946 in the corresponding period of last year and 10,510,874 two years ago.

BISHOP MOTORS SUES FORD GROUP UNDER TRUST ACT

The Bishop Motors, Inc., 6718 South Western avenue, Ford dealers, filed suit yesterday in federal court against the Ford Motor company and 93 members of the Authorized Ford Dealers' association, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The case was assigned to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for trial.

Damages of $750,000, triple the $250,000 actual damages claimed in the suit, are asked by the Bishop company, a right granted by the statutes.

The claim of violation of the anti-trust act is based on the charge that the Ford company and the dealers' organization maintain a system of fixed trade-in valuations for used cars, constituting illegal price fixing, the suit charges. The suit terms the system a conspiracy to stifle competition, and states that the Ford company revoked the Bishop company's dealership April 17, leaving the company with a large stock of parts and a long term lease.

LOWER COMMODITY MARTS DEPRESS LARD FUTURES

Weakness in the hog, grain, and cottonseed oil markets, with the latter at a new low for the season, had a depressing effect yesterday on lard futures, which closed at the bottom with net losses of 10 to 15 cents. The May delivery sold at the lowest price since the middle of March. Deliveries of cash lard on May contracts were 200,000 pounds. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed nominally unchanged to 10 cents lower.

Spot lard was quoted at $10.60, loose $9.92½, leaf $9.87½, and clear bellies at $13.75 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

Compare These Rates

This bank is one of the few companies in the country which will lend on the same rates and terms regardless of whether you borrow on a new car or a used one, and, so far as insurance is concerned, Fire and Theft is all we require, although we strongly urge that every car owner insure himself against collision hazards. In all cases we want the insurance to be placed with the borrower's own broker or agent. Premiums may be added to the loan account, the broker paid in full, and the borrower settles up with us in monthly installments.
